E. NATIONAL SOCIALIST WHITE PEOPLE'S PARTY (NSWPP)

The NSWPP, also known as The American Nazi Party, American Nazis, and The George Lincoln Rockwell Party, was organized on February 26, 1956, at Arlington, Virginia, based upon the concept of an international "National Socialist" movement as espoused by the German Nazi Party headed by Adolf Hitler. The organization supports and follows the line of hatred against Negroes, Jews, and communists through various propaganda media seeking a legitimate dominant political party in the United States and foreign countries.

MATTHEW KOEHL, National Commander of the NSWPP, while in Florida during July, 1972, said that he and 100 members of the NSWPP will be at Miami Beach for the RNC to help law enforcement maintain order.

The "Carpetbag Express", undated and city of publication not identified, but probably San Diego, California, contained several articles relating to the RNC, most of which encouraged people to come to Miami for the RNC. The full centerfold contained an announcement, "Confront GOP Convention August 21-24, 1972, Miami". One article states the people in Miami should divide into "affinity groups", especially during "actions". The "affinity groups" are made up of ten people who know and direct each other during actions and are able to act collectively during crises. Actions in Miami will pit people's politics and culture against the "man's system of forced participation". b6 b7C b7D

Grand Jury asks Pomerance about campsite reports

By ED TAYLOR
Miami News Reporter

Miami Beach Police Chief Rocky Pomerance was questioned Tuesday by the Dade County Grand Jury regarding reports that Beach police overlooked violations of law at Flamingo Park during the Democratic National Convention, The Miami News learned today.

It was widely reported that some of the 2,000 young people using the park as a campsite were smoking marijuana and swimming nude in the park's pool.

At that time, the Crime Commission of Greater Miami, a citizens' group, asked for a grand jury probe of the marijuana smoking.

In asking for the investigation, Oliver Bright, president of the commission, said, "The police should be making wholesale arrests and enforcing the state and local laws."

Beach Councilman Jerome Greene and Florida Senate President Jerry Thomas also asked that the laws against smoking pot and nude swimming be enforced at the park.

Pomerance was out of town and could not be reached for comment on the grand jury investigation. He is currently in Los Angeles, taping an appearance on the Merv Griffin television program, a daytime talk show.

A spokesman for Pomerance today described the police chief's approach to handling the park campsite for the Democratic Convention as one of establishing priorities.

"Our first priority was public safety," he said. "When people look back at the convention they will notice there were no crimes against persons in the park. That was our primary goal.

"The campsite siphoned away the protesters from the community and prevented unnecessary confrontations. Our last priority was skinny-dipping and the lower part of the scale was the alleged pot smoking."

It is not known what action, if any, the grand jury may take following its investigation, but speculation exists that it may recommend the strict enforcement of all Beach laws for the Republican National Convention, Aug. 21-23.

This document is the seventh of a series which will summarize information developed by the FBI concerning the potential for disruptive activities targeted at the 1972 national political conventions. Plans, activities, and objectives of protest groups will be reported on a regular basis until the end of the convention period.

The Republican National Convention will be held in Miami Beach, Florida, August 21-24, 1972. During July, 1972, the Democratic National Convention was held at the same site.

OUTLOOK

With the Republican Convention less than a month away, the Youth International Party, Zippies, Vietnam Veterans Against the War, and Miami Conventions Coalition are active in their planning efforts for demonstrations in Miami Beach during the convention period. Chief among the topics being discussed for demonstrations are the Vietnam War, the economy of the Nation, and the rights of women. Current indications are that the protest activity will be larger and better organized than that observed during the Democratic Convention.

The one recurring theme prevalent among those organizing upcoming Miami Beach demonstrations is that of "a massive confrontation with the Administration." Therefore, the majority of the energy being expended by these individuals is presently directed at getting large numbers of persons to travel to Miami Beach to produce this massive confrontation.

ORGANIZATIONS

Youth International Party (YIP)

A new YIP publication, "Unconventional News," has appeared recently in the Miami, Florida, area. Heavily laced with pro-North Vietnamese propaganda, this twelve-page newspaper contains the following "scenario" for YIP activities at the upcoming Republican Convention:

August 18-23	Expose '72 (A "People's World's Fair" of skits and exhibits criticizing the Nixon Administration)
August 20-21	Miami Women's Coalition Day (Discussions, music, workshops, and a "militant women's action" to stress women-related issues)

August 21	Senior citizens' investigation of Nixon Administration policies
	"Let Vietnam Live" (An evening "cultural event" by Vietnamese living in the United States, by Vietnam War veterans, and "others," plus a memorial service for George Jackson, who was slain one year ago during an attempted prison break in California)
August 22	Morning - Continuation of senior citizens' investigation
	Afternoon - "Street Without Joy" (To dramatize the "crimes of the Republican regime," demonstrators to line the route to the Convention Center and display signs and exhibits to delegates en route to the convention meetings)
	Evening - "March Against Murder" (A march to the Convention Center to present "the Poor Peoples' Platform and the Seven Point Peace Proposal of the Provisional Government of South Vietnam")
August 23	"Day of Unacceptance" (A "representative delegation" to go to the Hotel Doral and ask President Nixon's response to "peoples' demands," followed by mass rally in Flamingo Park)

In addition, YIP has reportedly arranged for "The Jefferson Airplane," a popular rock music group, to appear in the Miami area at a fund-raising concert. The date and exact location are not known at this time.

Zippies

On July 16, 1972, the following schedule of events was publicly announced by the Zippies, a faction of the Youth International Party:

August 20	"Dishonor America Day" (A series of events attacking organized religion, the American flag, and motherhood, followed by a "free marijuana" rally)
August 21	"Women!s Day" (Stressing abortion and birth control)
	Repression rally and march (Emphasis on "youth community, prison reform, computer files, police brutality, free speech and assembly")
August 22	"Honor Nixon Day" (Skits accusing President Nixon of representing war, repression, and racism)
	Abortion rally and march
August 23	"Imperialism Day" rally and march (Stressing alleged American imperialism)
August 24	"Celebration of Death" (A march targeted against President Nixon)

Concerning these activities, the Zippies further announced: "YIP - Zippies again vow to oppose mass violence as a tactic. Violence will only reactivate the law-and-order issue, which can only help Nixon. Miami Beach is bad tactically as well. Old people would be hurt. The Zippies cannot bear the heat and cost of mass arrest situations. Fight back and stay free!"

Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW)

VVAW members and sympathizers continue to voice their displeasure with the recent indictment of six VVAW members who have been charged with conspiring to cause riots and disruptions at the Republican Convention. Almost daily during the past two weeks, demonstrations alleging harassment of the VVAW have taken place in St. Petersburg, Florida. On July 24, the demonstrators confronted the local police, and a disturbance developed, resulting in the arrest of two of the demonstrators on charges of "resisting police officers with violence."

VVAW members from Ohio, Arkansas, Missouri, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska, and Illinois reportedly plan to hold meetings at The Lake of the Woods, Champaign County, Illinois, from July 28-30, 1972, to make preparations for going to Miami Beach to protest at the Republican Convention. Following these sessions, the VVAW members plan to meet again at this site August 15-16 to form an automobile caravan to travel to Miami Beach.

Concerning this caravan of VVAW vehicles to the Republican Convention, an FBI source has advised that such caravans are being formed at Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Portland, Oregon. Reportedly, the Los Angeles and Portland groups will meet in Salt Lake City and travel together to St. Louis, with plans to arrive there August 17. The caravan will merge with vehicles from the Midwest and proceed southward, planning to arrive in Jacksonville, Florida, on August 19, where it will join other caravans which have traveled there. The entire group will then proceed as one unit toward Miami Beach. According to the source, the VVAW has a goal of 6,000 vehicles for the final caravan.

Miami Conventions Coalition (MCC)

From July 21-23, 1972, MCC held a series of meetings in Tallahassee, Florida, to "plan and build for the August actions." While emphasis was placed on nonviolent demonstrations, the MCC conferees discussed such "nonviolent" tactics as surrounding the Convention Center to prevent delegates from entering or exiting, the physical take-over of the Hotel Doral, and the use of "affinity squads" (composed of no more than eight persons) to create widespread disturbances. While no final decision was reached to implement any of these plans, those at the MCC meetings did decide that their major protest activities would occur the day President Nixon makes his acceptance speech (presumably August 23).

National Socialist White People's Party (NSWPP)

NSWPP leader Matthew Koehl visited St. Petersburg, Florida, July 9-12, 1972, and remarked to associates he and approximately one hundred NSWPP members would be in the Miami area during the period of the Republican Convention "to offer their support to local law enforcement agencies."

MISCELLANEOUS

A "black coalition" of representatives from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, the National Welfare Rights Organization, and the National Tenants Organization, together with other black organizations, will hold "strategy and planning" meetings in Dallas, Texas, from August 15-18, 1972, with activities at the Republican Convention to be a key item for discussion.

SDS AND THE ANTI-RACISM BILL

From the slaughter of people in Africa, Asia, and Latin America to the oppression of all people, especially black and latin people, in the U.S., the American government has followed and is planning to pursue a profit motivated policy of racist exploitation. SDS and others feel that the main recourse we have is to build a mass movement against the government's genocidal policies. Just as our organization has a range of people from McGovern volunteers to revolutionary communists, the movement we are trying to build involves people writing letters to their congressmen to people organizing mass militant actions. Similar to the anti-war movement of the sixties, SDS is organizing a mass anti-racist movement. For it is by involving a multitude of people with a variety of ideas that we can best build a movement that can and will win.

Right now SDS is circulating an Anti-Racism Bill around the country. This bill outlaws the government's racist and genocidal policies. It can be organized for in a variety of ways, from community referendums to direct militant action. The local campaigns SDS and others are waging around the country against racist police brutality, the war, unemployment, etc., are tied together through this bill into a unified attack against the government. The bill builds the struggles and the struggles build the bill. We want everyone to take copies of the bill back to their school and/or community. Organizing around the bill in whatever way you think best will involve thousands of people across the country. It is through that kind of unity that we find our strength.

SDS is organizing a series of demonstrations and actions during the week of the convention (see the schedule on the other side). We want to confront the government's attacks on black, latin, and asian people in the U.S. and abroad. Everyone is invited to help us organize these actions. Drop by our office or give us a call (see below). Come to these demonstrations and bring everyone you know - SOLIDARITY WITH ALL OPPRESSED PEOPLES! FIGHT RACISM! JOIN SDS!

Students for a Democratic Society, founded in 1962, is a multi-racial, international student organization dedicated to fighting against racism, imperialism, and the oppression of women. We ally with workers and students, internationally, to help build these struggles. We are black, latin, asian, white, and native american. Membership is open to all who want to organize to fight oppression.

Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) was founded during June, 1962, at Port Huron, Michigan, and in the 1960s functioned as the leading New Left campus-based student organization in the United States. From an initial posture of "participatory democracy," SDS moved to a radical-revolutionary position, with debate centering on how best to create a revolutionary youth movement. Internal factionalism produced a split during the SDS National Convention in June, 1969, which resulted in the following three factions: Weatherman; Worker Student Alliance (WSA); and Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM). The Weatherman and RYM are no longer affiliated with SDS. The WSA continues to use the name SDS and maintains its national headquarters in Chicago, Illinois.

Weatherman, formerly a faction of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), controlled the SDS National Office from June, 1969, until its closing in February, 1970. Weatherman then entered an underground status and adopted a tactic of "strategic sabotage," with police and military installations designated as primary targets.

Worker Student Alliance (WSA), a faction of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), was expelled from SDS in June, 1969, by the then dominant Weatherman faction, but continued to use the name SDS and opened an office in Cambridge, Massachusetts. WSA aligned ideologically with the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) and, in February, 1971, moved to Chicago, Illinois, where it opened the SDS National Office at 1225 South Wabash Street.

RYM, a pro-communist revolutionary youth organization, was organized in 1969, first as a faction within the SDS, then as a separate group, with headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia. RYM was unsuccessful in attracting support and by mid-1970, it was practically defunct.

The Progressive Labor Party (PLP) was founded in 1962, by individuals expelled from the Communist Party, USA, for following the Chinese Communist line. Its objective is the establishment of a militant working-class movement based on Marxism-Leninism and MAO Tse-tung thought.

At a conference sponsored by the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) in Detroit, Michigan, on February 19, 1972 - February 21, 1972, Workers Action Movement (WAM) was established as a national organization headquarters in New York, New York, to continue the PLP's efforts to organize workers in the struggle for workers' rights, centering around the campaign for "30 hours work for 40 hours pay".

The Miami Conventions Coalition (MCC) was formed at a national meeting in Washington, D. C., on May 20, 1972, as a coalition of groups planning protest activities at the Democratic and Republican National Conventions. The three groups involved in the MCC are the San Diego Convention Coalition (SDCC), the Florida Peoples Coalition (FPC), and the Miami Liberation Front (MLF).

The SDCC is a group comprised of representatives of various radical organizations in San Diego which was formed for active opposition to the U. S. Government through "serious, determined and long-term social upheaval".

The FPC, also known as the Florida Peoples Platform Coalition, is a statewide organization established as a pressure group to demonstrate at the Democratic National Convention on Miami Beach during July, 1972.

The MLF is a local coalition of students, women and young workers who share a common opposition to racism, sexism, and imperialism. This coalition was organized around the concensus that there must be coordinated non-violent opposition and confrontation at the Democratic National Convention to be held at Miami Beach in July, 1972.

As the youth organization of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP), the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) serves as the main source of recruitment into that organization. The YSA is described in the masthead of its official publication, "The Young Socialist Organizer", as "A multinational revolutionary socialist youth organization".

The SWP has been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

The Vietnam Veterans against the War (VVAW) is a national veterans organization with a national office located in New York City. Its first published objective is "to demand an immediate cessation of fighting and a withdrawal of all American troops from Indochina".

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) has been publicly identified as a civil rights organization headquarters in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Youth International Party (YIP), also known as Yippies, is a loosely knit, anti-establishment, revolutionary youth organization formed in New York City in January, 1968.

Several members of the National Welfare Rights Organization (NWRO) were also observed present at Flamingo Park, but did not seem to be camping at the site.

The NWRO is a civil rights group headquartered in Washington, D. C., which has sponsored protest marches and demonstrations in the past resulting in the arrest of members and leaders.

Among the individuals arriving at the Flamingo Park campsite during the morning of July 8, 1972, was [redacted] local Washington, D. C. (WDC) PLP member, [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

During the late morning of July 8, 1972, approximately [redacted] individuals representing SDS, PLP, and WAM left the campsite and went to the Eden Rock Hotel, Miami Beach, where they picketed a Democratic Convention Luncheon held at the hotel. This picketing was organized by SDS.

DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

During the afternoon of July 8, 1972, individuals affiliated with the YIP and Womens Liberation Movement [redacted] demonstrations around Miami Beach. However, [redacted] Miami [redacted]

The total number of demonstrators at the campsite on July 8, 1972, was approximately 500 and perhaps less since many non-demonstration participants went to the park to see what was going on.

On [redacted] a group of [redacted] members of ABDALA, an organization headquartered at New York City, and composed of exiled Cuban youths critical of the Castro Government in Cuba, and the Soviet economic and military assistance furnished to the Castro government, met at the home Miami ABDALA member [redacted] At this meeting, it was decided that [redacted]

The night before, Miami ABDALA members placed the aforementioned [redacted] She also talked to [redacted] in Washington, D. C., and [redacted] in New York, both affiliated with ABDALA.

DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

[redacted] of ABDALA said he would not take part in the demonstrations in Miami as had been planned because [redacted] members from the ABDALA headquarters in New York, including [redacted] of ABDALA, were planning to be at Miami Beach during the DNC to voice anti-Castro sentiment. b6 b7C b7D

After the meeting, the group went to [redacted] placing stickers in store windows and giving literature to Cubans they met calling for an anti-Castro demonstration on Tuesday, July 11, 1972, at 5:30 p.m.

At 7:30 p.m. [redacted] another meeting of ABDALA was held at the headquarters of the Cuban Municipalities in Exile on Flagler Street, Miami, Florida. [redacted] members of ABDALA were present at the meeting including [redacted]

The action taken by ABDALA in Chicago was mentioned and the group prepared some plans for collecting money for the trial. They also talked about the ABDALA National Convention which will be held in New York City, August 3 to 7, 1972.

After a very short meeting the attendees [redacted] each to go to different areas of Miami City and Miami Beach to distribute literature about the July 11 march and to place stickers in store windows, cars, traffic signs, hotels, and so forth. Some of them carried walky talkies in case any of the groups had any trouble the others could go to their aid.

On July 10, 1972, SDS and PLP sponsored a rally at approximately 1:00 p.m. at Flamingo Park to discuss issues at the DNC. Approximately 400 people attended the rally, however, more than 200 were local people who were hearing the speakers and not taking direct part in the rally.

Among the speakers was an unidentified Mexican female from Los Angeles, California. She spoke against McGovern and in favor of a revolution. She complained of deportations of illegal aliens and of low wages for Mexican farm workers. She called California a "Mexican territory under U. S. occupation". She used obscene language and predicted a violent revolution to overthrow the U. S. government and more Vietnams in Latin America.

Another speaker was an unidentified Puerto Rican living in Chicago and a member of the SDS and PLP. He has been known to attend other demonstrations organized by the PLP and the SDS. For example, he took part in [redacted] organized by the PLP. He called for revolution and for freedom for Puerto Rico. He spoke against McGovern and said that he had never done anything for the workers, and had gone along with all the pro-war legislation of the Johnson administration.

At approximately 7:00 p.m., [redacted] members of ABDALA met at the Miami offices of the "Truth about Cuba Committee" to organize into small groups to leaflet the Miami Beach area with anti-Castro literature calling for an anti-Castro demonstration at Miami and Miami Beach scheduled for [redacted] Among the attendees were Miami ABDALA members Ela Alvarado, Carlos Varona, and Oscarito Fernandez.

At 4:30 p.m., [redacted] a group of approximately 500 Cubans began to gather at the Orange Bowl in Miami City to take buses to Miami Beach where a demonstration was scheduled for 5:30 p.m. in front of the Democratic Convention Center. At the same time, another group of approximately 500 Cubans gathered at the parking lot of Burdines department store in Miami Beach. By 6:30 p.m. approximately 2,500 Cubans and Americans had gathered at the Burdines parking lot to march around the convention center.

DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

The purpose of the demonstration was to express the anti-Castro sentiment of the exiled Cuban community, and to demonstrate to the DNC delegates that they did not want any type of accomodation between Castro's Cuba and the United States.

Among the people present and leading the march were the following people:

By 7:15 p.m. approximately 400 members of the SDS, PLP, WAM, YIP, and other organizations had [redacted] and demanded that George McGovern come down to answer a set of questions on abortion, deportation of illegal aliens, marijuana, hard drugs, the war, and so forth. The leaders of the demonstration were [redacted] of SDS, and [redacted] and leaders of the different groups there. They said that if McGovern did not come down they would go to him in 15 minutes. McGovern came-down and attempted to answer the questions. He agreed with most of the demands made by the demonstrators. Members of PLP and the SDS nevertheless continued to attack McGovern and to accuse him of being a tool of capitalist interests. b6 b7C b7D

Members of the news media were pushed and their equipment broken because they were taking pictures of the demonstration, and because they obstructed the visibility of the demonstrators to where McGovern was standing.

The lobby of the hotel was trashed. Furniture and other decorations were damaged and stickers and propaganda were pasted all over the walls of the lobby. b6 b7C b7D

Pending an appeal, they were released on bond by the United States Court of Appeals, Chicago, Illinois.

Permission was granted the Youth International Party to conduct a parade on June 29, 1972 from 2 PM to 5 PM. The parade was to form on Washington Avenue in front of the Convention Hall and conclude at the Par 3 Golf Course parking lot. The individual who reportedly was given this permit on behalf of the Youth International Party had the name of [redacted] Miami. MM T-4

On June 29, 1972, YIP staged a one hour anti-war protest at Miami Beach, Florida. This consisted of a disorganized march from the front of the Miami Beach Convention Hall to the Par 3 Bayshore Golf Course. About [redacted] persons participated, although at times the line of march exceeded 150, mostly "teenie boppers", or real young teen-agers who followed along. The marchers carried numerous placards bearing anti-war slogans, such as "Will the U. S. Army occupy Miami Beach this summer?", "War Ain't Healthy", "Free Martha Mitchell", "NIXON Is A Sneaky Goy", "War Ain't Right". b6 b7C b7D

RE: YOUTH INTERNATIONAL PARTY

During the line of march the participants staged a show with an anti-war theme. Several of the marchers were in costume and reportedly immitated MARTHA MITCHELL and President NIXON.

At the beginning of the gathering in front of Convention Hall, Miami Beach Mayor CHUCK HALL appeared in his white Rolls Royce convertible and praised the demonstrators for their peaceful actions. Mayor HALL indicated to them that he had been trying to get a golf course for them, and the best way they could do it was by the law.

The march started out with some anti-war singing with obscenities, but this was cut down somewhat at the request of the Mayor. A short mock meeting was held representing the Miami Beach City Council.

[redacted] was dressed in what was reported to be [redacted] and was one of the predominant individuals in this affair.

The marchers concluded the march at the Par 3 Golf Course where they were welcomed by senior citizens carrying a placard "Senior Citizens of Miami Beach Welcome To Non-Delegates With Love".

RE: YOUTH INTERNATIONAL PARTY

The marchers were escorted by policemen on motorcycles. It was peaceful and there was no disturbance of any kind. JERRY RUBIN, who is considered the leader of the YIP movement in Miami, indicated he was pleased with the march and demonstration because of the coverage it received by local and national news media. The only regret of the YIP members, including JERRY RUBIN, was that possibly the march was too long and that Mayor CHUCK HALL of Miami Beach had gained too much of the "spot light" in comparison with themselves.

There are about [redacted] members of YIP now at Miami Beach. Invitations have been extended by the members of YIP to various YIP people throughout the United States to come to the Convention, and at present the estimate is around 300 or 400. b7D

The ZIPs continue to have their headquarters at 3113 Mary Street, Coconut Grove, Miami, and there are about only [redacted] of them and it is not believed very many will show up for the Convention.

ABBIE HOFFMAN departed for New York City about two days ago.

FORE! YIPPIES MARCH IN MIAMI BEACH

BY [redacted] b6 b7C

FOR ABOUT TWO MONTHS NOW, MOVEMENT GROUPS HAVE BEEN NEGOTIATING WITH CITY OFFICIALS OF MIN MIAMI BEACH FOR CAMPSITES AND FACILITIES FOR NON-DELEGATES COMING TO THE CONVENTIONS THIS SUMMER. A LOT OF TALKING WAS ABOUT ALL THAT CAME OUT OF THE MEETINGS AND ALL THE ACTION TOOK PLACE INSIDE AIR-CONDITIONED OFFICES. ON JUNE 29, THE YOUTH INTERNATIONAL PARTY, FRUSTRATED AND RESTLESS FROM WEEKS OF BORING NEGOTIATIONS, DECIDED TO TAKE THE ACTION TO THE MIMM STREETS. IT HAD NEVER BEEN DONE IN MIAMI BEACH BEFORE.

SO ON THE 29TH OF JUNE, THE FIRST DEMONSTRATION IN THE HISTORY OF THE CITY WAS CALLED AND AT LEAST 500 PEOPLE CAME OUT IN THE 95 DEGREE WEATHER TO PARTICIPATE. IT WAS ONE OF THE MOST COLORFUL AND IMAGINATIVE GUERILLA THEATRE MARCHES TO COME OUT OF THE MOVEMENT IN A WHILE -- FILLED WITH COSTUMES, STAGE MAKE-UP AND UNIFORMS OF POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE.

MARTHA MITCHELL, CARRYING A DISCONNECTED TELEPHONE AND BEARING SCARS AND BLACK-AND-BLUE MARKS ON HER LEGS (OBVIOUSLY FROM BEATINGS BY HER HUSBAND) ANNOUNCED THAT SHE WAS FORMALLY JOINING THE YIPPIES, AND JOINED POLICE CHIEF ROCKY POMERANCE, UNCLE SAM, GENERAL CREIGHTON C. BLACKMARKET, JERRY RUBIN, A GI AND SPACE WOMAN (THE FIRST YIPPIE-WOMAN-ASTRONAUT) IN THE FRONT OF THE MARCH. MAYOR CHUCK HALL

OF MIAMI BEACH PULLED UP IN HIS ROLLS ROYCE AT THE DESIGNATED STARTING POINT, CLAIMING HE HAD BEEN INVITED. MAYOR HALL BEGAN TO LEAD THE MARCH HIMSELF, WITH THE PRESS DROOLING ALL OVER HIS BEAUTIFUL, SUN-TANNED FACE, UNTIL DISGUSTED YIPPIES POLITELY ESCORTED HIM TO THE MIDDLE OF THE LINE, WHILE OTHERS SCREAMED: "WE'RE NOT GOING TO FOLLOW THE MAYOR, NO MATTER HOW NICE HE IS!" HALL ~~MIGHT~~ DIDN'T WANT TO STAY IN FRONT ANYWAY, WITH 500 PEOPLE BEHIND HIM SHOUTING "1-2-3-4- WE DON'T WANT YOUR [redacted] WAR!" THE MAYOR GAVE A BRIEF LECTURE ON OBSENITY BEFORE LEAVING, AND THE CHANTING BECAME LOUDER.

THE MARCH WENT FROM THE CONVENTION HALL TO THE PAR-THREE GOLF COURSE, WHICH SEEMED LONGER THAN A MILE IN THE EXTREME HEAT. APPROXIMATELY 150 SENIOR CITIZENS WAITED AT THE GOLF COURSE FOR THE SWEATY DEMONSTRATORS HOLDING A HUGE BANNER SAYING "WELCOME NON-DELEGATES." THE RALLY AT THE GOLF COURSE WENT ON FOR ABOUT AN HOUR WITH SPEECHES FROM SENIOR CITIZENS, YIPPIES AND, ONCE AGAIN, MAYOR HALL (HE JUST WOULDN'T LEAVE!). THE OLD PEOPLE CRIED AS THEY SPOKE OF WAR ATROCITIES AND HELD POSTERS (WHICH THEY THEMSELVES MADE) PLEADING: "SEND OUR SONS HOME---END THE WAR NOW!" THEY ALSO PLEDGED THEIR SUPPORT OF NON-DELEGATES COMING DOWN THIS SUMMER IN A MOST GENEROUS MANNER -- "GIVE THEM ANYTHING THEY NEED."

"FREE MARTHA MITCHELL" SIGN, STARTLED THE MAYOR BY ANNOUNCIN THAT YIPPIES PLMN TO SLEEP ON THE GOLF COURSE MONDAY NIGHT (THIS WAS THE CAMP-SITE ORIGINALLY REJECTED BY THE CITY COUNCIL, THOUGH THE DECISION IS EXPECTED TO BE REVERSED). ED SANDERS WAS DRESSED UP AS GENERAL CREIGHTON C. BLACKMARKE AND PASSED OUT SMALL PACKETS OF WHITE POWDER LABELED "CIA HEROIN." HE ALSO READ POETRY:

I AM GENERAL CREIGHTON C. BLACKMARKET
I BOMB NORTH VIETNAM WITHOUT THE APPROVAL OF CIVILIAN AUTHORITIES

I AM THE MILITARY-INDUSTRIAL-HEROIN COMPLEX
I AM HEROIN
IN GRADE SCHOOLS
BROUGHT HERE BY CORRUPT
U.S. OFFICIALS IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

I AM THE WHEEL OF DEATH
SPINNING THROUGH THE MINDS OF THE YOUNG.

AND STEW ALBERT, WHOSE SIGN READ "MARTHA MITCHELL NEEDS CHICKEN SOUP", ALSO WON THE HEARTS OF THE OLD WITH HIS SPEECH: "WE ARE NOT MARCHING ONLY TO HAVE A GOOD TIME AND TO GET NIXON UPTIGHT, BUT TO SHOW OUR SOLIDARITY AND LOVE FOR THE VIETNAMESE PEOPLE, WHO HAVE INSPIRED US TO FIGHT BACK." ALBERT, A FORMER CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF IN ALAMEDA COUNTY, WAS FREQUENTLY INTERRUPTED BY MAYOR HALL, WHO KEPT SHOUTING, "THAT'S RIGHT SHERIFF!" ALBERT SNAPPED BACK, "JUST REMEMBER, A SHERIFF CAN ARREST A MAYOR!" AND

THE CONCERNED LIBERAL FINALLY LAPSED INTO SILENCE.

THE RALLY BROKE UP WHEN A GROUP OF YIPPIES AND SENIOR CITIZENS DECIDED TO "SHOOT A FEW HOLES OF GOLF AND BLOW THEIR MINDS."

"Assemble by the Flamingo Park stage for the 'Know your candidate parade' to the convention center and beyond. The entire march route will consist of right turns to honor George McGovern's recent back peddling on the issues of 1972 such as pot, abortion, military spending, and Donald Duck.

"Once at the convention hall, there will be the 'laugh-in for Muskie', a 'yawn-in for Wilbur Mills', a 'took-in for Chisholm', and an 'egg-in for humpty dumpty'. Experts will once again attempt to put humpty dumpty back together again. The 'put Teddy in the driver's seat brigade' will also dedicate the moat on the north side of the convention complex, the 'Mary Jo Kopechne causeway'. Symbolic steering wheels will then be emersed in the stream.

"A Wallace wheelchair race to the oceanfront will follow pursued by mask-wearing members of the Bremer Defense League. Once on the beach, it will be sink or swim for the washed-up George.

"At 3:00 PM on Tuesday, if we survive all of the above, we'll conduct an 'abortion and prison reform march' from Flamingo Park to the convention hall. We'll graphically dramatize women's rights and need for abortion upon demand. The Zippies will also call for the total integration of the U.S. prison system and its several million population back into the mainstream of American society. Our solution to that problem is simple, 'declare all of Amerika as a jail'.

THE WHOLE WORLD WILL BE WATCHING

The whole world will be watching Miami Beach this summer. National and international news media people will be covering the events. It is urgent that all of us, young and old, use this opportunity to expose issues besetting our nation. We must show the hypocracy of an administration that raises the salaries of congressmen and the president, but can't pass a greatly needed 25% increase in Social Security. We must show that the same administration has failed to create more jobs, has failed to halt inflation, has failed to halt crime in the streets, and has failed to end the war. The failures of the Nixon Administration affect all of us. This summer people from all across the country will be coming to Miami Beach to show the world that we will not tolerate four more years of Richard Nixon. We must show that problems that affect one age group affect all age groups. We must unite in a common effort.

ten days to change the world

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

The Youth International Party invites everyone in the United States to come to Miami Beach for a Celebration of Change, to occur from July 10 to July 14 and August 20 to August 24. We will create, in Miami Beach, a political-cultural demonstration of benign and peaceful magnitude--- a zone of sanity and sharing for inspired Americans of many persuasions. Together in this joyous unity we will lay plans to disturb the coming machine-like tread of the Republican kingmakers.

The United States is rapidly becoming a nation doomed by its own monied corruption, violence, racism, pollution and amoral materialism. Congress's strength is ripped off by arrogant, macho power-brokers in the Executive Branch promising no future for us but a decadent Roman Imperium.

The Youth International Party strongly suspects that Richard Nixon is possessed by such an intense personal need for the nations of the world to grovel before his war-room throne, that the convolutions and revolutions of the world, in the months to come, may cause him to join the society of foamy-mouths.

Baleful winds of repression wait to be unleashed from the dark caves of the Republican Party. Everywhere bitter crowds of American citizens view the corruption and illicit wars of the government with total revulsion. War, social slavery, sexism, racism are peddled and packaged by monster capitalist conglomerates as the true America. If that is America, there is nothing for an American citizen to look foreward to but a long life of pain in a fearsome valley of robot violence.

The Youth International Party gathers for resistance and change. We are the direct descendants of a freedom and justice seeking people which links us with every century, with every decent cause, with every plant and mammal that ever lived.

[redacted]

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

We are freedom and sharing

We are women and men reborn in change

We are socialism

We are the grain

We are the sunflowers reaching to the sun

We will change our country by any means necessary

We are freeshare

There is nothing for America but floating platforms of war over dead jungles unless we rise up in a wave of change. We have an inalienable right to cross state lines to share, to seek peace, to speak against war, to demand honesty in our government and to command ourselves in our own ways of freedom. We will not let our country be taken over by a fierce, elite, jaded caste of bloodmoney-hurgry power-brokers living the life of the damned. We stand atop the seawall of ecology, freeshare and change. We stand at the barricades of decency and beauty.

We want change !

We want to change the environment !

We want to change the economy !

Change the government !

Change the culture ! Change your spirit !

Change your diet ! Change your sex !

Ex-change everything !

We will gather nean the convention site to point toward the deep change American civilization must undergo in order to create peace in the world. We seek the immediate goal of freeing all political prisoners. We demand that women have complete control of their own minds and bodies. People will be free to express their sexuality in peace and joy. Restrictive laws against marijuana will end, and the military economy will be dismantled.

CONFIDENTIAL

We will continue changes with unconditional amnesty for draft refusers and from those who managed to escape from the grasp of the armed forces. We will demand a total end to all racism, to all sexism, and to the class system which leaves one of every four Americans impoverished in resources and spirit. We will seek to end the American tax system which spares the rich while burying the working person beneath a mountain of cruel and evil taxation.

We are taking every step to create ten days of peaceful openness and positive action, not to mention music, water and fun in the sun. We will only have peace. With great energy, the Youth International Party is negotiating with city, county and federal officials as well as the two political parties. Use of public facilities and parks has already been offered us.

Miami Conventions Office

A Pledge to Non-Violence & Harmony

There has been a great deal of fear generated from various sources about the possibility of mass violence during the Democratic Convention. The Youth International Party - Zippie hereby pledges to work for non-violence during the conventions.

Back in December, when the Zippies became the first organization to call people to Miami, we originated the strategy of non-violence during the Democratic Convention. In our literature, we have consistently emphasized the necessity for non-violence. In our planning meetings, we have repeatedly addressed ourselves to the planning needs for non-violence. In our meetings with the police and other officials, we have made it clear that irregardless of what other movement groups may do, we will remain committed to non-violence. In our meetings with other movement groups, we have argued logically that we have nothing to gain from mass violence.

The motto of the Zippies is "We Mean Business." And it is true that we are considered the militant pranksters of the movement. Therefore, we believe there are many more creative and effective ways to make our points than with mass violence.

There are going to be many forces attempting to provoke violence at the Convention. Our Zippie staff astrologer has found the dark moon Lilith is in the 6th house, opposing Mars in the 12th during the Convention, which further indicates this. A casting of the I-Ching tells the same story.

But we would like to make one thing perfectly clear: No one is going to push the Zippies of the Youth International Party into a riot.

SOMETHING IS HAPPENING HERE,
WHAT IT IS AIN'T EXACTLY CLEAR...

"It's easier to hate in Amerika than to love."
— Weather proverb

The Youth International Party-Yippies have repeatedly denounced anyone who disagreed with them as "police provacateurs" through the straight media. Meanwhile, they have been spending much of their time either massaging their egos in front of the media or attacking the Zippies.

Back in January, the Youth International Party held its national congress and chose the theme "Zippie! in '72" to distinguish between us and the old Yippies (then retired). Since then, we have built toward Miami with rallies, demonstrations, smoke-ins, concerts, benefits, regional traveling, newspapers, news services, leaflets, stickers, posters, ads, T-shirts, buttons, balloons, press releases, statements, position papers, press conferences, etc. We put together a national network of people, including the various Y.I.P. chapters and regions. We believe in an on-going organization controlled by the workers, cultural revolution, and a serious struggle against imperialism, racism, sexism, and elitism, in a context of cosmic good times. Aside from our demonstrations for prison reform and abortion reform, we believe in filling the swimming pools of the Fountainbleau with jello, putting Ted in the driver's seat, hiring the handicapped (Zippies for Wallace), and a March for McGovern that would be all right turns. And we are having LBJ Day on July 12. The Demos would like to forget LBJ, now that they have a new glamour boy, but we won't let them.

Meanwhile, a vicious campaign of McCarthyite tactics has taken place against the Zippies, calling us "police provocateurs" at press conferences, etc. A lot of people are asking why? The Yippies have been very divisive. We have not generally responded to their McCarthyite tactics, but we're tired of being called police provocateurs. Now we would like to raise a few questions of our own: The Yippies seem to have a lot to protect. What? We don't have the answers. Maybe the Yippies do.

1. What was the nature of the secret meeting between Stew Albert and the McGovern people in Washington, D.C. May 7, 1972?

P.O. box 132 Miami 33142 (305)444-5837

2. What was the reason for the sudden formation of a so-called Y.I.P. collective on May 3, 1972, when previously Hoffman and Rubin had repeatedly stated that they would be inactive?

3. The Yippies have taken a series of suites on the top floor of the Albion Hotel for the summer. Where did the money come from, and why is it being wasted on decadence when the Yippies have utterly failed to spend money on real needs?

4. The Yippies have a large plush office in the Miltown Medical Center which they have taken for the summer, equipped with the latest office equipment. This office is usually empty and several rooms are unused entirely. It opens at 9 and closes at 5. Why is this office and equipment not being used for the movement or to relate to the community? Where did the money come from? Why is the money being wasted on carpets and panneling?

5. On June 8, Abbie Hoffman, Jerry Rubin, and Ed Sanders concluded a deal with Paperback Library, a subsidiary of the Kinney Corporation, a subsidiary of the Mafia, for a quickie paperback to come out on September 20 about Miami. Their advance on this book was $33,000. Where did the money go?

6. Hoffman, Rubin, Nightbyrd, Sanders, and others have been in N.Y. negotiating more book contracts. Sanders has already sold a book to Avon. Nightbyrd's Yippie Survival Manual has been offered to Paperback Library. Why are they spending all their energy marketing Miami and none on doing Miami? Where is the money going?

7. Repeatedly they have used their uniquely privileged access to the media to attack the Demo demonstrations and to attack other movement people. Why? They have repeatedly used the straight media to brand two members of Y.I.P./ Zippie and the Zippies in general as "police provacateurs or madmen". However, both of these people have been in the movement longer than most people in the Yippies, are higly respected among those who have worked with them. The Yippies have never requested a security check on these people, and there is no indication that either of them are any crazier than any other movement person. Why are they continually using the straight media for character assasinations, which inevitably are confused with the position of the entire movement?

8. It was agreed that all negotiations with the city would be done by the Coalition. Yet, in a series of secret talks with the city and county last week, they separately made some kind of deal for the use of Lummus Park as the site for their "cultural fair." What did the Yippies give the city in return? Why did they negotiate secretly and separately? Why, other than granting the Democratic Party Flamingo Park as a "free speech" area, was the only other permit granted in Miami Beach given for the Yippies' event? How did they know the results of the city council meeting the night before it happened?

9. On June 15, the Yippies in a surprise press conference announced that they were cancelling plans for demonstrations during the Demo Convention and were beginning work on the Republican. Why? They did not consult anyone. Why? They attempted to leave the impression with the media that they spoke for the Youth International Party in toto, and the movement in general. Why? They have begun no work on the Republican Convention yet. Why?

Youth International Party

Zippie? Yippie?

There has been some confusion in the press between the two organizations Youth International Party-Zippie! and Youth International Party-Yippie! We would like to get things straight. These are two completely separate organizations with utterly different politics and structure. Y.I.P.-Zippie! is the Youth International Party which has local and regional chapters and offices throughout the country. We believe in an ongoing organization, cultural revolution and struggle against imperialism, sexism, racism, elitism and ism-ism. This party has been in existence for several years and became known as Zippie! at the Youth International Party Congress in January, 1972, because we no longer wanted to be identified with the Yippies.

To avoid confusion, we have agreed with each other to be identified as Y.I.P.-Zippie! and Y.I.P.-Yippie! The Yippies have said and done many things which we do not want to be associated with, and vice versa. In particular, we oppose rhetoric, mass violence (Chicago), opportunism, personality cults and profiteering. We are a bottom-up organization for the people, not a top-down organization for the radical chic. We mean business.

When someone says they represent the Youth International Party, ask them whether they mean Yippie or Zippie. It makes a difference.

Y.I.P.-Zippie! can be reached at 3113 Mary St., Coconut Grove, Fla., or (305) 444-5837 or (212) 242-3888.

El Partido Internacional de la Juventud (YIP) ha promulgado que no sera designado un dia especial para recordarse el nombre del revolucionario famoso, Che Guevara.

En vez de eso, dirigiremos nuestra atencion y imaginacion a la memoria de Lyndon Baines Johnson. Lo que necesitaban los Estados Unidos era cuatro mas anos de la administracion de Johnson en el ano 1968. Celebraremos su nombre con una fiesta y construiremos un monumiento symbolico de su importancia.

No sera comemorado un dia para Che. !Viva LBJ!

The Youth International Party (YIP) has promulgated that no special day will be designated in memory of the famous revolutionary, Che Guevara.

Instead of this, we will direct our attention and imagination to the memory of Lyndon Baines Johnson. What the United States needed was four more years of Johnson's administration in the year 1968. We will celebrate his name with a party and will construct a symbolic monument of his importance.

We will not commemorate a day for Che. Hurrah for LBJ!

Zippies in '72

Miami Conventions Office

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Zippies officially announced in Miami Beach on June 15 the rescheduling of the 3rd annual Independence smoke-in. The smoke-in had been celebrated on July 4th for the past two years by tens of thousands in Washington D. C. to co-incide with "Honor America Day" activities there. This summer due to the energy, excitement & attention caused by the "gathering of the profligates in the Temple of the damned" at the M. B. Convention Hall, the date has been reset for Sunday, July 9th in Miami Beach.

The Zippies also revealed at their press conference that they had (with the help of a Cessna plane, part of the Zippie Air Force) reseeded the Bay Shore Golf Course. The secret refoliation was done the night of June 8th. Thirty pounds of the finest imported seeds were dropped during three low passes over the 18 hole course. Depending on the rains, the pot should flower just in time for the July 9th tokedown.

The Zippies explained: "Many of the coming conventioneers are some of the same dinosaurs responsible for keeping cruel & inhuman pot laws on state books. Laws that every year are used to jail thousands of ghetto blacks & culturally alienated freeks. We'll take the issue directly to these men engulfed in our mushrooming cloud of cannibis smoke."

The smoke-in will be a Florida first. Besides openly getting high on the killer weed (generous quanities to be donated by the Marijuana Dealers Association MDA), the usual "parade of forty foot joints" & Smack Attack/Anti Heroin March to the Convention Hall, is planned.

Qualified people & members of the Junkie Liberation Front will speak out against the documented involvement of the CIA in the S. E. Asian heroin trade. (CIA backed Air America performs the scag shuttle service for the puppet/pusher South Vietnamese generals.) The Indochina junk is now mainlined into U. S. black & youth ghettos.

A host of rock n' roll bands & beach urchins will add to the tokedown's color & pageantry for the reefer worshipers.

To insure against a pot shortage Zippies advise everyone to "BRING YOUR STASH TO THIS MILLION DOLLAR BASH!"

A WORKSHOP: COMMUNITY ORGANIZATION OR... THE REVOLUTION IS EVERYWHERE

Community organization is one of the most effective tools of a productive revolution. Strong and complete unity with all of our brothers and sisters in every community in amerika not only makes for positive force on issues centering within the community, but it also lends toward a more forceful and massive gathering on nationally coordinated demonstrations and actions. Specifically, we must concern ourselves with the republican convention in Miami Beach - August 21-24. Our ability to create an awareness in the minds of all people through the use of amerikas' electronic mass-media jungle separates revolutionaries from outlaws.

One brother or sister with the right combination of community actions can, within a short period of time have a growing and conscious revolutionary movement alive in his or her community.

This booklet and its related workshop is condensed and far from a "how to do it in three easy steps" text for the amateur revolutionary. It can help build from scratch an organization capable of reaching many people before the Republican convention in August. It can also open lines of communication between established movement groups, and newly formed community organizations. Through this relationship we can collectively give Nixon an offer he won't be able to refuse.

Though we only have seven short weeks it is time enough to do the job that has to be done if we just Keep it together. Lets get down to the business of the revolution. The workshop will be broken down into several areas of discussion.

1) Establishment of a name, title, and location of organization for the benefit of community and media.
2) Printed materials for distribution
   A) press
   B) community
3) Use of audio-visual media
   A) television
   B) radio
4) Relating to established organizations
   A) movement groups
   B) colleges, civic organizations, etc.

1) Name - Establishing a name for your organization is important, if you wish to attain public credibilty. There are a number of revolutionary groups with established names and reputations. Thus by choosing one you can beat the time problem of establishing a new banner. Taking the name of another group does not necessarily obligate you to their procedures, but does make you responsible for their basic philosophy and position on common national issues. Pick an organization that has causes and philosophies similar to your own. If you decide to use the name of a nationally coordinated movement group, you can depend on them for assistance and advice. Keep in touch with the national office and coordinate closley withthem.

Titles - Though titles are somewhat weird, they do provide individuals within the organization personal credibility with the media and the community.

Location - It is equally important to have a phone number accesible to all parties. The media will use the number to call brothers and sisters for information. Also the national movement groups will keep in touch on a regular basis. The F.B.I. will probably tape all messages free of charge. Don't get hung up on line taps, but be cool with dope raps and revolutionary actions that could be incriminating.

Wherever your phone is located is the best place to set up shop. It can be your bedroom, apartment, or even a storefront in funds permit. Meetings will take place during the day and people will gather to rap. A certain amount of inconvience always arises so keep humor up front and hostilities subdued.

2) Press statements and P.S.A.'s - Writing statements for the press is an easy job, but it is advisable to follow this form: Across the top of the paper put the name of your organization. Directly under the name either put "For immediate release" or "Public Service Announcement", depending on the type of release you are making. Always include the name of the organization and the phone number, this will enable the media to contact you for further information and interviews.

Distribution - To successfully distribute a press release you must first compile a complete list of media in the community. This list should include; locale newspapers, main city newspapers, undergound publications, AM-FM radio stations, television, A.P., U.P.I., and underground news services. If you are totally unaaware of the news agencies in your community it is advisable to check the yellow pages and the local chamber of commerce. The list should include the name of the agency, the adress, phone, and the personal contact if any has been made. (If none is made be sure to try to get in touch with a sympethetic reporter)

Community Press - Starting a printing workshop

"Leaflets, posters, newsletters, pamphlets and other printed matter are important to any revolution. A printing workshop is a definite need in all communities, regardless of size. It can vary from using progressive alternative organizations equipment to setting up your own printing workshop in a garage or spare room. With a small investment and some space, you can begin this vital service."

Distribution - In the beginning you should aim for bi-weekly leaflets, with a gradual increase in the amount of issues you begin to discuss and act upon in the community. Check out the local laws about distributing on the street. You probably should contact a sympathetic lawyer to discuss the questions of distribution and soliciting, although it is probably allowed, and is an effective way to reach the public. Representatives in High Schools and Colleges should be sought out. Bookstores, headshops, newsstands, rock concerts, and local hang-outs are good places to distribute. GOOD LUCK AND WRITE-ON!,

3) Use of audio-visual media:-

Television - free comunication - If you don't like the news make your own! "Creating free media depends to a large extent on your imagination and ability to follow through on ideas. Advertisements for revolution are important in helping to educate and mold the milieu of people you wish to win over.

Guerrilla theater events are always good new items and if done right, people remember them forever. For example; to dramatize theillegal invasion of Cambodia, 400 Yippies stormed across the Canadian border in a symbolic invasion of the U.S. The Emma Goldman Brigade recently attended a lucheon for Pat Nixon during which they sang original songs and released mice inside the banquet hall. Another tactic often applied is exemplied in thedying of public and private fountains - red, and then calling the press and telling them why.

Press Conferences - Another way of using the news to advertise the revolution and the upcoming republican convention is to call press conferences. Get an appropriate place that has some relationship to the content of your message. Send out announcements to your whole press list compiled. Evrything about about a successful press conference must be dramatic and creative, from the announcements and phone calls to the statements themselves. Constantly seek to have every detail of the press conference differ in style as well as content from the conferences of people in power. Make use of music and special visual effects. The cameras start buzzing on your opening statement and often run out of film before you finish, so make it brief and action packed. Questions should be limited and answers short and quick. Don't over do it! The press can twist your answers around.

4) Relations - summary - The revolution is seven weeks away from the biggest project it has ever undertaken, It is going to require all of our energies from all of the people to throw nixon out of Miami Beach and world politics. We are the revolution! To be successful we must be as organized, united, and creative as possible. But it won't work unless every community in the U.S. is aware and fully mobilized. An exchange of information concerning the republican convention is a good project to get started on. There are a lot of areas to be delt with, and the distribution of work within your collective will allow for the maximum yeild of constuctive energies. Rides will be needed, survival information distributed, communication channels established, and a lot of grass roots and national organizing done to meet nixon in Miami Beach in August with a solid opposition and condemnation, and present practical progressive alternatives to focus and voice our discontent....

YOUTH INTERNATIONAL PARTY
YIPPIE!

NEVER AGAIN!

America stands at a crossroads. The government, against the will of the people, is waging a war of unparalleled brutality to support a corrupt dictatorship in Saigon. At the moment, U.S. planes bomb within 20 miles of China and the Nixon administration audaciously asks for even more tax money to be spent on war.

In this warfare state, the human needs of Americans go waiting. Unemployment leaps. Racial polarity intensifies. The Nixon Supreme Court strips individual liberties. The Justice Department regards the Bill of Rights as an alien document. Qualified women are kept out of positions of responsibility. Workers wages are frozen, while corporate profits soar. Nowhere is this disregard more evident than in Miami Beach, where the needs of older people for health care, adequat housing and dignity are sacrificed for the Nixon policy of big business, big profits and war spending.

We insist there are human alternatives to the government't cold calculations. We sense the nation pauses to examine the paths ahead. We believe the Republican Administration will sacrifice anything, including the future of Miami Beach, to perpetuate its power.

For these reasons, the Youth International Party has decided to redirect its emphasis, and focus its activities at the Republican Convention. Our work here leads us to believe the Republicans would welcome a chaotic situation which would discredit the Democratic Party. Disorder would not serve the demonstrators' goal of a peaceful end to war, and it would endanger our grandparents' generation which lives here.

While changing our emphasis, we want to make clear we are not endorsing any candidate of the Democratic Party, nor are we endorsing the idea that the Democratic Party or electoral process can alone bring about the fundamental changes required to put America first. However, we see several progressive elements working among the Democrats, and will do everything possible to create a peaceful atmosphere where they can work unhindered. While we stand outside the Democratic Party, living and working in an alternative life-style, we will resist the Republican schema to use us as scapegoats to promote a repressive society.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Our "Days of Change" during the Democratic Convention will focus on a cultural and artistic expression of new life possibilities. Many of the most famous artists in the country will be participating with people of the Miami area in a positive generation of life force against the death forces of war, competition, and the profit system. The Youth International Party will sponser no marches, though we will participate in the planned peaceful demonstrations of our sisters and brothers. We plan a feast for delegates and non-delegates, a day of cultural enlightenment against the war, onvironments, dances, films and chanting. In response to the hundreds of calls we are recieving from throughout the country, we are now advising young people to think first of the Republican Convention. We are encouraging non-delegates coming to the Democratic Convention to be self-sufficient, and to participate in workshops now planned, so they can return to their local communities and build for a massive turnout at the Republican Convention.

More than a month ago we began contacting city officials, explaining to them our peaceful intent, and asking for cooperation in avoiding another Chicago. Some officials have been far-sighted, others have been osterperous ostiches with their heads in the sand. Some moss back officials regard first Amendment rights as the privilodge of the well off; they would deny those without money for hotel rooms their rights to expr their feelings. Despite the good will of several officials, we still have made no concrete progress at taking care of the human needs of the non-delegates.

Our enemy is time. As each day passes, planning becomes more difficult and chaos more likely. The Youth International Party, in taking this bold new initiative, has demonstrated its good faith and peaceful intent. Responsibility now lies with the Republican Administration and local officials.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION PLANS

Sunday, 20th. (Dishonor Amerika Day (20th is official 'Honor America Day'). The Zippies present....THE SECOND COMING. Jesus in a Zippie T-shirt will descend and lead a march to Convention Hall bearing a cross with Billy Graham on it. At the hall, there will be a piss-in on objects of honkie culture, we'll destroy a welfare Cadillac (to be burned previously but impounded), apple pies will be fed to running dogs, eggs tossed at a huge picture of Martha Raye (America's mom), flags burned, and a compulsory o.d. program for delegates, followed by an Om-out at which jello will be served. Then, a twenty-foot joint will be broken open like a pinata and the Free Marijuana Rally back at the campsite will begin with the smashing of a 20 foot hypodermic. Rally will feature speeches and a boogie of non-sexist rock and roll.

Moonrise 20th to Moonrise 21st. In support of Women's Day, Zippie Free Women will ridicule with theatre and a march the leading male chauvinists of our time- the Pope, Nixon, Kissinger, John Wayne, Hugh Hefner, etc.

Monday, 21st. Repression Rally and March- Some of the issues will be repression of the youth community, prison reform, electronic surveilance, community control of police, computer files, police brutality, free speech and assembly, and mental hospital reform.

Tuesday, 22nd. Abortion Reform Rally and March- Postponed from the Demo Convention because of rain, this action will be against Nixon (who opposed NY abortion reform) and the Pope. And for free birth control info. A women and men's action.

Wednesday, 23rd. Imperialism Day- Protest rally and massive march against Coca-Cola imperialism, with contingents for Ireland, and African, Asian, South American colonized countries, and others. And, of course, Vietnam.

Thursday, 24th. Celebration of Death- After Nixon's nominated, a Zippies for Nixon march. After all, what's wrong with genocide? Huge bags of money will be delivered to fat cats in their hotels. Afterwards we'll burn our U.S. ID cards and fill out alien registration forms listing ourselves residents of FREE NATION. Then, we'll participate in the Youth International Party Congress, followed by a Rock and Stroll party.

The Zippies will again provide campsite services, including Green Power for free food, hopefully the Hog Farm for food kitchens and bad trip rescue, shade and rain canopies, movies and videotapes in the evening, concerts, women's anti-hassle squad, anti-death drug squad, camp clean-up brigade, media convention passes, free silk screening, information and [illegible] center, and a media junkie maintenance program (color TV watchpost, out-of-town newspaper reading table, and shortwave radio reception and broadcasting center).

NONVIOLENCE PLEDGE - Y.I.P./Zippies again vow to oppose mass violence as a tactic. Violence will only reactivate the law-n-order issue, which can only help Nixon. Miami Beach is bad tactically, as well. Old people would be hurt. The Zippies cannot bear the heat and cost of mass arrest situations. Fight back and stay free!

RE: WORKERS ACTION MOVEMENT
(WAM)

At a conference sponsored by the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) in Detroit, Michigan, on February 19, 1972 - February 21, 1972, WAM was established as a national organization headquartered in New York, New York, to continue the PLP's efforts to organize workers in the struggle for workers' rights, centering around the campaign for "30 hours work for 40 hours pay".

The PLP was founded in 1962 by individuals expelled from the Communist Party, USA, for following the Chinese Communist line. Its objective is the establishment of a militant working-class movement based on Marxism - Leninism and Mao Tse-tung thought.

Plans and Activities of WAM at Miami, Florida

As of June 18, 1972, there was no information that WAM was, at the time, presently active as far as any activity in Miami or Miami Beach, Florida, was concerned.

MM T-1 [redacted] b7D

The Youth International Party (YIP), also known as YIPPIES, is a loosely-knit anti-establishment revolutionary youth organization formed in New York City in January, 1968. Following a factional dispute in May, 1972, the YIP divided into two factions, the YIPPIES, headed by a YIP collective, and the ZIPPIES, headed by THOMAS KING FORCADE, a member of the underground press syndicate.

On [redacted] had not returned to YIP headquarters in connection with his establishing an office for WAM activities. b6 b7C b7D

MM T-1 [redacted]

The WAM had temporarily made some plans as to activities at Miami Beach, Florida. They planned various picketing activities in promoting their theme of thirty hours work for forty hours pay. The tentative schedule for WAM was as follows: b7D

July 9, 1972 - 9:00 AM, WAM beach party at Haulover Park, Miami Beach. Cooperate with Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) at 3:00 PM. 7:15 PM, help picket the Playboy Club.

July 10, 1972 - Picket first ladies tea at Americana Hotel, 2:30 PM. At 6:00 PM, attend National Welfare Rights Organization (NWRO) rally.

July 11, 1972, at 4:00 PM, attend Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) demonstration in support of anti-racism bill. At 6:00 PM, join the Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW) and SCLC demonstration against unemployment.

July 12, 1972 - at 11:00 AM, a SDS - WAM rally. Demand the United States get out of Africa.

July 13, 1972 - At 4:00 PM, join VVAW march Flamingo Park. At 7:00 - 10:00 PM, attend dinner and film of the march against unemployment sponsored by Martin Luther King Center and WAM.

[redacted] b7D

The National Welfare Rights Organization (NWRO) is a civil rights group headquartered in Washington, D.C., which has sponsored protest marches and demonstrations in the past, resulting in the arrest of members and leaders.

Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) was founded during June, 1962, at Port Huron, Michigan, and in the 1960's functioned as the leading New Left campus-based student organization in the United States. From an initial posture of "participating democracy" SDS moved to a radical-revolutionary position with debate centering on how best to create a revolutionary youth movement. Internal factionalism produced a split during the SDS national convention in June, 1969, which resulted in the following three factions: Weathermen, Worker Student Alliance (WSA) and Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM). The Weathermen and RYM are no longer affiliated with the SDS. The WSA continues to use the name SDS, and maintains its national headquarters in Boston, Massachusetts.

Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW) is an anti-war organization organized in 1967 and headquartered in New York City. Its published objective is to "demand an immediate cessation of fighting and the withdrawal of all American troops from Indochina." VVAW has participated in several demonstrations, including massive demonstration in Washington, D.C., April 19-23, 1971.

The WAM has opened an office in Room 403, 420 Lincoln Road, and they are going to go for the "forty hours pay for thirty hours work" theme. They figure on doing some picketing but they are very few in number and do not actually know where or when they will do this picketing.

MM T-1 [redacted] b7D

A meeting was held [redacted] at the Crest Hotel on Miami Beach. This gathering consisted of numerous groups and organizations and the purpose of the meeting was to agree on ground rules for the use of the campsite at Flamingo Park on Miami Beach. One of the individuals attending was [redacted] a representative of the WAM. As a result of this meeting, points agreed on were as follows: b6 b7C b7D

1. No hard drugs would be allowed at the campsite

2. A "smoke in" previously announced by the YIP would not be held at the campsite area.

3. No activities would be permitted which would, in any way, jeopardize the campsite permit.

4. A "People's Government" would be set up consisting of one member from each organization for the purpose of dealing with campsite matters only.

5. A security program was established with representatives from each group.

MM T-3 [redacted] b7D

WAM planned to picket the Americana Hotel, 9701 Collins Avenue, where GEORGE MEANEY, AFL-CIO head, was staying. [redacted] contemplated this picketing. The feeling among the WAM members was that GEORGE MC GOVERN had the nomination assured and that no further action was necessary. b6 b7C b7D

MM T-4 [redacted] b7D

On July 12, 1972, there was very little picketing at the Americana Hotel and no arrests, and no violence.

MM T-2 [redacted] b7D

The WAM have a very small number of representatives at Miami Beach and these few are attempting to get in with other groups who are demonstrating and marching.

A demonstration during the Democratic National Convention was held at the Doral Beach Hotel, 4833 Collins Avenue, Miami Beach, on July 12, 1972. At approximately 2:15 PM, about 100 demonstrators arrived at the Doral Hotel, which is Senator MC GOVERN's headquarters, to stage a demonstration. This demonstration was organized in lieu of the proposed SDS demonstration at the Miami Beach Police Department which had originally been scheduled for 2:00 PM. This alternate demonstration was organized by the SDS, ZIPPIES, SCLC, WAM and other groups present in the Flamingo Park area. By 3:00 PM, a number of individuals at this demonstration had risen to four to five hundred. The group consisted of individuals representing the above organizations and other groups in the Miami area. The demonstrators attempted to enter the door of the hotel but were turned back by the Florida Highway Patrol and other local police agencies; however, law enforcement personnel were requested by the MC GOVERN delegation and hotel management to allow the demonstrators to continue their actions. Subsequently the demonstrators again approached the hotel lobby and were allowed to enter the hotel. Approximately three hundred of the demonstrators turned to the lobby of the hotel. The group occupied the lobby and also moved into a ballroom off from the lobby. The purpose of the demonstration was to get Senator MC GOVERN to speak to them concerning his policies in Vietnam and on tax reform. The SDS group also wanted MC GOVERN to sign their "anti-racism" bill and the overall group also wanted to express their feelings to MC GOVERN concerning the incident on July 9, 1972, when a black woman was struck by an automobile being driven by [redacted]

They wanted [redacted] to be held responsible and assume all liabilities for hospitalization, etc. During the course of the demonstration, approximately 5:20 PM, about fifteen to twenty gay activists came into the lobby and were chanting "justice for gays." At approximately 5:30 PM, MC GOVERN was given fifteen minutes to come down and speak to the demonstrators or they threatened to go up into the hotel. This ultamatum was apparently forgotten temporarily as no action was taken to get MC GOVERN to the lobby. During the course of the demonstration the SDS maintained an open microphone and anyone who felt the urge was allowed to speak to the group. Some of the speakers were [redacted] of SDS, [redacted] of SCLC and [redacted] of WAM. Many other speakers also spoke during the demonstration. At approximately 8:20 PM, Senator MC GOVERN came down to the lobby of the hotel to speak to the crowd. MC GOVERN spoke for approximately thirty minutes and answered questions from the group. [redacted] of SDS was very vocal during this period and attempted to get Senator MC GOVERN to sign the SDS "anti-racism bill" which he refused to do. After MC GOVERN spoke the crowd began to disperse and at approximately 9:15 PM, there were only one hundred people left in the area. The ZIPPIES reportedly were going to spend the night at the hotel, however it was also reported that at approximately 9:30 PM, there were still one hundred people there just sitting and watching the convention on television.

The Gay Activists Alliance (GAA) is a homosexual organization with headquarters in New York City, which has as its purpose the promoting of "Gay Rights."

On July 11, 1972, a rally was being held at the convention area, Miami Beach, the location of the Democratic National Convention, and it was held primarily by the SCLC and WAM. At the rally a man grabbed the microphone and yelled that he had come to Miami for a revolution. He

Representatives of WAM participated in activities at the Democratic National Convention. [redacted] was among the group, and on arriving the group went to the WAM office, 420 Lincoln Road. While in Miami the group stayed at [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

[redacted]. The WAM did participate in the following demonstrations during the Democratic National Convention:

A march in front of the Playboy Club when one of the WAM members was dressed as a bunny.

A few participated in the NWRO march to the convention hall, and [redacted] spoke during this march.

Some miscellaneous demonstrations at Flamingo Park where most of the groups had representatives.

MM T-10 [redacted]

WAM intended to have a march in Atlanta, Georgia, starting at 11:00 AM, Saturday, July 15, 1972, at the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank, 104 Marietta Street, N.W.. It was described as a "thirty for forty" march, meaning thirty hours of work for forty hours pay. It was not known how many would participate in this march.

On July 28, 1972, [redacted] Mercantile National Bank of Miami Beach, advised that Room 403, 420 Lincoln Road, had been rented under the name [redacted] for the period June 27 - July 27, 1972, and had been vacated on July 28, 1972.

On July 25, 1972, one [redacted] was paying the telephone and electric bills for the SDS office, Lincoln Mall, Miami Beach, and [redacted] was in her name. A U-Haul van being driven by members of the SDS was occupied by [redacted] during the Democratic Convention and the van had been used to distribute literature on the Miami-Dade Junior College North Campus.

MM T-12 [redacted] b7D

The members of WAM were not very active in their participation in demonstrations which took place at the Democratic National Convention. This was due to their small number, and as a result they seemed to mix in with and join the demonstrations being promoted by other groups at Flamingo Park, Miami Beach, Florida.

MM T-1 [redacted] b7D

WAM, while at Miami Beach for the Democratic National Convention, printed up and circulated two handbills, one captioned "Worker's Action Movement -- Proposed '30 For 40' Law" and the other "Announcing a Forum". These are as follows:

MM T-13 [redacted] b7D

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

WORKER'S ACTION MOVEMENT -- PROPOSED "30 FOR 40" LAW

Amendment to U.S. Code to establish the Thirty Hour Work Week with Forty Hours Pay, and to bring all workers in the United States and its possessions under the coverage of the maximum hours provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, Ch. 8.

I. Amend 29 USC 207 by taking out subsections "a", "b","c","e", and "g", and adding a new subsection as follows:

"a. No employer shall employ any of his employees for a workweek longer than thirty hours, or a workday longer than 6 hours, unless such employee receives compensation for his employment above thirty hours per week, or above six hours per day, at an hourly rate of at least one an one-half times the regular rate at which such employee is paid; and

No employer may pay any of his employees less for the thirty hour week than such employer previously paid for a forty hour week, or for whatever number of hours, before the enactment of this law, constituted a workweek paid at straight time wages."

II. Amend 29 USC 213 by taking out everything in subsection "a" after paragraph "1", and by taking out subsections "b", "c", "d", "e", and "f".

LLL. Amend 29 USC 214 by taking it out entirely.

NOTES: "Employee" shall be defined as "one who in any workweek is engaged in commerce, or in the production of goods for commerce, or in agriculture or in the selling or transporting of any goods produced for commerce."

The purpose of taking out the various sections referred to above is to remove from the law all clauses excluding various groups of workers from coverage by the maximum hours provision of the Fair Labor Standards Act. For example, under today's laws, agricultural workers, taxi drivers, many different categories of service worker workers, and all workers in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islans, Guam, etc. are not covered.

THIS PROPOSED "30 FOR 40" LAW IS BEING CIRCULATED BY THE WORKERS ACTION MOVEMENT. 420 LINCOLN RD, RM 403 (MIAMI BEACH). Or call 534-1778.

At 2:30 PM I talked with ABBY HOFFMAN for about 10 minutes. HOFFMAN said that the demonstrations planned out for the Democratic Convention would be peaceful; HOFFMAN was more concerned at the time about the growing split between the Yippies and the Zippies. This talk with HOFFMAN was held at the Yippy tent in Flamingo Park. HOFFMAN was seen again on the following day (Sat.) in Flamingo Park, but was not seen again the whole week.

By 5:00 PM there were a total of about 25 people from SDS, PL, and UAG in the Miami Beach area; this would grow to about 60 people maximum durring the convention. b7D

At 8:30 PM an SDS meeting was scheduled to take place in the SDS Office, RM 328 on 420 Lincoln Road Mall, but the meeting fell through.

[redacted]

People in SDS and PL spent much of the morning handing out their commie propaganda around the Miami Beach area.

At 11:45 AM SDS and PL picketed the Democratic National Committee Luncheon held at the Eden Roc Hotel, 4525 Collins Ave. By 12:15 PM the picket had grown to about 100 people. By 12:45 PM 50 people remained, and by 1:30 the picket line ended. While the picket line was going on outside of the hotel, 4 people from SDS entered the hotel and went into the Committee Luncheon Room itself where they demanded to the leaders of the of the Democratic Party that they adopt the SDS Anti-Racism bill as part of the Democratic Platform.

From 2 - 4 PM there was a small beach party held by SDS at 10th Street and Ocean Drive in Lummus Park. About 20 to 30 people attended.

At 4:30 PM about 40 people in SDS took part in the National Tenants Organization Rally in front of the convention hall (little onfo on this)_

People in SDS and PL were scheduled to attend a senior citizen's rally at the Flamingo Park football field between 7-9 PM, but they did not.

[redacted]

At 7:15 PM there was an SDS sponsored picket of the 72 Sponsors Club Dinner and Reception at the Playboy Plaza at 5445 Collins Ave. About 100 people participated and even though the state troopers were called in, there was no real trouble. SDS was picketing the sponsors of the Democratic National Convention to demand that they sponsor the SDS Anti-Racism bill.

At 10:30 PM SDS held a mass meeting in Flamingo Park which in the beginning drew a crowd of about 250 people, but one of the first things SDS brought out at this meeting was its policy on drugs and at least 100 people immediately got up and walked away. This meeting dispersed at 12 mid_night.

Monday morning was spent leafletting in the Miami Beach area.

An SDS meeting which had been scheduled for 1 PM never came off.

At 6 PM about 600 people marched from Flamingo Park to the convention hall where a demonstration sponsored by the National Welfare Rights Organization was held. After the demonstration, there was an incident where police and demonstrators (about 150-200) were involved along the convention hall gates on 17th St.

This was caused by:

Rev. RALPH ABERNATHY & a black doctor who spoke & suggested that the crowd tear down the fence. The did, bot no one was able to get through because the cops stopped them.

At 9:30 PM SDS held a meeting in the small baseball field in Flamingo Park. About 60 people attended.

(Main) Topics discussed (1) possibility of obtaining passes to the convention
(2) possibility of forming a steering committee in Flamingo Park for the purpose of deciding upon tactics for future demonstrations.

It turned off later on that neither proved possible.

Principle speakers: [redacted] b6 b7C

At 2:30 PM the "First Ladies Tea and Fashion Show" held at the Americana Hotel, 9701 Collins Ave. was picketed by about 50 members of SDS. There was no trouble_ b7D

At 6:00 PM there was a coalition march of about 600 people from Flamingo Park to the convention hall, where there was a short rally. Marshals were assigned to help keep the peace, and there was no trouble.

[redacted]

From 11 AM - 1 PM about 60 members of SDS and supporters picketed the Dupont Office at 1610 Washington St. to "protest U.S. imperialism in Africa." [redacted] b6 b7C excited the crowd when she banged on the glass doors, demanding to be let in. Shortly after, Miami Beach Police arrived and the people calmed down.

The rest of the day was spent in the Doral Hotel where Sen. MC GOVERN spoke to about 300 demonstrators. b7D

[redacted]

In the afternoon, about 50 demonstrators went to the Caroline Hotel to confront [redacted] b6 b7C

In Miami Beach Flarida, at the Democratic Comvention. WAM, FLP, SDS, VVAW, SCLC, and a few others were very active picketing and demonstrating before and during the Convention.

Afew weeks before the convention WAM had rented an office at 42o Lincon Rd Mall.

Many people came from Boston, N.Y., Houston Texas, Cleveland, Chicago and Atlanta. Most of these people were PL members orsympathize with them. Hotels, food, and transportation were paid by PL and a few manage by themselves. Office equipment were rentedand all leaflet were produce here in this office for both WAM and PL.

Since there are PL members in SDS, WAM, and VVAW most all their activities either way were co-sponsered by each other.

Since everyone had diferent duties to perform not everyone was able to be in everything that was happening.

On July 7, at the NWRO conference some WAM members attended a workshop of the Farmworkers there the 30 for 40 idea was raise and the National Petition was taken around for the people to sign a few signatures was taken.

On July 9, at the Manor Park SCLC Conference at this one of the WAM member was supposed to speake but it was not possible, but the petition was taken around and some signatures were taken.

On that same day at 7:15 P.M. the Playboy Club was picket together with SDS, VVAW RCLC, SCLC and a few individuals. There they tried to block the people from going in. The protest was against male chauvinism of the Democratic Party in their use of the Club, and also demanding that the Democratic Party adopts the 30 for 40 bill.

Afer a few minutes of interviews by some camara man and struggle not to let the people in the Club some one trew a firecracker that almost sounded like bullets the police began looking aroung the fire department was called, no one was arrested. Then some of the protesters went towards the Fontainebleau Hotel.

On July 10, NWRO, SCLC, RCLC, YIPPIES, SDS, WAM, Zippies and others were infront of the Democratic Convention Hall,there after a few speechess just before the NWRO rally at the Flamingo Park one of the speaker began saying that they wanted to be inside the Convention and the n after the rally ended most every one went towards the gates of the Convention the police started towards them one of the gate was taken down and one or two arrest were made.

On July 11, SDS march from the Flamingo park co-sponser by WAM and SCLC to the Convention Hall in support of the Anti-Racist Bill after they got to the Hall, there SDS, WAM AND PL had a power struggle against SCLC, because they had agreed to work together but each time they were in a rally together SCLC didn't let them Speak so they brough their own mike and finally manage to have and open mike so every one that were not given a chance to speak, spoke. Afterthat the rally ended and they marched back.

On July 13, a film showing at the Martin Luther King Center 1466 N.W. 62nd St. Sponsered by WAM the film was on a March on Washington taken March 1971 by the PLP demanding jobs.

Before it even got started there most have been about 10 cops at the center they were told that they could show the film but not to have any discussion after it, after the film ended they were asked to leave.

Attached are three copies of the Proposed Guidelines for the After Action Report relating to the Democratic National Convention.

Please return one copy of your response to my personal attention by Monday, July 31, 1972.

The guidelines are quite comprehensive, and it is likely that some portions will not relate to your agency's role and function both prior to and during the convention. Please be as thorough as possible, but feel free to skip any sections of the guidelines not considered applicable in your case.

We look forward to additional joint planning/evaluation sessions in early August.

Dear [redacted]

You will note from the attached that I have requested After Action Reports from several agencies concerning our handling of the Democratic National Convention.

While your participation, of course, is not mandatory, it would be helpful to me and our evaluation process if you would agree to submit a critique. You should feel free to use the attached guidelines or any other format of your choice. All information will be protected as to source.

We look forward to working with you during the second half.

Sincerely,

Marijuana, Nudity Laxity Denied

Jury: Beach Enforced Law

By JAY MAEDER
Herald Staff Writer

The Dade County Grand Jury has declined to view with much alarm incidents of marijuana smoking and nude bathing by demonstrators encamped in Miami Beach's Flamingo Park during the Democratic National Convention last month.

In an interim report presented Tuesday to Circuit Court Judge Harold R. Vann, the Grand Jury announced that it had found no merit in charges that Miami Beach police were failing to enforce the law in Flamingo Park and specifically that "mass marijuana smoke-ins" had been permitted to occur.

"The facts revealed by our investigation are that a minimum of violations occurred, that law enforcement was superb, and, regardless of what might have been alleged, the convention was a thorough success," Grand Jury foreman William F. Quesenberry noted in his report to Vann.

Beach Police Chief Rocky Pomerance and members of groups that had been camped on the park were interrogated by the Grand Jury during the course of its investigation, which had been requested by Oliver Bright, president of the Crime Commission of Greater Miami. Bright, in a telegram to the Grand Jury, said he was concerned by reports that campers were skinny-dipping in the park's swimming pool and smoking marijuana freely.

"We are now convinced," Quesenberry said in the report, "that the allegations made against the local police agencies are not only without justification but did not merit the publicity that certain so-called concerned citizens, who were not even present at the campsites, seemed eager to receive."

The Grand Jury's report closed by thanking the Crime Commission very much for having requested the probe. Bright, asked to comment, said he did not share the Grand Jury's views.

RE: MIDEM; (80-1353)

MIREP (80-1374)

Various undercover and Weatherman oriented Agents from other offices were in Miami on special assignment during the Democratic National Convention (DNC) to assist in covering the activities of the numerous protest organizations which came here from all over the country.

Five of these Agents remain for the purpose of further developing contacts made during the DNC, increasing their credibility, and covering the residual activities of approximately 80 members of protest groups who are still here and engaged in planning for the Republican National Convention (RNC).

These five Agents are: [redacted] from New York; WILLIAM G. CONNELLY, from Cleveland; [redacted] from New York; [redacted] and [redacted] from WFO.

Miami teletype to Bureau 7/18/72 set forth a summary of the debriefing of all of the Agents here on special assignment by the SAC and Supervisors who worked with them during the DNC.

Following is further information obtained from the five remaining reflecting their effectiveness and value, including what they did during the DNC, significant contacts made, important information developed, what they are doing in the interim, and how this may enhance their effectiveness during the RNC.

SA [redacted] of New York advised that during the DNC most of his activities were confined to the Flamingo Park area. During this time he attended "open" meetings in the park held by the various groups present wherein they discussed the plans of the upcoming demonstrations and how these demonstrations would be most effective. In one such meeting with the PCPJ, he made a suggestion to [redacted] which resulted in [redacted] engaging in conversation with him, and asking SA [redacted] to enlarge on the idea and present it again at another meeting which would be held to discuss the demonstration and march. In view of the fact that SA [redacted] had not as yet established sufficient cover, he avoided a leadership role for this demonstration and march. He also participated in and observed all the demonstrations which were led by various groups, and spoke with persons who were in the park and who often advised that they were members of these groups. SA [redacted] also advised that on several occasions he spoke with a young white female, who was [redacted] and because of his earlier conversations with the girl, was able to march next to her and [redacted] on two marches to the Convention Center. On one of these marches, [redacted] was overheard to say that he felt this group, the Zippies, should do something "vanguard". b6 b7C

These contacts will give SA [redacted] better cover during the Republican Convention and enhance his credibility. b6 b7C

SA [redacted] on several occasions developed last minute information as to change of plans of marches, to times, and routes, which was immediately passed on to the Miami Office. b6 b7C

SA [redacted] feels that an undercover agent, once he has established sufficient cover, has more flexibility than an informant, and based upon training is more aware of the exact type of information for which the Bureau is looking, and is more concerned about immediately passing this information on to the proper persons. During the DNC many of the [redacted] and it was often difficult for them to pass information on immediately when it was of real value. An undercover agent is not so confined and any important information that he obtains can immediately be passed on the Miami Office, and from there to all others concerned. b6 b7C b7D

During the period between conventions, SA [redacted] has visited various areas in the Miami area where "movement and counter-culture" persons reside and has made friends with some of these people. These persons will attend the RNC. Knowing them will give him more credibility, greater effectiveness during the RNC, and he will be better able to steer his efforts to obtaining information rather than establishing his cover. Just by meeting and talking to these persons he is able to observe how they feel about violence at the upcoming convention, and by staying in contact with them he is able to learn their language and culture, and will be better able to assimilate into the counter-culture when the occasion arises. b6 b7C

During the DNC, SA WILLIAM G. CONNELLY of the Cleveland Office was able to mingle effectively with SDS, Yippie and Zippie groups in mass meetings, as well as "rap sessions" held to analyze completed actions or discuss future activities. On two occasions, information concerning cancellation of previously planned activity was secured and relayed to the Miami Office. Once, plans of a spontaneous Zippie demonstration at the Miami Beach Municipal Court were obtained and relayed prior to commencement. Five specific contacts were developed with aligned and non-aligned persons who will be in attendance at the RNC. Each of these persons is known to members of his or her sub-group, and will be valuable in providing additional coverage and information during the RNC.

Agent coverage in this Convention situation affords the Bureau a trained observer with a detailed over-all knowledge of the protest movement, a familiarity with national movement leaders and their past and potential interactions. Also, Weatherfugs and support personnel are generally known to these Agents. Additionally, they are far more aware of the Bureau's intelligence responsibilities and realize the importance of info-relay than even a well-placed informant.

On a continuing basis, present activity of SA CONNELLY includes circulation in counter-culture areas for the purpose of developing new contacts with persons and groups planning to attend the RNC. Specifically, one MCC and two SDS affiliates have been contacted at least twice a week and personal rapport has been established. Information regarding general plans to encourage larger RNC non-delegate attendance by word of mouth to out-of-state friends has become known, although no planning sessions were attended to date. Coverage of PPC Convention and knowledge of PPC alignment with and support of the VVAW cause was developed and reported. Spot checks by SA CONNELLY of hotels and offices known to be frequented by movement leaders has identified presence of leaders and license numbers of vehicles used by local and out-of-state people associating with these leaders.

SA CONNELLY feels that through these sources and associates he has developed, he should be able to more confidently intermix with protest groups and conceivably attend intermediate or higher level planning sessions in advance of planned activities at the RNC.

The main activity which SA [redacted] b6 b7C of Cleveland undertook at the DNC was maintaining close contact with movement people, particularly the Attica Brigade, and certain unaffiliated people from Vermont areas, with which he is familiar. These contacts included conversations that were indicative of prevailing attitudes concerning violence, planned or otherwise, and whether any affinity groups were being formed.

SA [redacted] observed that an informant, although he could learn much of the above, would not be able to determine if an ARL violation was in the office, and would not be tuned to the specific statements and actions made by individuals which would be necessary for effective prosecution of ARL subjects. b6 b7C

During the time between conventions, SA [redacted] has worked specifically on determining exactly who is in Miami, who leaves, what residual responsibilities each person has, and what their assignments are for the RNC, including recruitments. To this end, he has determined that several people affiliated with PCPJ and MCC are recruiting on an individual basis, leaving Miami and going north to Atlanta, then to Charlotte, and at that time, heading west for Austin, Texas, before returning to Miami. He has further determined that although the Attica Brigade has as yet developed no organizational plans for the RNC, they expect to have approximately 40 people present who will arrive individually. b6 b7C

SA [redacted] feels contacts he developed during the DNC have carried through the interim and will be of considerable value in enhancing his effectiveness during the RNC. b6 b7C

In conclusion, SA [redacted] believes it is extremely important for him and his fellow undercover Agents to be cognizant of the entire Weatherfug organization which is of ultimate importance, and of which very few informants have knowledge to any great degree. It is highly unlikely that an informant could recognize an operative of Weatherman, for which research and case work are very necessary to understand the complications of the underground, its support, and its tactics. If any Weathermen should appear at the RNC, it would be the most logical of the two conventions. b6 b7C

SA [redacted] activities during the DNC included the following: b6 b7C

1. Ascertaining the activities of the MCC and of the individuals connected therewith, since many of these individuals have spent time in Washington, D. C., and the Agent, who is assigned to WFO, is, therefore, familiar with them. This Agent had conversations with several of these persons, including [redacted] and an individual named redacted. These conversations provided information and opportunity to become aware of the organizational activities of the MCC and pass it on to the Miami Office.

2. Ascertaining the activities of other organizations (ZIP, YIP, SDS, VVAW) and their members. It is noted at this point that the Agent was able to corroborate and supplement the information of informants within the various organizations.

3. Ascertaining the activities of various groups and individuals on whom there is no informant coverage, with an eye toward discovering an individual or groups who contemplated violence. The Agent's cover enabled him to converse with persons who most assuredly would not have talked to someone who appeared to possibly have been associated with law enforcement.

4. Ascertaining the general mood of the crowd, e.g., its propensity for violence, reaction to law enforcement tactics, etc. An informant is not always in a position to do this.

5. Remaining vigilant for the presence of New Left fugitives and other activists of interest to the Bureau such as Weatherman support personnel. The Agent has worked New Left fugitive cases in WFO.

6. Determining and reporting demonstration and other relevant activities promptly so as to afford law enforcement time to react. This included the reasons for certain activities which could not be determined by anyone but Agents able to mingle with the crowd and could not be reported by informants who could not easily break away from the people in the various organizations to report a matter expeditiously.

7. Remaining vigilant for various federal violations such as ARL. In this regard, this Agent prepared FD-302's regarding statements made by certain leaders overheard by the Agent which might be relevant in ARL prosecutions if such result from activities during the RNC. One of the persons making such a statement was [redacted] of MCC, and the other was [redacted] of ZIP. b6 b7C

8. Ascertaining various strengths and weaknesses of law enforcement personnel which are apparent as a result of the Agent's law enforcement background, some of which were previously set forth in Miami tel 7/18/72.

During the period between conventions, this Agent has endeavored to talk with street people in the Miami area, as well as persons associated with various organizations in an effort to obtain information regarding their activities, and to increase the Agent's credibility with these persons. Agent remains alert for New Left fugitives.

The Agent intends to continue to channel his efforts during the RNC as he did during the DNC, as outlined above. His contacts made with persons, especially those involved with MCC, will enable him to obtain information of greater value during the RNC. Becoming familiar with the identities of various persons of interest during the DNC, will be of considerable vale to him during the RNC.

The Agent believes in conclusion, and without elaborating on the subject, that deeper penetration of groups may be effectively accomplished through additional deeper cover provided to covert agents. In most instances, contacts with various demonstration leaders and persons of interest must remain superficial at present, because association with these persons without adequate false identification, convincing background story, appropriate type of vehicles, and accomodations, might lead to suspicions on the part of the persons, or person, on whom coverage is desired. Although an Agent can be convincing during superficial contacts, development deeper cover in the opinion of this Agent, would result in more productive covert operations.

SA [redacted] of the WFO, has [redacted] in dealing with large scale demonstrations. [redacted] he was [redacted] during the [redacted] operations in Washington, D. C. and Baltimore, following the assassination of Dr. KING on April 4. Since his assignment to WFO, he has been involved in all the major demonstrations which have taken place in that city since March, 1971. This included operating in a covert status during May Day. b6 b7C

His military and Bureau experience have enabled him to view the security and tactical moves of the security force in Miami during the DNC and make appropriate suggestions as to the relative merit of what he sees from a demonstrator's viewpoint, which have been furnished the Bureau.

His experience in Washington, D. C. has enabled him to come in contact with all the national leaders of the movement, most of whom come to Washington, D. C. during the major conventions. He was, therefore, able to identify many of these national figures.

Having worked [redacted] he knows the sjpport people and the descriptions and faces of the fugitives in a more complete way than any source. b6 b7C

During the DNC, when SDS and the YIP, ZIP people occupied the Doral Hotel, SA [redacted] spent fourteen hours there, consulting with both members and leaders of both groups, and was able to ascertain and immediately report their intentions and that they would not leave until addressed by Senator MC GOVERN. b6 b7C

During the interim between the conventions, SA [redacted] has made

(a) numerous spot checks of the known addresses and headquarters where the leadership are residing and working, with an eye for Weatherfug related activity, as well as the activities of those individuals making plans for RNC;

(b) Contact with street people to broaden his credibility and acceptance in the Miami freak community;

(c) Establishment of a false identity;

(d) Talks with any movement "types" with whom he comes in contact.

b6

During the DNC, Agent [redacted] did the following:

(a) He spent a great amount of time in Flamingo Park gathering information through conversations with both the leaders and followers of the various groups.

(b) Participated in a number of SDS marches after carrying signs for them.

(c) The activity surrounding the occupation of the Doral Hotel, mentioned above.

(d) Participated in conversations with [redacted] (Eastcon subject) and [redacted] During the latter conversation he was able to forecast [redacted] low profile during the DNC, based on statements he made to group he was in.

b7C

(e) Was able to identify those leaders who were speaking at the demonstrations or merely at the demonstrations.

(f) Concentrated on looking for any Weather support people, e.g., [redacted]

b7C

(g) Observed the actions of the security forces and reported on them.

1. Provided close personal surveillance of highly emotional crowd during Senator MC GOVERN's face-to-face confrontation with SDS and other groups at the Doral Hotel on 7/12/72.

2. Provided extended personal contact with majority of non-delegates in efforts to determine presence of Weatherman and other New Left fugitives.

3. Provided hourly telephonic reports to the Miami Office regarding non-delegate activities in progress which could not have been accomplished by security informants due to their necessity to remain with their organizations at crucial stages in any actions. (Example: One informant [redacted]

b7D

4. Provided Agent presence during speeches and meetings (MCC meeting, 7/14/72), the content of which could result in subsequent agent testimony in court or before a Grand Jury in relation to Anti-Riot Law prosecution. This precludes the necessity of testimony of well-placed security informants and their resultant identification.

5. Provided intelligence reports regarding intensity of on-going and projected actions from personal candid conversations with participants in the actions. Through personal candid conversations with security subjects, provided a basis for evaluation of their degree of extremism and propensity for violence which would have been highly difficult, if not impossible, during a standard official Bureau interview. Further, an assessment of informant potential of these subjects was facilitated through the candid nature of their conversations.

Dear Pat:

We have just returned from the Democratic Convention in Miami.

Ken Whittaker, Special Agent in Charge, and his staff could not have been more helpful and cooperative with us in every way. Mr. Whittaker knows the community and the people and has a good personal feel for the situation.

Your office there also enjoys the goodwill of the Governor and his representatives, and of all the local officials I came in contact with.

I believe you will find you have some top people in Miami running a first class office.

Sincerely,

RE: REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

Convention Plans - Staff Meeting, July 28, 1972

For the Bureau's information, on July 28, 1972, a staff meeting was held in the training classroom adjacent to the Miami Beach Police Department Headquarters. This was the first staff meeting in connection with the coming Republican National Convention (RNC).

A report on current intelligence developments was given by the FBI representative.

Comments Regarding Democratic National Convention (DNC)

Colonel LARRY COTZIN, Assistant to Chief of Police ROCKY POMERANCE, Miami Beach PD, who presided at the meeting, stated that each of the major law enforcement agencies have analyzed the situation and are preparing a critique regarding it, which will be submitted to County Manager [redacted] Area Commander. b6 b7C

Colonel COTZIN stated that as a result of the experiences at the DNC, it is planned to have more mobile units available for immediate reaction to specific problems.

[redacted] Dade County Public Safety Department, recommended that security at the b6 b7C convention command post (CP) at the Miami Beach auditorium be increased, and he recommended installing flood lights and a gate at the main entrance to the CP. Colonel COTZIN advised that current plans are to have the metal door at the entrance to the CP completely closed, and access to the CP be only by a single outside door, which will be guarded at all times.

Chief BERNARD GARMIRE, Miami Police Department, stated that more tactical training was needed of police units with respect to their reaction if the fence around the convention complex is breached. He felt that if the fences were breached, as during the DNC, a serious problem could result due to lack of knowledge of particular units as to what response they should make to such a breach. Chief GARMIRE pointed out that a separate situation room is needed for the tactical commanders, where they can be immediately briefed on current intelligence developments. He also stated that more ##vantage point observers are needed around the convention complex to keep tactical commanders advised as to what is occurring at each and every point of the complex. GARMIRE recommended that all units inside the convention complex be fully equipped with quart cans of Mace which can be quickly used in the event an attempt is made to breach the fence.

Colonel COTZIN stated he appreciated the comments made, and that when all critiques are submitted, an analysis will be made and necessary corrections will take place.

Republican National Committee Platform Meetings

Colonel COTZIN stated that his department is very concerned regarding the fact that the Republican Party plans to begin platform hearings and meetings at the Fontainebleau Hotel on approximately August 14, 1972, several days prior to the start of the convention. He has pointed out to the RNC that these meetings will undoubtedly cause activity on the part of dissident groups, and require Miami Beach police units and poosibly other police units to go into operation sooner than expected. COTZIN stated he has been in close contact with the RNC regarding changing the place and date of the platform meetings.

Double Sessions of the RNC

Colonel COTZIN stated he has pointed out to the RNC the double sessions now planned for the convention will present a security risk, inasmuch as persons will be leaving and entering the complex twice a day. The present plan of the RNC is to have sessions at 1:00 - 3:00 in the afternoons, and from 8:00 - 10:30 in the evenings. COTZIN stated he and Chief POMERANCE are trying to convince the RNC to cut the sessions down to one a day, preferably in the evening.

Comments by Secret Service

Secret Service Agent [redacted] representing Deputy Director [redacted] advised that Secret Service was well satisfied with the way things were handled during the DNC, and pointed out that their nine protectees got in and out of Miami without any difficulty whatsoever. b6 b7C

He stated for the coming convention, Secret Service will have responsibility for the protection of ten individuals, as follows:

President NIXON
Mrs. NIXON
[redacted]
Vice President AGNEW
[redacted]
[redacted]

b6 b7C

He stated these persons will be staying at various locations on Miami Beach and in Dade County. They all are expected to arrive around July 19 or 20, 1972. [redacted] stated he would furnish further specific details as they are received. b6 b7C

[redacted] also advised that photographs for credentials for the RNC will be handled in the same manner as for the DNC, and processing for such photographs is to begin immediately. He stated that the RNC is not going to issue credentials to the convention on a daily basis, but one credential will be issued for all sessions.

b7C

Additional Plans for the RNC

Colonel COTZIN stated that law enforcement units will have the entire Miami Beach auditorium at its disposal during the RNC.

COTZIN stated that he and Chief POMERANCE, as well as others involved in planning for the RNC, would very much like to have mobile scooters for use by police units in the event of thrashing activities by dissenting groups. He stated, however, that to date they have been unable to obtain such units, and do not have the funds to purchase them.

The National Guard representative advised that the National Guard would like to be more closely involved in the overall planning for law enforcement at the RNC. As a result of their experience at the DNC, they feel they should be more knowledgeable of current developments at the convention site. They will assign a representative to the Miami Beach planning office immediately.

Sheriff PURDY advised that the presence of President NIXON at Key Biscayne will require assignment of additional personnel from his department to this area, which will somewhat dilute the availability of personnel at the convention complex.

Colonel COTZIN advised that it has been tentatively decided that the tactical commander in the immediate area will have the responsibility for opening or closing the convention gates, rather than waiting for orders from the command post.

COTZIN stated that additional police cars will be available inside the convention compound to transport individuals who might be arrested.

They stated that their groups' activities at the Democratic Convention would largely be support of other organizations with major action set for the Republican Convention in August. to organize demonstrations for the Republican Convention next month.

The San Diego Convention Coalition (SDCC) is a group comprised of representatives of various radical organizations in San Diego which was formed for active opposition to the U.S. Government through "serious, determined and long-term social upheaval."

The Florida People's Coalition (FPC), also known as the Florida People's Platform Coalition, is a statewide organization established as a pressure group to demonstrate at the Democratic National Convention on Miami Beach during July, 1972.

On July 12, 1972, the Miami Herald reported that during a rally at the Students for a Democratic Society tent, SHARI WHITEHEAD spoke for the MCC saying "We don't want to have any confrontation at convention hall. We think it would help NIXON and create bad vibrations." Miss WHITEHEAD was referring to the incident that took place at convention hall on Monday evening, July 10, 1972, at which time a perimeter fence was toppled by demonstrators.

Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) was founded during June, 1962, at Port Huron, Michigan, and in the 1960s functioned as the leading New Left campus-based student organization in the United States. From an initial posture of "participatory democracy," SDS moved to a radical-revolutionary position, with debate centering on how best to create a revolutionary youth movement. Internal factionalism produced a split during the SDS National Convention in June, 1969, which resulted in the following three factions: Weatherman; Worker Student Alliance (WSA); and Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM). The Weatherman and RYM are no longer affiliated with SDS. The WSA continues to use the name SDS and maintains its national headquarters in Chicago, Illinois.

RE: [redacted]

On July 12, 1972, source four, who has furnished reliable information in the past, advised that the YIP was currently involved in a demonstration at the Democratic Convention site. This started at 7:00 p.m. with about 500 persons, reportedly with YIP, led by the female Zippie and members of MCC. They loaded bags of dirt and proceeded to the convention area. The purpose was to shape a dike representing the dikes in Vietnam. The croud grew to about 1,500 at the convention area. [redacted] indicated that they should not let up on the preasure against MC GOVERN. There was some singing, no incidents and no arrests occurred. The general purpose of this demonstration was to get MC GOVERN to speak to them about his statement that he was going to leave a residual corp of troops in Vietnam.

In view of [redacted] you are reminded that all information received from these sources while they are in Miami should be appropriately recorded in accordance with existing regulations as set forth in the Manual of Instructions. It is realized that in a fast moving situation where the informant telephones the information to your office it may not be possible to record it and subsequently have it authenticated by the source. Nevertheless, insure the information is recorded and made a part of that source's file.

When [redacted] furnish the handling office with the information source developed while in Miami so that office will be in a position to properly evaluate the source and conduct a thorough debriefing.

Insure that the informants on assignment in Miami are identifying individuals involved in the various organizations and groups and that appropriate dissemination is being made to the individual case files so the office of origin of the individuals will be in possession of all information regarding the individual's activities while in Miami.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION
AUGUST, 1972

The Republican National Convention (RNC) is scheduled to be held at Miami Beach, Florida, August 21 - 24, 1972.

I. ORGANIZATIONS PLANNING PROTEST DEMONSTRATIONS

A. MIAMI CONVENTIONS COALITION (MCC)

The MCC was formed at a national meeting in Washington, D. C. during May, 1972, as a coalition of groups planning protest activities at the Democratic National Convention (DNC) and RNC, including the Florida People's Coalition (FPC) and the San Diego Convention Coalition (SDCC).

It has been previously reported that the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ) is the principal organization involved in the MCC. The PCPJ is assisted in the MCC mainly by the Youth International Party (YIP). Other organizations in the MCC are the Miami Womens Coalition (MWC), Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW), and the National Coalition of Gay Organizations (NCGO).

The SDCC was formed to organize demonstrations at the RNC at San Diego, California. This organization was dissolved when the site of the RNC was changed from San Diego to Miami Beach, Florida.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

The FPC is a state-wide organization established as a pressure group to demonstrate at the DNC, Miami Beach, Florida, July, 1972.

The PCPJ is self-described as a coalition of over 100 organizations which are using massive civil disobedience to combat racism, poverty, repression and war.

YIP is a loosely-knit, anti-establishment, revolutionary youth organization.

The MWC is the women's group of the MCC, founded by [redacted] b6 b7C

The VVAW is a national veterans organization with a national clearinghouse located at 25 West 26th Street, New York City. Its first published objective is "to demand an immediate cessation of fighting and a withdrawal of all American troops from Indochina".

The NCGO is a coalition of national homosexual groups, formed in Chicago in February, 1972.

1. MCC Activity in the Miami area

A coordinating committee has been formed among the various protest groups. The committee will consist of one member from each of the MCC's several "task forces", and two representatives from each of the following organizations:

The MCC is to pay $3,000 for 23 rooms at the Chanin Hotel, 21st Street and Collins Avenue, Miami Beach, beginning August 4, 1972.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

The MCC is currently distributing fliers captioned "Prepare" in the Miami, Florida area. These fliers show the Republican Party has a full schedule of events during the week preceding the convention and that activities during this period will set the tone for RNC protests. The flier states a pre-convention session will be held at noon, August 10, 1972, and persons interested should contact the MCC office for further information.

The "Pre-convention" demonstration at President NIXON's Key Biscayne residence on August 9, 1972, was held as planned. There were between 70 and 80 participants who presented various guerrilla theater skits and also presented a people's indictment for President NIXON. This activity received considerable media coverage. There was no violence and no arrests were made.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

An MCC representative was to contact Students For a Democratic Society (SDS) people in Miami on August 9, 1972, in an attempt to have SDS join with MCC in convention related activities. It is to be made clear to SDS they would be allowed to join with MCC only if they agreed to accept MCC rules and decisions relating to RNC activities.

MM T-4 [redacted] b7D

SDS was founded during June, 1962, at Port Huron, Michigan, and in the 1960s functioned as the leading New Left campus-based student organization in the United States. From a stance of "participatory democracy", the SDS moved to a radical-revolutionary position. It maintained a national office at 1608 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois, until February, 1970. Internal factionalism during 1969 produced three main factions: Weatherman, Revolutionary Youth Movement (RYM), and Worker Student Alliance (WSA). The Weatherman and RYM no longer consider themselves associated with the SDS. The WSA faction continues to use the name SDS.

WSA, a faction of SDS, was expelled from SDS in June, 1969, by the then dominant Weatherman faction, but continued to use the name SDS and opened an office in Cambridge, Massachusetts. WSA aligned ideologically with the Progressive Labor Party (PLP) and, in February, 1971, moved to Chicago, Illinois, where it opened the SDS National Office at 1225 South Wabash Street.

The PLP was founded in 1962 by individuals expelled from the Communist Party, United States of America, for following the Chinese communist line. Its objective is the establishment of a militant working class movement based on Marxism-Leninism and Mao Tse-tung thought.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

An MCC flier captioned "Wind Nixon Down", which describes the MCC scenario during the RNC, was distributed during the North American Anti-Imperialistic Coalition Conference near Allenspark, Colorado, July 20 - 23, 1972. This flier invited people to Miami during the RNC.

MM T-8 [redacted] b7D

Forty-five individuals representing the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee, the MCC, VVAW, People's Expose, Revolutionary Union, Attica Brigade, Liberated Guardian, U. S. Committee to Aid the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam, and the Zippies attended an MCC sponsored meeting in New York City on August 7, 1972. [redacted] spoke at this meeting. He said that [redacted] of the Black Panther Party and WILLIAM KUNSTLER, one of the attorneys for the so-called Chicago Seven defendants, would speak at a GEORGE JACKSON Memorial to be held on August 20, 1972. [redacted] also said that on August 23, 1972, non-violent civil disobedience would take place at the convention hall; the VVAW and senior citizens would hold a sit-in at the Doral Hotel; there would be a three-hour sit-in at the main access roads leading to the convention hall to prevent delegates from entering. b6 b7C b7D

MM T-9, MM T-10, and MM T-11 [redacted] b7D

The Attica Brigade is a New York organization formed in the fall of 1971 to march as a contingent in a demonstration to protest the Attica Prison incident. The group has come to view itself as a vanguard - anti-imperialistic action organization and its membership consists of persons who have engaged in street fighting, trashing actions, and similar forms of paramilitary activity.

The Zippies is an off-shoot of the YIP.

The Black Panther Party is a black extremist organization started in Oakland, California, in December, 1966. It advocates the use of guns and guerrilla tactics to bring about the overthrow of the United States Government.

The Fifth Avenue Vietnamese Peace Parade Committee, also known as the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee, is publicly known as an organization that has organized and participated in anti-Vietnam war demonstrations in New York City and has provided transportation for anti-Vietnam war demonstrations outside of New York City.

The Revolutionary Union was founded in early 1968 and is a militant, semi-clandestine organization. Its objectives, as set out in its publication, are the development of a united front against imperialism, the fostering of revolutionary working class unity and leadership in struggle, and the formation of a Communist Party based on Marxism-Leninism Mao Tse-tung thought, leading to the overthrow of the United States Government by force and violence.

GEORGE JACKSON was one of the three soledad prisoners on trial for the murder of a prison guard. He was killed during an escape attempt from San Quentin Prison on August 21, 1971.

Efforts are being made to locate help in transporting exhibits for Expose '72 from New York City to Miami Beach. These exhibits include posters, tape recorders and video equipment.

3. MCC "Tactical Manual"

The language to appear in the final draft of the Tactical Manual has been subject of much debate. Some leaders feel the section dealing with third day activities is too strong and demand that it be re-written. They feel if not re-written violence would occur during third day actions. As a result, the language advocating militant action that could result in violence has been completely re-written. The majority of the people involved in the approval of the manual feel it had to be re-written to avoid a possible conspiracy trial such as resulted from activities after the DNC in Chicago in 1968. They do not intend to permit any language in the Tactical Manual which would be the basis for criminal prosecution.

[redacted] b7D

At a tactics committee meeting on [redacted] it was reported the Tactical Manual should be ready for distribution by Friday night, August 4, 1972. Ten thousand copies are to be printed.

It is expected that a sequel to this manual will be issued just prior to the RNC.

[redacted] b7D

The MCC Tactical Manual prepared principally by the PCPJ with assistance from the YIP has been printed. It is entitled "Manual for the Republican Convention, August 20 - 23". It is 24 pages in length and states it was prepared by the MCC, PCPJ, YIP, Effeminist Caucus, and the Miami Womens Coalition. The Effeminist Caucus is a name taken by representatives of the NCGO, who are connected with the MCC.

It is expected that 25,000 copies of the manual will be printed, 10,000 of which already have been printed at Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and will be distributed throughout the United States.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

The manual contains anti-Vietnam war articles and also photographs and maps of the Miami Beach area.

An article captioned "The Summer of 72" states the "demonstrations planned for Miami Beach should initiate activity through the election period to expose and isolate NIXON and other administration spokesmen".

An article captioned "Theory Into Practice: A Discussion of Tactics" states "our main aim is to smash the NIXON myth that his term represents four years of domestic tranquility". Their tactics for demonstrations at the RNC are described as "militant, non-violent confrontations". It is stated they will "express ourselves in the strongest manner possible; that we will remain non-violent".

Several pages are devoted to an explanation of the previously issued MCC scenario for the RNC, including the following:

The "Women in Revolt: August 20-21"- article states women will assemble at hotels for guerrilla theater action. On the afternoon of August 21, 1972, they will march on convention hall "militantly and musically". At the convention complex the first rally will be held by women. They will continue guerrilla theaters at the convention site.

During the GEORGE JACKSON Memorial to be held on August 21, 1972, the activities will be based on the axiom "you can kill a revolutionary but you can't kill the revolution".

On August 23, 1972, referred to as the "Day of Unacceptance", it is stated "we will engage the Republican war makers with guerrilla theaters, sit-ins, civil disobedience, and mobile civil disobedience. The specified four sites for activities during the evening of August 23, 1972, are as follows:

The first site is along Washington Avenue in front of the convention hall where "we will non-violently occupy" the area. Reportedly they expect the local officials to allow a sit-in demonstration along Washington Avenue and no arrests are anticipated for the area. At the same time the above non-violent disobedience is taking place other actions will also occur.

The second site is on Meridian Avenue west of the convention site between 17th and 18th Streets where a non-violent sit-in will take place. For those wishing to avoid immediate arrests, more fluid forms of direct action will be held in two other areas.

The third site is Dade Avenue (Boulevard) between Meridian Avenue and Alton Road.

The fourth site is Collins Avenue south of 24th Street.

The objective is to surround the convention with "angry protesters". The key element in these activities is ingenuity. The "less traditional type of civil disobedience, called "mobile civil disobedience" will be used.

An article captioned "Native Americans" reported Sioux Indians from South Dakota will participate in convention activities to "cry out against the United States Government's attempts to annihilate them and their culture". Another article captioned "Who Are the Cubans?" states that most of Miami's Cubans are indifferent and a small number quietly support the Cuban revolution of FIDEL CASTRO.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

An article captioned "Mass Arrests" reports the mass arrests made at Miami will be made similar to the way mass arrests have been made in Washington, D. C. in the past and describes this procedure in some detail. This article also describes actions to be taken for those arrested prior to the time bond may be posted. There is also an explanation of local "drug laws", "clothing" or dress laws, as well as "stop and frisk" laws.

An article captioned "Miami Beach Government: Fat Cats in the Streets" sets forth a description of big business and organized crime in Miami Beach and criticizes the Mayor and City Council of Miami Beach.

An article captioned "Senior Citizens" describes senior citizens as a long overlooked deeply oppressed minority, most of whom are in sympathy with the Movement people. This article describes some of the problems of senior citizens.

The article captioned "The Hotels" describes the Miami Beach hotels as examples of American sexism, decadence, and opulence.

An article captioned "Land and Logistics" calls for humane principles at the non-delegates camp site. This article assumes that Flamingo Park will be made available for camp sites. It describes the full medical services and food services that will be available. A section of this article on communications discourages the use of walkie talkies and encourages all demonstrators to listen to Miami FM radio station WBUS (93.9 megacycles) for current accurate information during demonstrations.

An article captioned "Get Organized" reports that it is "imperative" for people to organize themselves into affinity groups of five to ten people, and regions, clusters of affinity groups prior to their arrival in Miami Beach to insure success in actions. The MCC should be advised in advance of (1) "Your area"; (2) Name and address of all area coordinators; (3) Estimated number of organized affinity groups; (4) Any need for more literature; (5) Information as to how you learned of the MCC; and (6) How you received your copy of the manual.

The article captioned "Expose '72" describes this project as a way to explain to the American people.

MM T-1 [redacted] b7D

B. VVAW

During the VVAW national convention at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, July 21 - 24, 1972, it was learned the VVAW expects 1,000 members in Miami for the RNC. Their policy for demonstrations during the RNC is to take no part in violent or aggressive action and to refrain from hassling police but not to back down if arrested. The VVAW will be in charge of crowd control during activities during the RNC.

MM T-14 [redacted] b7D

Leaflets will be distributed at an anti-war rally in New York City on August 5, 1972, in an effort to recruit VVAW people in the New York area to travel to Miami for the RNC. The New York VVAW people are experiencing difficulty in obtaining automobiles for travel to Miami. 2,000 people are expected to arrive in Miami via the VVAW car caravan called the "Last Patrol". Three buses have been obtained in Washington, D. C. to join the east coast contingent of this caravan. Plans are for all sections of the caravan to converge at Jacksonville, Florida, on August 20, 1972, although this location may be changed to Gainesville, Florida, due to the "tough reputation" of the Jacksonville Police Department.

MM T-15 b7D

The VVAW wanted 5,000 members to attend the RNC demonstrations but only about 2,000 apparently will attend. The east coast section of their "Last Patrol" will leave Boston on August 16, 1972, New York, on August 17, 1972, Washington, D. C. on August 18, 1972, and Fort Bragg, North Carolina, on August 19, 1972.

MM T-9, MM T-10 and MM T-11 b7D

The VVAW is attempting to recruit participants for their 150 mile march from Fort Pierce, Florida, to Miami Beach, Florida. In literature being distributed it is stated that non-veterans will service the march by a car caravan which will carry camping equipment and establish camp sites.

This march will start at Fort Pierce on August 12, 1972, and travel south along U. S. AlA and U. S. 1 covering approximately 20 miles a day. On August 20, 1972, they will be at Haulover Beach, Dade County, Florida, and on August 21, 1972, will march to the convention site at Miami Beach.

MM T-16 b7D

VVAW members have contacted the head of an organization known as "Cubans for MC GOVERN" in an attempt to get a group of Cubans who are opposed to the Vietnam War to demonstrate at the RNC.

[redacted] b7D

On July 26, 1972, some VVAW members left their camp site at St. Petersburg, Florida, to come to Miami, Florida. Others will come to Miami in the near future to work on setting up security arrangements for the VVAW at their camp site in Miami Beach.

The St. Petersburg VVAW camp site will be used as a staging area for personnel traveling to the RNC along Florida's west coast.

MM T-16

[redacted] VVAW people from Seattle, Washington, plan to attend the RNC. b7D

MM T-18

[redacted]

There appears to be little or no interest by VVAW members in the following areas in joining the "Last Patrol" to the RNC:

Albany, New York

MM T-19

[redacted]

Louisville and Lexington, Kentucky b7D

[redacted]

The VVAW car caravan will depart San Francisco on August 13, 1972, travel to Los Angeles and San Diego, California. It will be at Midland, Texas, on August 17, 1972, Atlanta, Georgia, on August 18, 1972, and Jacksonville, Florida, on August 19, 1972. All sections of the caravan will meet in Jacksonville and travel together to Miami. They will remain in Miami one day after the convention ends to re-group and then return home in convoy as they arrived. VVAW activities in Miami call for peaceful demonstrations and no firearms will be allowed in the caravan.

MM T-21 b7D

C. ATTICA BRIGADE

About 30 to 40 members of the Attica Brigade from New York are planning to be in Miami during the RNC.

MM T-22 b7D

About 50 to 75 radicals presently affiliated with the New York Attica Brigade will soon be leaving for Miami Beach. At Miami Beach they will act as an autonomous entity during RNC demonstrations.

MM T-10 b7D

D. FIFTH AVENUE PEACE PARADE COMMITTEE

The Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee from New York City will have a majority of its people traveling to Miami Beach by car pools for activities during the RNC.

MM T-9, MM T-10 and MM T-11 b7D

E. COMMUNIST PARTY SUPPORT

A representative of the Communist Party, USA National Office gave the PCPJ $1,000 to pay on the MCC telephone bill at Miami Beach.

MM T-3 [redacted] b7D

F. AMERICAN INDIANS

The "Tactical Manual" published by the MCC contained an article reporting a caravan will leave the Pine Ridge Sioux Reservation in South Dakota and arrive in Miami to participate in non-delegate activities during the RNC. Other Indians from around the country are expected to come and "cry out against the United States Government's attempts to annihilate them and their culture".

MM T-1 [redacted] b7D

Six car loads of Sioux Indians will be coming from South Dakota to Miami Beach for the RNC, according to RENNIE DAVIS.

MM T-9, MM T-10 and MM T-11 [redacted] b7D

G. BLACK ORGANIZATIONS

The Black community of Miami appears apathetic towards the RNC. Support for activities by civil rights organizations during the RNC will be smaller and less influential than during the DNC.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

A representative of the Malcolm X United Liberation Front (MXULF), a black militant organization from Tallahassee, Florida, is in Miami working among blacks in an attempt to recruit some militant youths for activities during the RNC. They may be able to get some support from a few young black militants in the area.

Florida Department of Law Enforcement
July 28, 1972

[redacted] are in Miami to formulate plans for participation in demonstrations at the RNC. The only positive plans discussed for MXULF sponsored activities during the RNC is the possibility of holding a rally in the city of Miami to orient the black population and unite them concerning black political prisoners. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] b7D

No members of the Republic of New Africa from the Chicago area are planning to travel to Miami for the RNC.

MM T-24, MM T-25,
MM T-26 and MM T-27
[redacted] b7D

No members of Operation Push (People United to Save Humanity) from Chicago plan to attend the RNC.

MM T-28
[redacted] b7D

No Nation of Islam members from Chicago plan to attend the RNC.

MM T-29
[redacted] b7D

The Nation of Islam is an all-black nationwide organization headquartered at Muhammad's Temple 2, 5335 South Greenwood Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, under the guidance of Elijah Muhammad, self-styled "Messenger of Allah" and only divinely appointed leader of the black race in the United States. Its purpose is separation of the black man from the devil (white race) through establishment of a black nation.

H. UNDERGROUND NEWSPAPERS

The July 28, 1972 - August 3, 1972 issue of the "Berkeley Barb", an underground type newspaper published at Berkeley, California, contained four articles relating to the RNC.

One of these articles reported on the VVAW "Last Patrol", which was described as a three-pronged national caravan to the RNC. This article also relates to the struggle of the VVAW against Government attempts to control VVAW activities.

A second article reported on the MCC, which it described as an umbrella group for demonstrations at the RNC.

A third article reported the MCC's published scenario.

A fourth article reported on plans of the Miami Women's Coalition to have a "strong independent presence" at the RNC.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

The "Quick Silver Times", an underground type newspaper published in Washington, D. C., in an undated issue published the MCC scenario for the RNC followed by a section headed "Bring a Helmet". This section states "Many of us want to choose where and when violence occurs ...". It also states "there are many opportunities to take independent offensive action". There is also an announcement that buses would be available for those wishing to travel from Washington, D. C., to Miami, which would leave Washington on August 19, 1972.

There was also a lengthy article on the laws, weather, police, transportation facilities and other items of interest for people intending to visit Miami Beach.

Movement people in New Orleans will rent a bus for $1,260 to transport people to Miami for the RNC. About 12 people have pledged their $31.00 fare already.

J. CAMP SITES

The Miami Beach City Council delayed debate or discussion on a camp site for non-delegates during the RNC until their regularly scheduled meeting on August 14, 1972. The Religious and Community Leaders Concerned (RCLC), a group formed in December, 1971, has agreed to act as coordinator for the camp sites. RCLC urged the Miami Beach City Countil to approve the camp site as soon as possible.

"Miami Herald"
August 3, 1972

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

The delay by the Miami Beach City Council in approving a camp site for non-delegates will complicate camp site planning and will create a tremendous amount of chaos which could be disastrous for the RNC according to a YIP leader.

"Miami News"
August 3, 1972

The MCC feels they will have more difficulty in getting approval of the Miami Beach City Council for a camp site after they read the MCC's Tactical Manual.

II. THREATS OF VIOLENCE OR DISRUPTIVE ACTIVITY

A former Zippie stated the Zippies were too tame for him and he was going to join the Attica Brigade for the RNC. This person is reportedly getting firearms and plans to make bombs.

The SDS has discussed a plan for entering the convention hall during the RNC which calls for a rally of 5,000 or more at a vehicle gate to the convention site on the Washington Avenue side of the hall, probably on the last day. This rally or demonstration will be very vocal and the main body would ultimately rush around the corner and up the street to a point across from the Miami Beach Municipal Parking Garage. This will cause most of the police inside the complex to follow them. Two to three hundred SDS members would mingle with stragglers behind the main body of demonstrators. When the police set up their force opposite the large crowd of demonstrators the SDS using wire cutters and pry bars will rush the fence at a pedestrian gate on or near Washington Avenue far removed from the main body of police. When the police rush to cover their entrance the main body of demonstrators will then be urged to rush the gate.

MM T-31

[redacted] stated that at the RNC President NIXON will face the "most massive non-violent sit-in in American history". "We intend to sink RICHARD NIXON's election hopes in Miami Beach come August 21".

STEVE STEWART
"The Atlanta Constitution"
Atlanta, Georgia
August 4, 1972 edition

At an MCC meeting in New York City on August 7, 1972, [redacted] said that on August 23, 1972, non-violent civil disobedience would take place at the convention hall in Miami Beach. He said the VVAW and senior citizens would hold a sit-in at the Doral Hotel. There will be a three-hour sit-in at the four main access roads to the convention hall to prevent delegates from entering.

VVAW members en route from California to attend the VVAW national convention in Wisconsin in July, 1972, purchased $10.00 or $20.00 worth of fireworks, including smoke bombs, grenades, roman candles and aerial rockets for use at the RNC in Miami.

MM T-14 [redacted] b7D

The VVAW has acquired four backpack radios with tunable frequencies enabling them to receive and transmit on frequencies used by the National Guard and the 82nd Airborne Division in Miami for the RNC.

MM T-3 [redacted] b7D

Members of the protest planning groups said they definitely expect arrests as a result of August 23, 1972, actions.

"Miami Herald"
August 8, 1972

At the VVAW national convention held in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, July 21 - 24, 1972, it was learned that a black militant group, name unknown, will give instructions in the manufacture and use of explosives to VVAW personnel in Miami during the RNC.

MM T-14 [redacted] b7D

The VVAW caravan will leave Seattle, Washington, about August 5, 1972, by bus. General conversation among the VVAW members in the far west is that at the same time the VVAW caravan leaves the west coast a truck, discription unknown, will leave carrying 100 M-16 rifles and four to six thousand rounds of ammunition. The truck will travel a different route and will not be connected with the caravan. In Miami it will be located a short distance from the main VVAW contingent.

b7D

The Los Angeles VVAW contingent will have at least "three pieces" (firearms) and everyone in that contingent will be carrying a knife or sharpened entrenching tool or a flare pistol. One member has two sets of 8-inch by 3/4-inch wood dials joined by rawhide, an instrument used by Chicanos in street fighting which is utilized as a club.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

[redacted] The ammunition was purchased in fear of an anticipated passage of gun and/or ammunition control legislation. [redacted] purchased the ammunition for a number of people because he is wealthy and does not have a criminal record. Neither [redacted] nor his [redacted] are radically oriented and they have expressed no intent in visiting Miami for the RNC. [redacted] is presently [redacted]

b6

It is believed that [redacted] ammunition purchase is in no way involved with radical oriented individuals or organizations.

[redacted] who claimed membership in the Weatherman faction of SDS as well as the "Haitian Liberation Front", about eight weeks ago said he was looking for C-4 explosives as he "wanted to make some fireworks for RICHARD NIXON at the RNC". [redacted] possibly would even blow himself up to "bring down the power structure".

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

Demonstrators plan "one of the largest sit-ins in the history of this country" to close the streets but not hotel lobbies during the RNC. "An inadvertent printer's error" reported plans which include hotel lobby demonstrations in the manual prepared by the MCC. Demonstrators expect arrests for sit-ins at intersections but promise no resistance in any kind of an aggressive manner. It would not be inappropriate for NIXON to be nominated in a hall surrounded by the National Guard. Sit-ins will include "mobile civil disobedience". Demonstrators may move from intersection to intersection ahead of the police to stay in the streets as long as possible. These were statements made by MCC leaders.

"Miami Herald"
August 10, 1972

III. POSSIBILITY OF COUNTERDEMONSTRATIONS

A. CUBAN

A conference of Cuban exile leaders who are planning to organize a demonstration at the RNC was held on August 6, 1972. The proposed demonstration is being promoted by the Partido Revolucionario Cubano (PRC), the organization mainly responsible for staging demonstrations at the DNC. In addition to this organization, approximately ten other anti-CASTRO Cuban exile groups participated in the meeting. The meeting was held primarily to insure that all Cuban exile participants have been carefully instructed as to the necessity to avoid disturbances or violence of any kind during the demonstration. The purpose of the demonstration will be to urge the Republicans to continue to refrain from entering into co-existence with Cuba while pursuing the trade embargo.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

A date and time for the demonstration has not been decided as yet. Hopes are to have at least 5,000 Cubans participate in the RNC demonstration as compared to less than 1,000 participants in the DNC demonstration.

MM T-17 [redacted] b7D

B. OTHERS

The National Socialist White People's Party (NSWWP) at Arlington, Virginia, has published a leaflet entitled "Operation Beachhead", which states the NSWPP intends to "demonstrate on behalf of the unrepresented millions of white people in America" at the RNC. This will be the major NSWPP activity of the summer and all members are urged to give it their support.

MM T-35 [redacted] b7D

The NSWWP, also known as The American Nazi Party, American Nazis, and The George Lincoln Rockwell Party, was organized on February 26, 1956, at Arlington, Virginia, based upon the concept of an international "National Socialist" movement as espoused by the German Nazi Party headed by ADOLF HITLER. The organization supports and follows the line of hatred against Negroes, Jews, and communists through various propaganda media seeking a legitimate dominant political party in the United States and foreign countries.

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

The NSWPP "Operation Beachhead" is scheduled for Miami Beach August 19 - 23, 1972. They hope to have a camp site for 1,000 white people. The purpose for this activity is to expose the candidates and their platform as a sell out to the blacks and the Jews, also to promote national socialism. As many as possible should wear their Nazi uniforms. Car pools are being organized and efforts being made to raise money for expenses and legal funds.

MM T-36

C. MISCELLANEOUS [redacted] b7D

Three thousand young voters, ages 18 to 30, are expected in the Miami Beach area on August 19, 1972, and will remain through the end of the RNC. They are to assist the Republican Party in various ways and are to inform the American public that the President has a "youth following".

RE: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE
REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

Their headquarters will be at the Delano Hotel, Miami Beach. They will have an office in the Roosevelt Building on Arthur Godfrey Road, Miami Beach. They will act as and attempt to rally personnel for sign carriers under the name "Florida Volunteers for the President".

SUBJECT: MIAMI CONVENTION COALITION (MCC)
IS - RA; MIDEM; MIREP

Re Miami airtel to Bureau and Atlanta, 7/11/72.

Referenced airtel pointed out that the office of the MCC was located at 1717 Alton Rd., Miami Beach, Fla., and that before the MCC was able to obtain a telephone on the premises, the telephone located at the house where some of the members of the MCC were staying, was published as the official number of the MCC. This number was [redacted] which was subscribed to by [redacted] Miami, Florida. b6 b7C

Referenced airtel set forth telephone numbers called from the above Miami telephone number and recipient offices were requested to identify subscribers in their respective areas, plus check indices for them.

Atlanta was requested to ascertain the subscriber of Macon, Ga., telephone number [redacted] which was called on 5/26/72. b6 b7C

On 7/19/72, SA [redacted] determined from the Macon, Ga. Cross Reference Telephone Index that telephone number [redacted] was currently listed to Mercer University, Dowell Hall, second floor, Macon, Ga. The telephone was not listed to a particular individual, but rather to the dormitory. b6 b7C

Since it was not possible to ascertain who was called at Mercer University from the MCC number, Atlanta is taking no further action in regard to this call.

RE:
STEWART EDWARD ALBERT

[redacted] JERRY RUBIN, ABBIE HOFFMAN, STEWART ALBERT and passed through Miami on May 8, 1972, destined for New York City, where they will participate in demonstrations at the United Nations concerning the escalation of the war. b6 b7C

An anti-war rally took place on campus at the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Florida, May 12, 1972. ABBIE HOFFMAN, JERRY RUBIN and STEWART ALBERT participated.

RUBIN, HOFFMAN and ALBERT accompanied by their "groupies" on May 13, 1972, drove to Miami Beach, Florida. There they visited the Miami Beach Convention Hall, the site of the forthcoming national conventions. The inspected possible camp sites such as parks and golf courses.

[redacted] b7D

JERRY RUBIN, ABBIE HOFFMAN and STEWART ALBERT met with the Chief of Police at Miami Beach Police Department. During the meeting they stated it was their desire that the convention be peaceful. They requested the use of Bay Shore Golf Course as a camping site during the time of the conventions when they will stage a ten day festival from July 4 through 14, 1972. They were advised that the decision would have to be made by the Miami Beach City Manager. RUBIN requested a meeting with the City Manager for May 23, 1972. All stated that they hoped no attempt would be made to infiltrate their organizations. They advised that they represented the Youth International Party (YIP). Following the meeting RUBIN and ALBERT held a press conference in front of the Miami Beach Police Department headquarters. They had alerted the local press to the meeting with the Chief of Police.

RE:
STEWART EDWARD ALBERT

HOFFMAN did not participate in the press conference since he was leaving Miami on a noon flight. RUBIN and ALBERT stated they were leaving Miami later that day.

MM T-2 b7D

The Youth International Party (YIP), also known as Yippies, is a loosely knit, anti-establishment revolutionary youth organization formed in New York City in January, 1968. Following a factional dispute in May, 1972, the YIP divided into two factions, the Yippies headed by a YIP collective, and the Zippies, headed by THOMAS KING FORCADE, a member of the underground press syndicate.

It was learned that on [redacted] who said he was with the YIP and that this organization supported Senator GEORGE MC GOVERN for President, telephonically contacted [redacted] at the Victory Hotel, 1144 Ocean Drive, Miami Beach, Florida. [redacted] said [redacted] was recommended by [redacted] and since [redacted] was also a MC GOVERN supporter he would like to get together. [redacted] was supposed to come to this hotel on [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] said the YIPs were interested in a headquarters in the South Beach area during the Democratic and Republican National Conventions. [redacted] suggested that he contact the Harvey Building at 14th and Washington Avenue, Miami Beach, which has vacant offices, formerly used by MC GOVERN committees. b6 b7C

STU ALBERT reported to meeting of New York "Enraged Ones" on June 19, 1972, regarding planning for the Miami protest. ALBERT just returned from Miami where he conferred with representatives of the Florida Platform Coalition (FPC) and the Miami Convention Coalition (MCC). ALBERT reported the FPC was very disorganized on staff level and national movement response had been disappointing. ALBERT related concern over older aged people in Miami and danger of their being gased. This was sighted for the reason for non-militancy. ALBERT also stated little action was planned for the large hotels in the area because of mafia connection and fear of reprisal.

This document is the ninth of a series which will summarize information developed by the FBI concerning the potential for disruptive activities targeted at the 1972 national political conventions. Plans, activities, and objectives of protest groups will be reported on a regular basis until the end of the convention period.

The Republican National Convention will be held in Miami Beach, Florida, August 21-24, 1972. During July, 1972, the Democratic National Convention was held at the same site.

OUTLOOK

The Miami Conventions Coalition, guided by [redacted] and his supporters, continues to set the pace among groups planning demonstrations and disruptions for the upcoming Republican Convention. At a meeting in New York City on August 7, 1972, [redacted] outlined the current status of events planned for the dates of the convention and announced that [redacted] and "movement" attorney William Kunstler will be among those appearing for certain of the activities. b6 b7C

Crowd estimates remain a major area of concern for protest planners. While figures of 5,000 to 10,000 demonstrators have been freely bantered about by members of various protest groups, the facts to justify or refute these numbers do not presently exist. As recently as August 7, the Vietnam Veterans Against the War claimed it would produce 2,000 of its members and supporters in Miami Beach. There is little doubt, however, that the validity of this claim depends strongly on the results of the nationwide caravan being organized by the organization.

ORGANIZATIONS

On August 7, 1972, MCC sponsored a meeting in New York City of representatives from the Fifth Avenue Peace Parade Committee, Zippies, Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW), People's Expose, Attica Brigade, Liberated Guardian, Revolutionary Union, and the United States Committee to Aid the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam. The principal speaker at the meeting was [redacted] veteran antiwar demonstration organizer, who announced that Black Panther Party [redacted] and "movement" attorney William Kunstler will speak at the memorial service for George Jackson in Miami Beach on August 21. According to [redacted] a women's march is b6 b7C planned for the daylight hours of August 21, with the route to be from 21st Street to the Convention Center. Also mentioned by [redacted] were a "Vietnamese cultural event" and a senior citizens' activity (not further described) for August 21. MCC plans a massive nighttime demonstration August 22, including a march from the northern portion of Miami Beach to the immediate vicinity of the Convention Center. The events announced by [redacted] for August 23 indicate this date will be a particularly active one. Scheduled are an unspecified nonviolent civil disobedience demonstration at the Convention Center, a sit-in by VVAW members at the Doral Hotel, and a three-hour sit-in on the four main access roads leading to the Convention Center. b6 b7C

At the August 7 meeting, [redacted] of the Zippies mentioned that to transport persons to Miami for demonstrations the Zippies have chartered one bus and have rented two station wagons. VVAW members at this meeting indicated to [redacted] that while their goal was to have 5,000 members in Miami Beach for protest activities, only about 2,000 will attend. b6 b7C

At an MCC meeting held in Miami Beach on July 17, 1972, it was decided to establish "task forces" to handle specific areas of responsibility in preparation for the Republican Convention. Those set up were:

Land Committee
Tactics Manual
Campsite Headquarters Finances
Solidarity Committee
Expose '72
Vietnamese Cultural Event
Media Propaganda
George Jackson Memorial Service
Tallahassee Conference
Rock Concert
Relations with Senior Citizens
Communications
Pre-convention Activities
"The Second Day"
"The Third Day."

It was announced at a meeting of the Steering Committee of MCC on July 25, 1972, that the organization had rented approximately 25 rooms at the Chanin Motel, Miami Beach, to accommodate about 46 people during the period of the Republican Convention. Those to be housed will be full-time MCC staff members and those organizers officially invited by MCC to travel to Miami Beach.

At an MCC meeting in Miami Beach on August 1, a coordinating committee for group protest activities was selected. The committee is made up of one representative from each of the "task forces" and two representatives from each of the six major organizations planning Republican Convention activities: MCC, VVAW, Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice, Youth International Party, Miami Women's Coalition, and the National Coalition of Gay Organizations.

Attica Brigade

An estimated 50-75 Attica Brigade members are reported to be planning to travel to Miami from New York City, departing by car pool and airplane August 18 and returning August 27. Their activities while in the Miami area will reportedly be independent from protest actions contemplated by other groups.

The Attica Brigade views itself as a vanguard, anti-imperialist organization, and members have been involved in violent encounters with police officers during demonstrations.

Malcolm X United Liberation Front (MXULF)

Five MXULF members are known to be in Miami presently and are reported to be planning for participation in demonstrations at the Republican Convention. It is allegedly their desire to organize a rally in Miami during the convention period to inform the black residents of the area about the problem of "black political prisoners."

Organized in 1969 in Tallahassee, Florida, to unify the black persons in the area, MXULF adopted the motto: "Liberation by any means." Literature has been distributed in the past by MXULF depicting police officers being shot, captioned: "We must keep the racist, fascist pigs out of our community by any means necessary."

National Socialist White People's Party (NSWPP)

Literature is being mailed out announcing that the NSWPP will sponsor a demonstration in Miami Beach on August 21 as part of "Operation Beachhead," an NSWPP project. Additional plans call for establishment of a campsite in the Miami area capable of accommodating 1,000 people from August 19-23, 1972.

MISCELLANEOUS

American Indians

A caravan of Sioux Indians is being organized to proceed from the Pine Ridge Sioux Reservation, South Dakota, to Miami Beach, where these persons will participate in protests at the Republican Convention. Indians from other tribes throughout the country are also considering travel to the Miami area to "cry out against the U. S. Government's attempts to annihilate them (Indians) and their culture."

"Win the War" Demonstration

[redacted] is planning a "Win the War" march in Miami Beach on August 21. He reportedly is providing free transportation to the Miami area to gain supporters for the march. b6 b7C

Protesters Meet Republican Official

On July 28, 1972, [redacted] representing a coalition of protest groups, contacted [redacted] of the Arrangements Committee, Republican National Convention. On behalf of their groups, these two promised there would be no attacks on police or National Guard troops, no "trashing," and no disruption of the senior citizens' community. They indicated they expected 5,000 to 10,000 protesters at the Republican Convention and requested that the Republican Party intercede on their behalf with Miami Beach officials to obtain a campsite and other facilities for them. This request was denied, and they were told this was not within the authority of the Republican Party. b6 b7C

Campsite Consideration

At its regular bi-weekly meeting on August 2, 1972, the Miami Beach City Council voted to delay consideration of a nondelegate campsite until August 17, four days before the convention begins. Also passed by the council was a motion to determine the availability of the Army Corps of Engineers property on the southern tip of Miami Beach as a campsite. [redacted] of the Youth International Party referred to the council's action as "regrettable" and stated there was a possibility for tension to arise as a result of this action.

b7C

[redacted] Appearance

b7C

[redacted] has reportedly made a verbal agreement to appear in Miami Beach as a speaker at protest demonstrations against the Republican Convention. She is expected to arrive in Miami Beach on August 20, 1972.

Tactical Manual for Convention

Veteran protest leaders [redacted] held a press conference in Chicago, Illinois, on August 9, 1972, during which they announced nonviolent activities planned for the upcoming Republican Convention in Miami Beach. At the conclusion of the press conference, these two proceeded to the FBI Office in Chicago, where they presented a copy of "Manual for the Republican Convention" to an FBI representative there.

b7C

The manual is a 16-page document containing a series of articles concerning tactics and describing various events scheduled for the Republican Convention. Also included are diagrams of the convention site, Miami Beach, and Flamingo Park. Discussed in the manual are civil disobedience, "mobile civil disobedience," and mass arrest problems.

Rock Concert Canceled

Plans for the Jefferson Airplane to present a rock music concert have been discontinued because of serious financial problems encountered by the organizers of the event. Reportedly, a loss of $15,000 was experienced by one of the promoters.

RE: MIDEM; MIREP

Enclosed are two boxes (by separate cover) of processed film that represent photographs taken of demonstrators during the Democratic Convention at Miami which took place from July 10 through 14, 1972. Miami, during the convention period, processed two copies of same and these prints are being retained by the Miami Office. However, because of limited facilities, Miami requests the Bureau Laboratory to print two copies for each of the below-listed offices.

These photographs should be portrayed to informants, preferably those familiar with Weathfug type, in an effort to determine if any of these individuals were possibly at the PLACE: Miami, Fla.

ACTIVITY: DEMONSTRATIONS AT THE DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

[redacted]

[redacted] telephone [redacted] After arriving downtown, proceeded to SDS Headquarters, 420 Linclon Building, Room # 328. At the office were representatives from New York, Detriot, Chicago, and California.

Other groups having offices in the same building were: Vietnam Vetrans Against THe War (VVAW), Workers Action Movement (WAM), and the Miami Coalition.

From SDS Headquarters proceeded to Flamingo Park where most of the protest groups had set up staging areas and sleeping accomadations in the park. There I met [redacted]

[redacted] proceeded to the Playboy Plaza Hotel in an attempt to confront [redacted] regarding racism. However, they were unsuccessful in there attempt to confront [redacted] and the resultant disruption resulted in the arrest of some of the demonstrators.

[redacted]

The VVAW, who were the most organized group at Miami, held a march from downtown to the Convention Hall. The march and rally at the Hall included members of SDS, WAM, and the YIPPIES. At the Convention Hall these groups presented various speakers who spoke on their plans for the convention period, and also such topics as the war, racism, and welfare rights.

In addition to the above demonstration the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) was setting up a resurection city in downtown Miami.

Also, there was a group of loosely organized individuals known as the ZIPPIES present at Flamingo Park and at the various demonstrations. The ZIPPIES did not seem to have any spefific leader or program, but were only interested in smoking dope and having parties. They appeared to be well financed, and always had a large supply of drugs and grass available. Usually they seemed to be more of a disruptive force at the demonstrations, and speculation was that they were being financed by some "establishment group", for the purpose of causing disunity among the demonstrators.

[redacted]

The SDS sponsored a rally at the Democratic Convention Hall for the purpose of discussing McGovern's policies and programs. The rally was attended by the VVAW, WAM, and the YIPPIES. In addition, the YIPPIES were present, and attempted to disrupt the rally.

Later in the day the WAM group established a picket line at the convention hall and the downtown union hall in support of the demands of the waiters and other restaurant workers.

[redacted]

Representatives of SDS, VVAW, and the YIPPIES, approximately 100 persons went to the Doral Hotel which housed the McGovern headquarters and staged a sit-in, demanding that McGovern meet with them. After a number of hours of demonstrating, McGovern came down to the lobby of the hotel and held a conference with the demonstrators. b7D

There was also a combined rally of the SDS, WAM, YIPPIES, United Farm Workers, and others at the Convention Hall. It was attended by approximately 1,000 - 1,500 people, and an open mike was extended to the public to express their political views and grievances. The rally was held as close to the Hall as possible in order to get the attention of the delagates.

[redacted]

Rally at the convention hall similar to the one the day before and attended by most of the same groups. Nothing of note occurred during the rally.

[redacted]

Most of the groups were planning at meetings for the Republican National Convention. Each group left a small representative group in Miami to plan and coordinate their efforts for the next convention. No specific plans regarding demonstrations of violence were discussed, except that representatives of most of the groups present indicated that they expected between five and ten times the number of people to attend the Republican Convention as they had for the Democrats. Everyone was urged to talk it up back in their home areas, and to encourage great numbers of people to come to Florida for the Republican Convention.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

This document is the eighth of a series which will summarize information developed by the FBI concerning the potential for disruptive activities targeted at the 1972 national political conventions. Plans, activities, and objectives of protest groups will be reported on a regular basis until the end of the convention period.

The Republican National Convention will be held in Miami Beach, Florida, August 21-24, 1972. During July, 1972, the Democratic National Convention was held at the same site.

OUTLOOK

Conferences and planning sessions have been conducted during the past few weeks throughout the United States by a variety of groups organizing protest activities for the upcoming Republican Convention. Among the most active has been the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, which is planning "Operation Last Patrol," a proposed nationwide caravan to transport persons to the Miami area. Miami Conventions Coalition is likewise planning "major activities" during the convention period, with nonviolent actions being stressed. In an effort to disassociate themselves from an image of street violence (which they feel will aid the Nixon Administration), the Youth International Party is planning to use rock music groups to try to keep its followers from causing trouble. Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) has been busily recruiting Miami area blacks to join with them in protests at the convention, and SDS is also reported to be trying to breach the convention's security arrangements to gain access to the Convention Center.

Antiwar protest veteran [redacted] is alternately talking violence and nonviolence, depending on the audience. One of his more recent violent statements called for demonstrations which would turn Miami Beach into "an armed camp," specifying it is his aim that these demonstrations be of such a nature that it will be necessary for the military to be used to maintain order.

b7C

A possible key to evaluating the protest actions at the Democratic and Republican Conventions is the difference in the "tone" of the demonstrations. In general, the protests at the Democratic Convention were "positive" in nature; they were for something. Demonstrators there were for abortion, for birth control, for women's rights, for peace, for legalization of marijuana, for improved welfare programs, for homosexual rights, etc. On the other hand, demonstrations being considered for the Republican Convention tend to be "negative" in nature; they are against something. Protests will be targeted against continuation of the Vietnam War, against support of the South Vietnamese Government, against the Administration's economic policies, against the recent indictment of six members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, and against alleged racism and imperialism. Should such an analysis prove valid, it is conceivable that the "negative tone" could produce an outpouring of frustration which could degenerate into violent "solutions" to the various problems demonstrators feel exist.

ORGANIZATIONS

Miami Conventions Coalition (MCC)

During a recent MCC meeting in Miami, [redacted] a leader of the demonstrators at the 1968 Democratic Convention in Chicago, displayed his continuing militant stance concerning protest activities by stating that on the "third day" of the upcoming Republican Convention demonstration efforts should be such that military troops will have to be brought into action, turning the convention into "an armed camp." While [redacted] did not specify what actions he planned to provoke a military presence in Miami Beach, he did mention it is his goal that the number of troops be large enough to impede the delegates' entry into the Convention Center, forcing them to pass through a "gauntlet of militancy." b6 b7C

At a later meeting of the MCC, the contingent from the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ) advised that between 10,000 and 15,000 people are expected to participate in protests at the Republican Convention; however, PCPJ reported that it will be publicly announced that 50,000 people are expected to protest.

On July 25, 1972, following a three-day conference in Tallahassee, Florida, a press release was made by MCC which included:

1. A condemnation of President Nixon.

2. Support for the "Poor Peoples' Platform" and for members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War who were indicted recently in Tallahassee.

3. A demand for the cessation of support for the South Vietnamese Government, plus a demand for setting a date for the withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam.

4. A refusal to support the Presidential candidate of any party.

At the Tallahassee conference, MCC members discussed the possibility that President Nixon would make his acceptance speech on the second day of the convention, rather than on the third day. It was suggested by the MCC leadership that because of this, demonstrators should be prepared to perform their "major activities" on either the second or third day of the convention. Agreement was reached on the following issues:

1. No activity would be undertaken that would endanger the senior citizens of Miami Beach.

2. There would be no direct action against the military or the police.

3. There would be no "trashing" (destruction of property).

Discussions were also held concerning the memorial service for George Jackson to be held August 21, 1972. MCC decided to attempt to have either Communist Party member [redacted] or Black Panther Party leader [redacted] speak at this service. b6 b7C

It was also stated during the MCC conference in Tallahassee that acts of civil disobedience should be planned for the Republican Convention. While consideration was given to "May Day" tactics (acts of fast-hitting, widespread violence), the majority of the MCC conferees favored some unspecified method of delaying delegates from entering the Convention Center the evenings of the nomination of President Nixon and of his acceptance speech. Their hope is to embarrass the President by having television commentators refer to the small number of delegates present in the Convention Center on those evenings.

The MCC conferees also discussed surrounding the Convention Center with people linking arms to symbolize a human dike, entering and occupying delegates' rooms while they are away, and "laying seige to Miami Beach banks since they symbolize the establishment."

Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW)

"Operation Last Patrol" is being organized by VVAW as a nationwide caravan for transporting persons to Miami Beach. At present, plans are for three groups of vehicles to proceed via separate routes to Jacksonville, Florida, gathering caravan participants along the way. From Jacksonville, the groups will travel en masse to Miami Beach, with plans to arrive there on August 20, 1972. Caravan planners have stressed that violence will not be tolerated en route.

In addition to planning the caravan, VVAW members are also continuing organizing efforts for the 135-mile march from Fort Pierce, Florida, to Miami, Florida. Current information indicates that about 150 persons affiliated with VVAW are expected to participate in the march, which is planned for August 13-21.

"Tactics Manual," an operational guide for demonstration activities, is being studied by VVAW, with only two copies reportedly in existence. The manual, which possibly will be used for directing VVAW protests at the Republican Convention, contains a section entitled "Units and Tactics." In this section the utilization of a 500-man contingent to confront police officers is proposed. Members of the contingent are advised to equip themselves with chest protectors, helmets, heavy shoes, gas masks, and shields. Additionally, emphasis is placed on obtaining tear gas, chemical mace, sling shots, spikes, and other potentially dangerous devices. The use of firearms and explosives is acceptable only as a last resort, according to the manual.

The six VVAW members who were recently indicted on charges of conspiring to cause riots and disruptions at the Republican Convention reportedly do not plan to be in the Miami area during the upcoming convention, because they believe they will be harassed by law enforcement officials.

Approximately forty persons attended the VVAW conference at The Lake of the Woods State Park near Champaign, Illinois, on July 29, 1972 (previously described in the July 28, 1972, summary). Plans for the "Operation Last Patrol" caravan were discussed, and it was resolved that no violence was to be conducted by caravan participants en route to Florida. However, "security forces" would be available to counter any violence directed at the caravans. No mention was made of arming these security personnel. [redacted] of the VVAW estimated that approximately 1,000 vehicles would comprise the caravan when it arrives in Jackson, Mississippi, and merges with other groups to proceed to Florida. b6 b7C

[redacted] is also reported to have announced that permission has been granted by city officials in Miami for VVAW to conduct a mock "three-pronged assault on Miami," consisting of the dropping by helicopter of a "pathfinder team," the parachuting of "airborne troops," and the launching of a marine "assault." b6 b7C

Youth International Party (YIP)

It was reported in the July 28, 1972, summary that YIP was attempting to arrange for the Jefferson Airplane to appear in the Miami area. Abbie Hoffman, YIP leader, has reportedly completed arrangements for this popular musical group to perform August 20, 1972, from a barge anchored off Lummus Park in Miami Beach. This free concert by the Jefferson Airplane is a YIP-designed effort to prevent trouble at the "Honor America Day" activities, which will be under way elsewhere in Miami Beach.

Plans have also been made by YIP to have representatives go to President Nixon's residence in Key Biscayne, Florida, to present the President with "indictments" charging him with "crimes against the people and violating international laws." This is designed as a publicity gimmick for YIP and will most likely occur sometime the week before the convention, according to an FBI source. YIP is also discussing placing President Nixon "on trial" outside the Convention Center with "America to be the judge."

Communist Party, USA (CPUSA)

At a meeting of CPUSA leaders in Miami Beach following the Democratic Convention, agreement was reached that the Republican Convention should be made "more eventful," with greater participation by the CPUSA. While no definite plans were formalized, these leaders felt they erred by not having more communist youth present to work with other youth groups during the Democratic Convention.

Reportedly, the treasury of the Miami Conventions Coalition was enriched on two recent occasions by $2,000 and $5,000 of CPUSA funds.

Students for a Democratic Society (SDS)

A recruitment effort was begun by SDS on July 26, 1972, in Miami's black neighborhoods to attempt to gain additional black SDS members and to produce black participation in SDS activities at the Republican Convention. SDS has also been distributing literature on junior college campuses in Dade County, Florida, urging the students there to participate in SDS demonstrations during the upcoming convention period.

During an SDS meeting in Boston, Massachusetts, recently, consideration was given to confronting President Nixon at the Hotel Doral in Miami Beach; however, it was realized that security would be very rigid and there would be little likelihood of accomplishing this. Instead, it was decided to try to present SDS's antiracism proposal to the Republican Convention.

Proposed SDS activities at the Republican Convention were also discussed at the International Interim Conference of SDS in Columbus, Ohio, July 29-30, 1972. While no plan was decided upon, several proposals received a considerable amount of discussion. One of these was that the Miami chapter of SDS should try to determine ways for persons to gain entry into the Convention Center. It was suggested that this might be accomplished by having persons pose as college newspaper reporters or as janitorial personnel.

MISCELLANEOUS

Publication of Protest Manual

August 3 or 4, 1972, was reportedly the publication date in Chicago, Detroit, Miami, and New York City for the "Republican Convention Tactical Manual." This manual, which is not identical with the VVAW "Tactics Manual" described previously in this summary, is allegedly the joint effort of the Youth International Party, American Friends Service Committee, Miami Conventions Coalition, Miami Women's Coalition, Vietnam Veterans Against the War, and Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice. Supposedly included in the manual are such proposed protest actions as physically blocking delegates from entering or departing the Convention Center, taking over certain unspecified Miami area hotels, using small mobile units (affinity squads) to destroy property at widespread locations for diversionary purposes, and blocking traffic by sitting in the streets.

Reportedly not in the manual, but discussed by those preparing it for publication, were such additional tactics as burning and abandoning vehicles to block traffic, breaking store windows, and destroying hotel furnishings.

At one of the recent meetings where this "tactical manual" was being planned, discussion focused on a statement which was contained in the first draft of the publication--"We will break any law necessary to reach our objectives." While everyone at the meeting agreed with the statement, they felt it should not appear in the manual. The first draft also mentioned that nondelegates would attempt to keep convention delegates from entering the Convention Center. [redacted] who was tried on conspiracy and antiriot charges in Chicago following the 1968 Democratic Convention, stated that even though the plan is to prevent the delegates' entry into the convention arena, the manual should only say that the nondelegates plan to demonstrate in front of the Convention Center. [redacted] then mentioned that statements could be issued later that the events deteriorated outside the Convention Center when the police and the National Guard "interfered with the legal right of the nondelegates to demonstrate." [redacted] stressed that this would cast blame on the security forces at the convention site and would gain support for the nondelegates.

b7C

Traffic Disruption Discussion

During a discussion of the Republican Convention at Lummus Park, Miami Beach, on July 14, 1972, a member of the Peoples Coalition for Peace and Justice mentioned several ways that traffic near the Convention Center could be stopped or delayed. While no specific plans were formed, the methods advocated were:

1. Turning on all of the fire hydrants in the area.

2. Using trucks to dump dirt in the streets.

3. Using wire cutters to destroy the wiring on public buses.

4. Flattening automobile tires.

Red Collective Activities

Formed in New Orleans, Louisiana, to coordinate transportation for persons planning to travel to Miami Beach from New Orleans, the Red Collective is attempting to recruit persons who are solely interested in forming an "anti-imperialism brigade" to participate in demonstrations at the Republican Convention. The efforts have produced little response to date.

"Write On!"

"Unconventional News," a YIP publication now being widely circulated, contains a variety of features which reflect some of the more prevalent attitudes concerning protests planned for the Republican Convention. The lead article, headlined "Scenario," begins: "We, citizens of the United States of America, state that we are not at war with the people of Vietnam....We are in Miami to show that Richard Nixon does not represent us and that we shall do everything possible to resist the policies he represents." Also contained is a letter from Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, a representative of the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam, who labels the President as a war criminal and a liar. The center fold of the publication has a lengthy letter under the caption of "Street Without Joy." Written by Daniel Berrigan, convicted of destroying Selective Service System records in 1968, this letter strongly attacks President Nixon, criticizes the Republican Convention, and outlines plans for establishing the "Street Without Joy" demonstration in Miami Beach. Berrigan writes: "This letter is sent to you all, a message to Americans. It is a letter about an un-American day in our history. The un-American, unfeeling, unthinking moment when Richard Nixon, taking off from his un-American activities, is about to be nominated once more--our Man in the Blight House."

[redacted] an antiwar activist in Buffalo, New York, chaired a meeting of various protest groups on August 1, 1972, in Buffalo. He reported that he and fifteen other Americans had just returned from Paris, France, where they had met with representatives of the North Vietnamese Government. According to [redacted] the North Vietnamese feel the upcoming Republican Convention makes the time right for stressing various antiwar issues, with particular emphasis to be placed on the economic strain caused the American public by continuation of the Vietnam War.

[redacted] also advised that he had recently been in Miami Beach and reported that protest organizers expect "as many people as were present at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1968." Actions planned for the upcoming Republican Convention, according to [redacted] will be similar to "the May Day demonstrations in Washington, D. C., in 1971." He mentioned additionally that to prevent any harm coming to the elderly residents of Miami Beach, "all action" will occur along Collins Avenue, north of 17th Street.

[redacted] Urges Miami Beach Demonstrations

Veteran antiwar activist [redacted] spoke on August 1, 1972, at the Old Cambridge Baptist Church in Cambridge, Massachusetts, and it was publicly reported that he encouraged the approximately two hundred young people in the audience to travel to Miami Beach for "militant, nonviolent confrontations at the Republican Convention." He is quoted as stating: "We do not plan simply to have a series of old-fashioned rallies." Planned for the final night of the convention, according to a statement attributed to [redacted] is the surrounding of the hall by "angry demonstrators."

It is noted that each copy of the LHM contains an enclosure in the form of a blind memorandum reflecting [redacted] photograph, physical description, and FBI Identification Record. Two (2) extra copies of the blind memorandum, totalling seven (7) copies in all, are enclosed for Miami as per request. b6 b7C

The LHM is being submitted as per instructions in referenced communication due to the possibility that [redacted] could travel to Miami Beach, Florida, in an attempt to disrupt the Republican National Convention. b6 b7C

It is noted on 8/14/72 a well placed reliable source advised [redacted] both ADEX Category I extremists, departed Cleveland, Ohio, on 8/13/72 via [redacted] automobile for two weeks - destination unknown. Inasmuch as their departure from Cleveland for a two-week period coincides with the period encompassing the Republican National Convention, Cleveland believes that [redacted] could very likely travel to Miami for captioned convention. However, no positive information has been developed in this regard. b6 b7C

ALL INDIVIDUALS INVOLVED IN NEW LEFT EXTREMIST ACTIVITIES SHOULD BE CONSIDERED DANGEROUS BECAUSE OF THEIR KNOWN ADVOCACY AND USE OF EXPLOSIVES, REPORTED ACQUISITION OF FIREARMS AND INCENDIARY DEVICES, AND KNOWN PROPENSITY FOR VIOLENCE.

June 23, 1972

On Friday, June 16, 1972, the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (hereafter called PCPJ) began their National Coordinating Committee Convention in Conference Room A, University of Louisville, Louisville, Kentucky. The Friday evening session was primarily for registration, housing assignments, and a social hour for new arrivals. Early arrivals on Friday were:

[redacted] - PCPJ office staff, New York City (NYC)

[redacted] on Kemshire (?) or some similar name - PCPJ, NYC

[redacted] - Newark Coalition (and also a lawyers committee - name of committee not known). He led discussion in Republican Convention [redacted] Workshop.

[redacted] - NYC [redacted] Viet Nams Vets Against War on Friday evening he was discussing the (3rd) case of a VVAW who "turned himself in" to Vets and "confessed" to being an "agent" of government...in this case Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). Said "traitor" supposedly faced dishonorable discharge from service when he was approached by FBI and offered "a clean record and a good income to report on guerilla actions, arms cachements, etc." [redacted] said Vet was from Arkansas and had been questioned four hours straight, plus other times in past week. Stated Vet had agreed to testify to "entrapment" saying he carried recording devices, cameras, etc. for purpose of prosecution of other members of VVAW.

[redacted] - Florida People's Coalition (?) lives in Tallahasse, Florida - states he either currently does or has worked for a state university in Tallahasee. Impression was he is some kind of scientist, shows excellent knowledge of photography and stated he formerly worked on projects which developed mined warfare. (Land, sea mines, etc.)

[redacted] - Harrisburg Defense Committee, East Orange, New Jersey.
[redacted] - Boston, Massachusetts - No group affiliation known.
[redacted] - NYC Communist Party (officially registered as PCPJ representative of Communist Party).
[redacted] - Westport, Connecticut - WILPF (Womens International League for Peace and Freedom) traveled to Kentucky with [redacted] Not known if they planned to or met by accident. Also traveling on same plane (not with above two) was: b6 b7C [redacted] - Riverdale, New York - Viet Nam Peace Parade Committee.
Carl Braden - Louisville, Kentucky - Southern Conference Education Fund (SCEF) who organized details and facilities for conference.
[redacted] - Louisville, Kentucky - Clergy and Lay Concerned (CALC) helped delegates get settled.
[redacted] ? - and [redacted] - SCEF, Louisville made most of housing arrangements - Many stayed at 1131-1131 Brooke Avenue, Louisville - where apartments were opened to SCEF.
[redacted] TRAIN and/or AFSC ? (Friends) Resides in South - Georgia or Florida (?).

Some of the other delegates who arrived late Friday evening through noon on Saturday, were:

[redacted] - NYC Women Strike for Peace (WSP)
[redacted] - Philadelphia, Pennsylvania American Friends Service Committee (AFSC)
[redacted] - NYC PCPJ (Resides Brooklyn,New York)
[redacted] - PCPJ arrived from Washington DC with:

[redacted] - Washington D.C. - PCPJ (formerly Atlanta, Georgia)
[redacted] - PCPJ - Boston, Massachusetts (?)
[redacted] - NYC - PCPJ and officially represented the Episcopal Peace Fellowship (EPF)
[redacted] or [redacted] ? - City and group unknown.
[redacted] - Buffalo, PCPJ currently receiving unemployment - (has almost attained his doctoral degree.)
[redacted] - Chicago - did not state group. AFSC (?)
The United Front, of Cairo, Illinois sent delegation of six or more - several names being: Reverend [redacted] (? spelling) (only white woman: obese and unkept) [redacted] (name unclear) four to six militant blacks at conference - seemed to be with this group.
[redacted] - NYC Parade Committee - Dave Dellinger stated he had known him in 1950's under name of [redacted] said [redacted] just "dropped out of sight" and reappeared at Parade Committee one day "looking for work. b6 b7C
[redacted] - NYC Parade Committee
[redacted] NYC Parade Committee, known to [redacted] who stated [redacted] formerly from Buffalo PCPJ.
[redacted] - Houston, Texas - PCPJ with an unidentified very young- looking girl.
[redacted] - Miami Convention Coalition (MC^2)
[redacted] - Nashville, Tennessee PCPJ (?) seemed to spout a communist rhetoric - accompanied by very intelligent two year old boy baby.
[redacted] - City and group unknown
[redacted] (? spelling) Washington, D.C. seemed to have traveled by car from DC with [redacted]

[redacted] - Chicago Peace Council - Bob [redacted] lavering remarked she is "a communist." b6 b7C

[redacted] - Chicago Peace Council - divorcee who gave vivid accounts of "mini-blockades" she participated in-in Chicago, i.e. four cars abreast on four-lane X-pressways in Chicago during rush hours - tied up Congress X-way and North Shore Drive - waits 'til helicopter or police spot them, then both cars in two outer lanes break to front of two center lane cars, traffic rushes past and they gradually disperse to pre-set regrouping point, for another blockade. Cars A,B,C,D,AD, Sylvia and Shelly also related incidents of large anti-war signs placed on X-ways and Commuter Roads in AM rush hours, Black - painted beach balls floating in the mouth of Chicago River with white lettering: MINE - DANGEROUS. This was said to be rather frightening to patrons of Chicago's Commuter Boats.

[redacted] - Milwaukee or Minneapolis(?) PCPJ

[redacted] - Chicago - Peace Council (?)

[redacted]? - Chicago area (is on parole after serving time for destroying draft records.)

[redacted] - Indianapolis, Indiana (?) Thought to be agent of some police outfit. No one asked his name cause everybody thought that everyone else knew him. This shiny bald, mustached 45 ish man took copious notes for two days. General consensus post - conference was: "Charlie Smith was an FBI schill - and we were so stupid - for God's sake he even looked the part." Dave Dellinger.

The Saturday, June 17, session began at 11AM with Rick Boardman chairing for the day. He welcomed everyone to the meeting, gave brief logistics for survival in Louisville, and read aganda as follows: AM: Opening speech by [redacted] - The theme of weekend, in addition to planning future actions, was the need felt by the Interim Committee for more intensive analysis and political discussion - "A need to formulate in our minds a clear political statement of purpose and objective. This will be incorporated in a general assessment of the current political situation and what role PCPJ is to play in it. In this vein, he said that Dave Dellinger and Carl Braden would give a few, opening remarks, followed by discussion. Hopefully [redacted] will arrive early afternoon, but if not workshops scheduled for evening will be held in afternoon. Workshops tentatively scheduled are Blockades, Pentagon Papers, Political Prisoners, Conventions.

NOTE: Those actually held were: Conventions (Democrat and Republican) Repression, Blockades. Impeachment or Nixon Workshop originally scheduled was never mentioned.

The speech by [redacted] centered primarily on his recent trip to Hanoi. He said he was there just one week and returned on Memorial Day. The group: [redacted] NSA,? [redacted] American Report ED., and one other (he didn't mention), represented PCPJ and purpose of trip was to assess the effects of recent bombings. [redacted] stated they held discussions with a "solidarity committee" and also local and national war crimes committees. The latter are documenting genocide all over NVN. Some places [redacted] named as having visited were: Hanoi, Haiphong, Nam Dinh (Namtta Province). Said the first air raid occurred 15 minutes after arrival and they experienced 17 bombing attacks in one week. Plus numerous "close calls" e.g. the house in which they were scheduled to stay blew up six hours before they arrived (bombed.)

Said there was clear evidence of consistent bombing of civilian targets: i.e. schools, homes, churches. One area that might be "remotely" considered a military target was a six square block area of worker's homes near a textile factory. They (PCPJ group) saw the city of Tuc Loc (?) population 1,000, which was bombed April 16, 1972, (carpet-bombed at 2AM) in middle of night, no warning 140 bomb craters found and 68 persons killed, many more wounded.

PCPJ wanted to know People's Response: an example was a 15 year old boy who had lost entire family - His response was (this was said to be typical of most in North Viet Nam) that he only lives to avenge death of his family. Can't wait to get old enough to go.

Another bomb example was the Vietnamese Czech Hospital in Haiphong which was bombed at 2:30 AM, again at 10 AM and again at 3 PM. At 10 AM a ten year old boy was killed as he was in surgery for injuries sustained in the 2:30 AM raid.

[redacted] stated that anti-tank bombs (penetration bombs) were being dropped on villages where no tanks were around for many miles. Stated that people say: they've fought foreign aggressors for 100's of years, this is one more step in their struggle.

He also stated that while in Hanoi the PCPJ group met with eight POW's. These POW's appealed to PCPJ to stop the war. [redacted] said POW's were in good physical condition and appeared to be receiving good medical care. One shot down in February, 1972 had a casted arm. POW's stated that their lives were in serious danger (no elaboration on source of danger) and cited the terror of living under bombs. [redacted] was of opinion that POW's were occassionally taken for visits to bomb sites as they seemed to have recent-up to date information on American bombing. The lowest rank among eight POW's was an Air Force Captain. Most officers were A.F., Navy and Marine Corps. Three POW's were captured February, 1972. b6 b7C

[redacted] said POW's felt Nixon Administration would try to "use" the POW issues, also said POW's were familiar with the Pentagon Papers and also the study done by the Adlai Stevenson Institute of Chicago.

The POW's message to America is: (says [redacted]

1. We should put pressure on Congress to negotiate a settlement to end the war.

2. Americans must get into electoral politics.

3. Peace groups must get together. The factions in the movement hurt the achievement of goal of peace.

[redacted] said that in a conference with [redacted] he said repeatedly that "The worst is get to come." The latter also said four doctors and four friends (AFSC) were stopped from coming to NVN (they got as far as Vietiene). He said [redacted] that this summer is extraordinarily important period, and the North will continue their offensive and are determined to go on to the elections. At this point Dellinger spoke briefly as [redacted] seemed to be finished. b6 b7C

He commented (Dellinger) on his recent Paris visit with the PRG delegation who stated that the NLF is very active in the south. Here (at this point) was a reference to [redacted] or [redacted] (?) a strong anarchist. The idea of statement was that most people assume a strong centralized government is trying to take over. The forces in the south are stronger than ever but not in the traditional way. The media concentrates on major battles of regular warfare e.g. An Loc, Hue, Pleiku, Kontum City, and press has abandoned coverage of people's war." While the US seems to be winning a few major battles as per the press, the people are quietly dismantling bases and the Thieu regime all over Viet Nam.

[redacted] - then gave facts from an AFSC Rehabilitation Center in Quang Ni, SVN (not known whether Levering was there - seemed to have been. Stated: "The NLF has never been stronger in this province - some ARVN Divisions have been completely destroyed. b6 b7C

[redacted] - then mentioned a news item from Pentagon two to three weeks ago re: Use of "smart bombs." These are bombs that can find their targets with deadly accuracy. He stated that three pilots captured in February were technically on illegal raids. He was also asked about the bombing he saw of the Dike systems. Said it was not total - We've bombed them all along (steadily), they rebuild with smaller and more dikes and also build back-up dikes, and counter-dikes. Said mouths of all rivers have been mined in addition to Haiphong Harbor.

Dave Dellinger - Bombing of Dikes is an American illusion of power of technology - we've destroyed several 100 dikes and many drowned in serious floods last August. Many dikes, tho not destroyed, have been weakened and may be washed away in August rainy season. This will be good propaganda against Nixons policy of bombing. Dellinger thought it was horrible that US would suspend the bombing for Podgorny visit to Viet Nam but did not view the Vietnamese people with the same humanity.

[redacted] - Urged all to watch the 60 Minute Hour on CBS, Sunday June 18, 1972 at 6 PM said there was a segment re: Vietnam. b6 b7C

At this pount Dave Dellinger spoke re: trip to Paris recently. His opening remarks focused on Nixon's recent trips to China and Russia and their disastrous effects on American Movement. Said they tended to defuse anti-war activity. Said these countries not interested in rhetoric and Nixon walked the "tightrope in Sino-Soviet differences." Said Nixon administration will not publicly complain about Russia and/or China. Said no big countries understand people's democracies such exist in NVN. Said Nixon's trips were based on illusions: e.g. He (Nixon) assumes the NLF is a puppet of the North, and that North VN is a puppet of Russia or China.

Dave Dellinger said: Mme. Binh said: Nixon came back emptyhanded both times - he accomplished nothing. US is being defeated in Viet Nam - Nixon has few options, has to risk WW III - Nixon administration may be successful in better relations with China and Russia, but not with winning the war in Viet Nam.

Dave Dellinger said this is the most intensive period of the war. Intense not only militarily but also psychologically intense. We are dependent on press and are victims of a psychological war. If US intelligence were accurate it would be impossible for any offensive to take place.

The first year Nixon went to Cambodia - claimed a great victory in cleaning out supplies - This area is stronger than ever in offense now as the Cambodian NLF and Sihanoak protect them. The second year as president he went into Laos - this was a military debacle. The third year he's trying the mining and intensive bombing approach. The Vietnamese are continually sweeping mines and transferring supplies in bamboo boats. In Paris the Vietnamese said "Nixon is using stronger methods', we are now more experienced. "Believe in us, we are now able to cope with these measures." They also said if these tactics had been used several years earlier the US would have won the war.

Other quotes from Vietnamese in Paris were - For every bridge US destroys 10 pontoon bridges are put up.... For mining to work, Nixon would have to mine South Viet Nam's harbors - the majority of NLF supplies come from the south... A large percentage of US weapons drops are parachuted and caught by NLF... American cartridges can be used in NLF weapons, NLF supplies cannot be used in US guns... The words of Ho Chi Minh are coming true: "As we approach victory we will have greater losses..." Dave Dellinger quoted Kissingers remarks at start of increased bombings: "This is last gasp" (of north) "The war will be over in three to four weeks". Dave Dellinger said "Our intelligence is is bad..." (laughter from group).

Dellinger also said the purpose of the recent offensive of the North is to destroy Vietnamization, and the Thieu regime - NOT to take cities. He spoke to two women in Paris from the 'liberated zone' who said: This is not a sudden takeover of cities; we are building schools, changing cities, providing medical care, there will be no coups, per se. Also: in the lull after Tet offensive the US says the NLF lost... they were busy doing mundane necessaries for the next push. There were 10,000 - 30,000 people protesting Thieu in cities, but due to political repression in the south many if not all protests were censored to press and many protesters were arrested.

Dellinger: Will Nixon try to rebuild Vietnamization if he is re-elected? The NLF is more confident after the fradulent elections of Thieu - they are not afraid of any reelection of Nixon administration. He gave an example of the intensity of human issues: Dave Dellinger spoke to Le Mai, from an intellectual family in Hue - who spoke of his family said his wife sent picture of his daughter by a bomb shelter to make him happy she is safe. Also Le Mais wife does not tell him in which cities his children live so he will not worry when an attack comes. Dave Dellinger says the Vietnamese are not petty - the movement in US must rise above divisiveness. Dellinger had tears in his eyes while telling story of Le Mai and others whose families have been torn by war.

Said small assaults and actions by movement at home are similar to people's war. The big actions are done to draw press coverage, while small actions are happening in many places.

On a new talk, Dellinger suggested that the anti-war movement has created the Mc Govern candidacy. Said the war will end by total revolution. Mc Govern was created by resistance - not by people involved in elections - "if we do not continue traditions of radical resistance we may weaken Mc Govern." Our concern in the movement is to develop the unity and diversity of the Vietnamese; we need to focus on activities which will not draw the whole antiwar movement into the elections.

In his closing remarks Dellinger stated - People are tired of national actions, PCPJ is in a transitional phase and its continued existence as a viable organization depends on a new relationship to localized, decentralized actions.

Carl Braden of SCEF opened his remarks by urging everyone to read the "Patriot." Then he began by saying that PCPJ put all the emphasis on "Peace," none and/or not enough on "Justice." "There is war against the US people as much as in Viet Nam - particularly against Blacks (20% of the Souths population) and Chicanos, and also against Reds and Yellows." There is warfare (yelled this) by the governmant against the Black Liberation Movement in the South. He then discussed "the whole pattern of repression of movements in US.": 1898 - "when American imperialism began" The takeover of Puerto Rico and the Phillipines - Wilmington N.C. was involved. In '98 white people carried on counter-war against blacks - They burned blocks of black neighborhoods. This week [redacted] is out of jail - (long history of attempts to get bail etc.) he was charged with conspiracy to murder a white vigilante who was firing into a black church service. His case was moved to Burgall - "This is Klan Country." "But the government didn't reckon on one thing... 49% in Burgall are black." (This last held an ominous nonspoken threat.) b6 b7C

Braden then cited various other cases - Raleigh, N.C." James Grant... helped two guys go to Canada; eight boys in Aden, S.C. got total of 111 years - one has 40 years in Texas Lee Otis Johnson, organizer of SNCC sold a joint to a policeman - finally out of jail; The Republic of New Africa is an example of life in Mississippi - 27 FBI agents, and 15 policemen surrounded the house and ordered people to come out.

Braden summed up his remarks by urging PCPJ to relate equally to Peace and Justice because they go together. Felt we haven't done so in past and urged discussions, possibly a workshop on political prisoners.

The group then got into some discussion of political prisoners: [redacted] a political prisoner whose entire family lost jobs and were persecuted in other ways. [redacted] [redacted]?) tried to relate Vietnamese attitudes toward US elections, the Chicago '68 repression with Braden's remarks - Said Nixon must go - we need Mc Govern. b6 b7C

[redacted] - began dialogue on the further surprises Nixon plans for America. His "secret plan" (?) to create more political prisoners. At this point the group decided to break for lunch and to hear [redacted] at 3:30 PM.

Before [redacted] spoke a group from the United Farm Workers spoke on their activities and requested a PCPJ endorsement of the Lettuce boycott. The group endorsed (unanimously) the UFW and agreed by voice vote to support their actions. Spokesman stated that Chavez was in hospital and may have permanent heart damage as a result of his fast. b6 b7C

[redacted] (who chaired the events on Saturday) then stated the "purpose of Today's meeting was to set down in explicit, clear terms, the political ideology of PCPJ. Also said there is a reluctance of people to actively relate to electoral politics. He then introduced [redacted]

The degree of Vietnamese strategy is along lines of our elections strategy, especially in presidential election years: 1960 - We prop up a puppet group in Saigon and the NLF is formed; this crescendaed in '64 on eve of another election. 1964 Johnson elected on peace and held back punch of war til 1968 another presidential election.

The electoral arena is critical if not decisive. Peace movement should not drop protests, should not endorse Mc Govern. Last fall (when we should have) we were not capable of putting together an election year strategy. We had a crisis approach instead of any strategy.

Difficulties that rip us now: NPAC had a strategy and we didn't even tho' we criticize them. We've had a lack of a leadership core: leaders who work at the staff level, who worry in a collective way, keep peace bases together, reduce fears that national actions couldn't work.

We lost the passive, clergy wing of the movement, (Mayday - type actions ruined that) relations with the black community were hurt; Lack of a core group kept us from moving ahead - helped us fall apart. We have a loss of trust and a fear of each other. We haven't had the space or the numbers (the staff has worked hard) to solve a lot of problems.

[redacted] then talked about Paris: said Vietnamese stressed two aspects of current situation: (1) Military and inhuman genocide; and (2) Fraudulent US peace proposals. He said Nixon might make a move to try to further defuse protest by offering a peace proposal similar to the seven point plan (set the date - remove Thieu, etc.) to deceive the American people in the election.

b7C

Why did Mc Govern move from an unknown to a front-runner? Because American people are sick of the war! The war is Nixon's Achilles Heel. If Nixon moves with a stroke of deception we've got to be ready to stop it or at least expose it.

The role of PCPJ is not to support Mc Govern but to keep the war a central issue. Nixon doesn't want people to remember there is still a war. The two conventions are a central focus to make anti-war protest. "War cannot be swept under the rug." We must distinguish between the two conventions and make sure the war is put at the doorstep of the Nixon Administration.

Democratic convention actions should be INSIDE. Issues should be emphasized, e.g. women's rights, welfare rights, poor people, abortion, marijuana legal, and there should be a position of support for the NWRO.

Republican convention - Said its criminal if anti-war movement did not make strongest possible protest if a small group shows up, protesters will be seift and effectively dealt with. We need an "all-out presence" in Miami, make the war a central issue, and turn the election into a referendum on the war.

What we would like to see, theoretically, may not be practical. The young people in Miami (now working on conventions) are the Mayday - type action people. Many in the movement do not have total trust and confidence in the people putting Miami together. This group may not put together a good enough scenario (so people will believe in their true pacifist anti-war-ness and will go to Miami and not be afraid of being killed.

P&PJ and MC2 will not come together in a really integrated way - there has to be input from other sources - people who have the respect of many. Vietnamese students in US met with him - "We have left the Vietnamese out - may be they are the missing elements? A number of them (students) would be willing to work with us." Scenario suggestions: (1) Opening Day: a major cultural event - not only for conventioneers, but also for Floridians. (2) Don Luce traveling show throughout Florida telling "who are these 'enemy' - "a human type presentation. (3(A Vietnamese presence in Miami might be spectrum needed for support. (4) If there's an official call for CD at convention there will be no permits issued (5) Traditional marches and rallies are stale (6) Need a dramatic presentation to show the Republicans what is the future if Nixon is re-elected (7) Take the Boulevard and rename it the 'Street Without Joy." (This is what Hi-way Number 1 in Nam is called) and make this an event which will dramatize what Nixons done. (8) People Gauntlet of Shame and/or Death with Vets every 20 feet - people with death masks - Vietnamese students lining roads to remind delegates what happened during this administration (9) Try to show what Mme. Binh said were the Vietnamese demands - these are simple ones - the right to live and the right to self-determination. (10) Emphasize the horror in Viet Nam and try to get this message across.

[redacted] then went on to stress exploration of ideas and possibilities of breaking through old fears. We have to make Vietnam the central issue in this campaign. In his closing remarks he did not really summarize, but just threw out a few remarks: (1) The Peoples blockades have been effective....Resistance activities must go on throughout the summer. (2) Maybe we should have another nationwide Teach-In on Viet Nam.... maybe on closed circuit TV look-up. (3) We need to educate People.... Who the Vietnamese people are, what their country is like now and what it was like before. (4) Is a mass mobilization in the fall most effective??? Here Davis' speech trailed off into mid-air and he sat hugging his knees...wondering.

The discussion began and first person recognized was from United Front, Cairo, Illinois and he got into his whole Black Power trip which kind of ruined the mood Rennie had tried to set for discussion. [redacted] then got in some remarks about his Quincy Five and then Gil Green jumped in with a whole communist line re: blacks-said victory of Angela Davis tremendous significance. She is balck and a communist and won complete exoneration. Said in 1950's Berrigans, Chicago Conspiracy Trials all would have been convicted - not now. The Big Question is how to build a strong left which continues to grow and does not become a sect. Way to maintain a left is to find a way for Middle America to identify with it. Danger that left will dissolve - find actions that will not hurt it etc. etc. ad infinitum. This was followed by another hour or so of intense discussion of many issues; nothing was decided but group felt many issues were clarified.

Before the group split for dinner Rick Boardman asked various representatives to give brief reports on what would be involved in workshops so people would know how to choose their workshops.

Republican Convention: [redacted] - combined the Mc^2 with San Diego Convention Coalition. Scenario so far (1) Expose '72 to be a humanized people's exhibition, a type of World's Fair on international liberation struggles, e.g. guerilla theater, films, slide shows, expose on air war (at both conventions). (2) Land site itself (Conv. half area) graphic displays on fences - two areas designated as demonstration sites, movie theaters used for presentations, concerts, films. (3) Daily tentative activities: 8-20 Womens Coalition - 8-21 Anniversary of George Jackson's death; Thursday - Nixon's acceptance speech: large legal mass action (?) Tuesday - nomination eve expose' War Crimes Tribunal and in eve. a March Against death Wednesday - circle convention hall-blockade (?) (4) All activities to occur in evening or else AM on the beach. (Afternoon too hot in sun).

Democrat Convention: [redacted] Meetings on 6 - 1 and 6 - 6 - 72 planning mtg to discuss relations to NWRO, SCLC and VVAW. (1) Tentative plan to issue a unity statement in place of a people's platform - This would be brief; and (2) 6-13 mtg. of NWRO, Nat'l Tenants Org., SCEF, SCLC, PCPJ, Anti War Union, Relig. and Comm. Leaders. Four groups planning actions: 7-8 NTO 7-9 SCLC; 7-5to9 NWRO actions with a rally on 7-10 with VVAW and NWRO together; Another meeting is planned after this weekend to include PCPJ's decision of its involvement. b6 b7C

Represssion Workshop: Carl Braden: Groups from Houston, Cairo, Illinois, Florida etc. want to discuss political prisoners, Venceremos, Committee to End War, CALC, discuss task force on Texas Department of Prisons.

Blockade Workshops: [redacted] - we will talk about blockades --- (laughter). b6 b7C

Last Word before dinner was given by [redacted] of National PCPJ staff in New York. "Remember ... when people make decisions in workshops... there are four staff people, treasury is small... so think in terms of fund raising and recruiting volunteer staff for projects ...." b6 b7C

Workshops were scheduled to be held from 7:30 to 11 PM.

Republican Convention Workshop: chaired by Paul Schacter. First discussed was: confusion in group about what will really happen in Miami - many rumors flying about: Police Department received a grant for new riot training docks being torn down in Miami causing rats to go on lawns looking for food, maybe rats would bite people by August - Boy Scouts taking over camp grounds etc, VVAW to be very active, Rolling Stones recent article (?); Yippies (Abbie and Jerry) and Zippies (S people who put out papers); the sum of all this was that (1) the current dynamics building in Miami is of the Mayday-type, (2) People in Miami (working with MC^2) are not cultural freaks, and (3) something must be done to change scenario so it will be creative and dynamic enough to build trust and reduce fear.

Some major decisions were that there will be no official or non-official call for CD. Reality is that there are dedicated people who plan to go to Miami - then there are those who want to but won't because element of control is not known. Dave Dellinger: We can't afford to be vague - Too many people feel "Mayday's" are out, people must know what framework is, don't give Nixon a chance to prove his law and order regime and smash the "mindless militants." We are not raising a dilemma - we are a movement and we have the responsibility to lead it in the proper way.

What should PCPJ's role be then? Many against PCPJ even supporting it - say violence inevitable. [redacted]: Militancy should never be lonely...guidelines can mean growth for a movement. This discussion went on for one hour or more. It was then decided a brainstorming session was in order where various ideas were thrown out and discussed: (1) The street without Jay begins in Cairo, ends in Miami (2) Don't concentrate on issues with Dems. and send peaceniks to Repubs. - share equally (3) United Front wants spiritual togetherness - bring Dick's preacher: Billy Graham; (4) Let different contingents march on last day (5) Let the wounded VVAW meet delegates as they enter (6) Bertrand Russell bringing War Crimes Tribunal here in fall - suggested they ask him to bring it to Miami in August (7) Gear programs to Senior Citizens in Miami - also keep trashing away from area of Collins Avenue in case tear gas is thrown - this would be dangerous to old people. (8) If flooding occurs in Nam due to bombing of dikes - this should be emphasized (9) Delegate research - find out if GE or Honeywell execs etc. are delegates and begin to lobby them. Also use the corporate Intelligence Alliance resources on other corporate execs who are delegates. (10) Support 7-point plan - PCPJ issue propaganda for distribution (11) Set up a steering committee (12) Should there be a PCPJ collective or special staff to work or and/or in Miami?

b7C

[redacted] summed up the Republican Workshop on Sunday AM saying group decided to:

b6
b7C

Discuss with Miami the following scenario.

1. Street Without Jay - Exhibit - Expose '72

2. Outreach to Miami community - include Vietnamese students.

3. Possibility of Russell War Crimes Tribunal

4. Project of Delegate Research

5. Underscore a completely non-violent tone.

6. PCPJ actively support and encourage MC^2 to build, push and display for convention.

Political Mobilization of Ranks.

1. Co-sponsor Republican Convention with MC^2

2. Form a collective

3. Collective go to Miami and merge with MC^2

4. Collective directly responsible to Interim Committee.

The major decision arising from this workshop was that militancy would be carried out at the Republican Convention but definitely not via Civil Disobedience or violence in any form. "Quiet Anger" should be expressed by means of the tone and drama of the scenario.

The meeting on Sunday, June 18, began at 9:30 AM with a short Vietnamese film strip, and then the United Front of Cairo, Illinois showed the extent of repression and oppression in that city. There was a short question and answer period re: conditions in Cairo but major discussion was tabled pending the report from the Repression Workshop.

[redacted] Episcopal Peace Fellowship and PCPJ was chairing the session on Sunday and she called upon [redacted] to give a brief report of the situation in Washington DC surrounding the black vs. white controversy re: Ring Around Congress scheduled for June 22nd. [redacted] said she was giving report because she lived in Washington and many people were involved, but she was the PCPJ official liaison with Black Community. b6 b7C

She stated that negotiations had traveled full-circle. Originally Blacks had presented angry complaints that movement asks them to be the service agency for demonstrations i.e. asked to arrange everything from permits to portable toilets. Many times movement called on them one week before a demo; complained they were never involved in planning demos; whites emphasized Peace only - not justice - and did not support many black demos with numbers of people. Many of these issues were settled and a friendly meeting was going on to begin plans for the new black/white coalition, when Marian Berry received a phone call from [redacted] at the meeting. It seems [redacted] had followed an impulse and contacted [redacted] office to request [redacted] to be a sponsor of June 22; [redacted] spokesman agreed and [redacted] just called to relate the happy news. [redacted] however, got furious and the whole delicate negotiations shattered as she accused the whites of going behind backs to get support from a black leader without consulting the blacks. (This was their main complaint before - no one ever asked them). Black support of June 22 was withdrawn and additionally a counter-demo against whites was planned by blacks. [redacted] then began the whole discussion again and no demands were made that blacks call off their counter-demo. At present time they had managed to agree only that a "summit meeting" would be held on June 22 between 25 whites and 25 blacks, and to date the blacks had not called off their counter-demo. One item that was agreed upon for agenda June 22 was discussion of impact on Nixon if white and blacks do get together - This is seen by both sides as threatening to the current administration as it is felt Nixon wants to keep to groups apart at least, and at best - fighting each other. b6 b7C

The report on the Repression Workshop was next: given by Carl Braden. Decisions made in Workshop were:

1. The next PCPJ Coordinating Committee meeting will be held in Cairo Illinois - subject to invitation by United Front (They had to check it out in Cairo first)

2. A major national conference on repression and political prisoners would be planned for late fall - one or two weeks post/election. This would be held in a Southern city noted for repression. Suggested were: Wilmington, N.C.; Mariana, Ark.; Houston, Texas; Quincy, Florida.

A working committee was chosen: [redacted] and representatives of New York United Front, SCEF; names suggested who were not present were: [redacted] Episcopal Peace Fellowship and [redacted] Law Center for Constitutional Rights. b6 b7C

3. That the PCPJ national office be a clearing house with volunteers from above groups forming a volunteer staff. Said volunteers will also work on Fund-raising to support future paid staff to do this work.

[redacted] asked each organization in PCPJ to set up staff or committee to begin work in area of repression.

A[redacted] stated money left over from the June 29 Angela Davis benefit in New York would be put into a fund for repressed and political prisoners.

Other suggestions were: 1. Call it Political repression - not just repression; 2. the issue of voter registration and jury selection should be studied. If blacks are not registered to vote, they won't be called for jury duty and we need them, especially in political trials.3. The call was made for some people to decide if it was equally important to have a presence at the American Correctional Congress in Pittsburgh August 20-24. Two points were made re: this: 1 Same week as Republican Convention in Miami 2. The crowd who might not go to Miami just might go to Pittsburgh.

It was also decided by group that if United Front could not extend an invitation for next coord. comm. meeting in Cairo, the next meeting would be held in a city where there is current political repression - as soon after the election as practical.

The Blockade Workshop report was given next by Bob Levering: Two major decisions were made 1. PCPJ endorse idea of blockades and encourage local groups to start blockade projects. However, PCPJ will not take over any responsibility for major blockades, these will continue to be coordinated by AFSC,2. August 6 - Sunday - Hiroshima Day was chosen as a target date for nationwide blockades. However, local groups are urged to begin research immediately into identifying blockade targets. It was announced that 96% of all war supplies shipped by sea leave from 9 US ports. It was emphasized that groups be aware that it is urgent to begin blockades as soon as possible; "Don't wait until August 6th, a ship loaded with bullets and bombs may be scheduled to sail one week before or two days later." 3. It was decided that PCPJ will complement the work of AFSC on Blockades. This will remain a primary project of AFSC. A task force was nominated to do any work connected with blockade that goes through the PCPJ office and to begin organizing an August 6, 1972 blockade (on or near 8-6) at the Bayonne, New Jersey port from which munitions are shipped. The three persons on the task force are: Bob Levering AFSC Philadelphia; Susan Miller, Dir. EPF, New York; and Anne Balsan, Viet Nam Peace Parade Committee.

In the discussion following several people volunteered ideas on blockades for their own local area. These were:

[redacted] Houston PCPJ - suggested a blockade of the Houston/Galveston Channel.

[redacted] said there was a munitions factory 60 miles from Milwaukee. They would consider an attempt to blockade munitions shipments from this plant. b6 b7C

[redacted] stated that the Chicago area people had been conducting various types of blockades, but she would suggest to her people to begin research on the prospect of a blockade at the Joliet Arsenal.

Democratic Workshop Report:

1. Decided to issue a unity statement with other groups planning to have a presence in Miami.

2. That PCPJ recommend support and encouragement of NTO and SCLC, support and participate in the mass rally July 10, 1972 and also their rally on July 9, 1972 which is planned in the Miami ghetto.

3. Endorse and co-sponsor NWRO - July 10th march and rally and urge people to stay to end of convention. To develop a contingency plan in the event a strong anti-war candidate is not nominated. No major events are planned, only lobby efforts and beach activities.

4. Proposed a format for 7-10 rally: Set a limit on number of speakers: One from each co-sponsoring group (subject to approval of NWRO).

A working committee was chosen from among the Interim Committee members present: Dave Dellinger, [redacted] It was then decided to form of PCPJ collective of people who would be able to be in Miami for one or both conventions to work with MC2. Taese were: [redacted] and [redacted] The group then decided to add [redacted] and [redacted] to the Interim Committee for the summer and they will work in Miami with the collective. This group will be responsible to the larger Interim Committee, and it was decided that same group be responsible for both conventions rather than having separate collectives i.e. one per convention. b6 b7C

It was announced that the Yippies and Zippies had called off the "Festival of Life" at the Democratic Convention. They will try to have it in August instead. Also: that MC2 is opposed to people staying in Miami between the two conventions.

The Republican Workshop Report was essentially what occurred in the workshop. It was additionally announced that the agenda would be announced following the June 20th meeting scheduled with MC2 in Washington and also the groups meeting for the Democratic Convention. The groups sponsoring the activities in July NWRO, SCLC etc. would be urged to maintain a presence in Miami in August. [redacted] raised point that there might be danger in action being left to NWRO-type groups with Blacks in Miami in July and whites in August. Also that if in violence occurs - make sure its' on the other side. [redacted] You have to prepare large groups of people for violence perpetrated by authority. Mayday was a mistake and press is already trying to make it clear we are coming South - armed and dangerous - Florida is even arming fish and game wardens, and preparing lessons in crowd control b6 b7C

We must also pay attention to crowd control - We need massive publicity campaign speaking of non-violence etc.

As the conference was closing Dave Dellinger: tried to sum up the work on the conventions: We needed to deal with three issues of conventions:

1. Question of trust - trust building brings most difficult problems out - there will be groups there whom we can't or won't trust. When or if these groups act to further destroy trust, or if wrong leaflets appear - We have to "Trust enough to maintain trust." Don't panic from rumors.

The meeting adjourned at approximately 3 PM. Dave Dellinger, [redacted] and [redacted] flew off to New York together; [redacted] and [redacted]? drove [redacted] to Chicago to meet [redacted] (wife?) and three kids. [redacted] and children then planned to go to Miami for summer. [redacted] went to Chicago with [redacted] and the University of Louisville was minus a peace conference by 4PM. b6 b7C

UNICORN NEWS COLLECTIVE

The Alternative Radio News Network was described in the July-August, 1971 edition of "Vocations for Social Change" (VSC).

Vocations for Social Change (VSC), is a non-profit organization incorporated on August 1, 1967 in Verea, Kentucky "to promote educational efforts aimed at informing the public of opportunities in the field of Social Change." VSC is currently located in Canyon, California, and published a pamphlet bimonthly which lists job opportunities for "help wanted ads" placed by organizations in various states of the United States.

The following description was included in the edition of VSC:

"People are coming together in Washington, D.C. to develop an alternative news radio network which would probably be a long-line direct cable service of news and information designed for 'counter culture' radio stations. They are trying to form a collective of people who are experienced in this type of work, can take positive initiative, and be dedicated full-time people. RE: THE FLAMINGO PARK PAPERS

An Officer of the Miami Beach, Florida, Police Department furnished a 24 page booklet captioned "The Flamingo Park Papers: a relevent textbook." This officer said he found this booklet on the street near Flamingo Park in Miami Beach on August 23, 1972. Flamingo Park was used as a camp site by non-delegates during the Republican National Convention, August 21-23, 1972, and during the Democratic National Convention, July 10-14, 1972.

The editor of this booklet is identified as [redacted] of Richmond, Virginia. Its contents "represent dozens of pieces of print media freely disseminated in Flamingo Park, Miami Beach, July 10-14, 1972." b6 b7C

The following is a copy of this booklet:

Our Motto: "Talk with people: Campaign!"

editorial

An important cultural event took place in Flamigo Park during the Democonvention but was not reported as such by the national press.

As a student of history, a veteran of Chicago '68 and Mayday 1971, a patriot, and a Vista Volunteer, I offer here a fair representation of print matter which identifies the protests of the leading organized exponents of social change today.

I grew up 300 miles northwest of New York City; but we had television and stereo. I was a fascist until my Junior year of college when I saw a Defense Department film justifying our position in Southeast Asia. The answers in "Why Vietnam" posed too many questions, and I opened my mind to them.

The night before the Chicago Democonvention of 1968, there were assembled in Lincoln Park many American youths with somewhat of a political consciousness. This, of course, was in addition to their social and cultural awareness. What was to have been the first "united freaks", week-long press conference was abruptly disrupted by a Police Riot, according to a Presidential Commission. The national right of access to all philosophies was once again abridged by blind ignorance. The People would have to wait until 1972 to hear the non-violent reformers' message.

After Chicago most of us rejected violent acts in favor of dramatic, theatrical campaigns for human development and social justice. We read McLuhan, Charles A. Reich and Toffler's Future Shock. We learned that our mission was to campaign with compassion. We recognized that one constructive idea is better than 101 complaints. The "Consciousness-Three Kids" from Greening of America have taken up music, teaching, Social Work or politics and continue to win over the spirits of the materialists.

There were some bozos in Flamingo Park that always get attention but most of the crusaders there were beautiful poor-people. The convocation at Woodstock represented social conscience and fun. The assemblage in Flamingo represented social conscience and work. Their many causes were united in a common front which peacefully campaigned with newsmen, Beach senior citizens, and other visitors to the park.

Print matter lasts and best enshrines ideas but nothing still so dazzles my memory as the sights and sounds of the Park Participants.

Allen Ginsburg taught us to chant "ohmmmm" in Chicago but declared in Miami Beach that times change and this year's chant is "ahhhh". The sound of sixty dudes doing ahhh under the moon for an hour is really quite beautiful.

Dr. Spock spoke with "non-delegates" each day. So eloquently he expounded his socialism--a united front of compassionate innovators. SCLC marched to the Hall and kept a tidy district of fifty tents. They joined "Green Power" in doling out free food.

Collections for grass continued under the giant banyan tree, headquarters of the Peoples Pot Party. The Vietnam Veterans were tight lipped and indignant over Nixon's attempt to assassinate the character of their leaders.

There were organic cooking demonstrations and satirical reviews of American society by the Zippies and SDS. It rained a lot in the afternoons and discussions in tents were usually of the politico-cultural variety.

Face to face conversations with oldsters (and there were many) was the most striking evidence that a vanguard of thinkers in my generation have not become frustrated and have learned how to meet their responsibility to campaign.

The city could not have been more co-operative and considerate of our needs in the park. The idea that a "peoples' park" could not be used every four years to provide a forum for the non hotel-oriented was wisely rejected by the city fathers.

Gay couples walked together unharassed in the expanded consciousness of Flamingo Park. Holy Joe was there, his raspy voice proclaiming the Lord's truth. An old bus of elder evangelists hardly ever ceased to accompany their Jesus songs on accordians and guitars.

"Jesus Freaks", the youthful variety, were much in evidence. Most were clear-eyed, loving witnesses of the New Testament. Some were positively obnoxious and alienated a few with their persistent interrogations: "Do you know the Lord?", "Have you been saved?" One angry Zippie retorted to me, "What the hell do Jesus freaks have to do with the 'Spirit of '76?". We spent the rest of the afternoon together.

Kids hate school because issues raised don't seem relevant. The collection of printed remarks herein contained was designed to be used to stimulate civics classes into worthwhile discussions. The medium is designed to be "un-booked" and passed around the room. At your next party, try it, you'll like it.

Let me thank four of my teachers, Dr. Louis Gebhard, Dr. Frank Ray and Dr. Victor Bahou of SUNY Cortland and Atty. Ken Sparks of Washington D.C.; each of whom inspired me. Let me praise Syracuse N.Y. as a traditional bastion of objectivity which served me well. And credit goes to friends Tom Guthrie and Reggie Apple of Richmond, without whose technical assistance, this important collection would never have been assembled.

Brothers and Sisters, old and young, let us remember that we are all in this together.

GRASSROOTS McGOVERN MEETING!

WHEN: WEDNESDAY, JULY 12, 10:30 a.m.

PLACE: TEMPLE ISRAEL, 137 N.E. 19th St., MIAMI

SPONSORED BY: CONCERNED MCGOVERN VOLUNTEERS

This is a call to McGovern volunteers, delegates and other interested parties by other McGovern volunteers to form a grassroots movement within the context of the McGovern, for '72 and beyond.

Friday's Supreme Court decision to let stand the ruling of the Credentials Committee to split up the California delegation underscores the need for a grass roots movement. The existing political system is trying to close in on Senator McGovern either by denying him the nomination or by forcing him to compromise on basic issues. Such compromises do not work. Witness Senator McGovern's attempt to placate Mayor Daley and Daley's alliance, in return, with Governor Wallace and Senators Muskie and Humphrey on the California challenge. Such Compromises also deprive the Democratic Party of a meaningful program around which we can build a coalition to defeat Nixon.

A strong grassroots movement will give us the power to avoid major compromise and will assure the implementation of McGovern's basic program: 1) the immediate withdrawal of all military forces from South-East Asia; 2) the elimination of economic inequities if our society; and 3) moves toward full equality for everyone by eliminating racism and sexism.

THIS CALL IS BEING MADE BY CONCERNED MCGOVERN VOLUNTEERS, REPRESENTING PEOPLE WHO HAVE WORKED FOR MCGOVERN IN VARIOUS PARTS OF THE COUNTRY FOR MANY MONTHS. THE MEMBERS OF THIS GROUP, LIKE many thousands of others, were attracted to McGovern by his original proposals. When it appeared that Sen. McGovern was making certain compromises, groups of these volunteers in different parts of the country circulated letters, signed by hundreds, urging McGovern not to back-track.

THE PROBLEM IS NOT ONE OF TRUSTING GEORGE MCGOVERN OR ANY OTHER CANDIDATE, BUT ONE OF MOBILIZING THE KIND OF MOVEMENT THAT WILL BRING ABOUT MAJOR CHANGES IN OUR COUNTRY. A grass roots political movement will also lay the groundwork for organizaed action beyond '72.

A meeting will be held this Wednesday, 10:30 a.m. at TEMPLE ISRAEL, 137 N.E. 19 St., MIAMI (see map), to discuss possibilities of setting up such a movement. We will also discuss specific activities for the balance of the campaign, such as recruiting newly-registered voters, particularly among black and working people, to the campaign appropriations for immediately alleviating, even before the November election, unemployment among the hardest-hit group, black and white youth; concrete ways to eliminate racism in welfare, the courts and prison system. These are only suggestions. The meeting will be open to discussion of all issues and concrete plans. Everyone is welcome!

The Impact of the Wallace Vote

By CHARLES S. SNIDER
National Director

There is an old adage in politics that one election helps to shape another. In a study of the election returns of 1968, obvious facts emerge that have bearing on the 1972 campaign and could shape the outcome.

Fact: If the Wallace vote in 1968 had been combined with the Democratic vote, it would have produced a Democratic victory in 35 states and the District of Columbia and elected a Democratic president.

Fact: The Democratic Party would have had a total of 459 electoral votes —a victory similar to the 1964 win when Democrats got 486 electoral votes.

Fact: The Republicans would have ended up with only 79 electoral votes in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming. These include only two New England states. The rest are Midwestern and Western states.

Fact: A change of the Wallace vote to the Democratic column shows that Democrats would have had sweeping victories in these additional states: Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, California, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, North Carolina, Oregon, Oklahoma, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Wisconsin.

Charles S. Snider
National Director

Fact: These states would have produced 268 additional electoral votes. Of these 268 electoral votes, 222 votes would have come from states where Republicans won.

Fact: The popular vote change would have looked like this: For Republicans: 31,785,480. For Democrats: 41,181,639.

Fact: The plurality of the Republican popular vote was only 510,314. A change in the State of Alabama alone where Wallace got 691,425 votes would have put the Democrats ahead in popular votes.

Fact: A change in only five states of the Wallace vote would have produced a Democratic Electoral College victory. These states were Florida, Illinois, Ohio, California and Missouri which would have boosted Democratic votes by 118 to 309 and reduced Republican votes to 183.

Fact: The George Wallace vote has increased in the four years since 1968. This is shown by the fact that Wallace received twice to six times more votes in Democratic primaries than he received as an Independent.

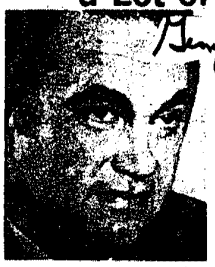
Fact: National polls show that the Wallace vote remains intact and is the key to victory of either of the major parties.

Fact: Wallace leads in national polls as a Democratic favorite and far outdistances the other candidates as the choice of Independents and disenchanted Republicans.

There are many other facts that demonstrate the power of the Wallace vote. They show conclusively that the Wallace influence can bring victory in 1972 for the Democratic Party with Wallace as the nominee and a platform that reflects the people's real thinking.

It boils down to one obvious fact: The people elect a President. The key to victory in 1972 is the Wallace vote.

A Vote for George Wallace Can Change a Lot of Thinking.



Everyday people from all walks of life want as their president a man of character and courage who will fulfill their yearning for government by consent of the governed.

George Wallace is the only candidate who has sensed the real thinking of our people.

He has fought hard to bridge the gap between what the people desire and what our government does on busing, foreign giveaways, law and order, tax equality, national defense and welfare loafing.

His strong stands against constant government interference in the happiness of our people, senseless guidelines and social schemes of federal judges and uncaring politicians demonstrate courage and candor, rare qualities in a public official today.

George Wallace was raised by God-fearing parents who put principles above all else. His roots are deep in the earth from his childhood on a depression farm. He has maturity and strong credentials as an overseas veteran, assistant attorney general, legislator, judge and two-term governor.

His high qualities of concerned, caring leadership and his keen awareness of the people's needs and aspirations provide deep insight so desperately needed today to heal and lead our country.

George Wallace's heart will always be with rank and file people. He listens to them. They trust him because he respects their thoughts. To him, the people's thoughts are what this election is all about.

George Wallace would make a great President.

If you're wondering why more and more millions of your fellow Americans are turning to Governor Wallace:

Follow, as your children are bussed. All across town.

Governor Wallace as President will let you and your local schools decide what is best for your children.

An open letter to McGovern supporters from Linda Jenness

The following is an open letter from Linda Jenness, Socialist Workers Party candidate for president, to the supporters of George McGovern's presidential campaign.

In the past months supporters of my campaign and supporters of Senator George McGovern have often worked closely together in the antiwar movement. We worked together in building the Emergency National Student Antiwar Conference held in New York Feb. 25. We worked together, along with many other groups, to organize the massive April 22 demonstrations for immediate withdrawal from Vietnam. We have both participated in the many student strikes and protests that swept the country in response to President Nixon's blockade and stepped-up bombing of North Vietnam.

In addition, we have cooperated in many cities in the struggle for the right of women to abortion.

But while we have worked side by side on these issues, we have also discussed and debated the fundamental differences between the campaign of Senator McGovern and my campaign. My supporters have maintained that despite his statements early in the campaign in support of antiwar actions, in favor of repeal of anti abortion laws, and against racism, McGovern cannot represent these causes because he is committed to the Democratic Party: a party controlled by big business and dedicated to the preservation of the capitalist system here and around the world. We have maintained that the Democratic Party is a graveyard for movements of social change: It sucks protesters into supporting, and trusting in, liberal Democrats, thus attempting to demobilize these movements.

I believe that the course of the McGovern campaign so far is already confirming this view and I appeal to all McGovern supporters to seriously consider this new evidence.

First came the April 22 antiwar demonstrations. McGovern refused to endorse them or to speak at the New York action, although he was invited.

Asked at Ohio State University whether he supported the April 22 demonstrations, he replied, "I used to participate in those demonstrations, as you know. But I've decided the best thing I can do now is run for the Presidency so I can speak out every day, not just on April 22." (As reported in the Ohio State Lantern on April 20.)

The Boston headquarters for the McGovern campaign refused to allow leaflets for the April 22 demonstrations to be displayed there.

Then an interview with McGovern by David Broder of the L. A. Times/Washington Post Service appeared in newspapers across the country on April 28. Published in the Cleveland Plain Dealer under the heading "McGovern Seeks Peace With the Establishment," the interview relates McGovern's decision to go after support from more conservative Democratic Party bosses and labor officials to better his chances for winning the nomination.

Then came the Nebraska primary. With it were attacks on McGovern by the anti-abortion groups and the local Catholic diocese for his supposed support to the right of women to abortion, amnesty for draft resisters, and the legalization of marijuana.

McGovern went on a campaign to deny these charges, saying that abortion laws were matters for the states to handle. "I don't propose to enter this area," he replied. That means he will not challenge the right of states to deny women the right to abortion.

Then on May 5 the Los Angeles Times reported that, "fearful of being caught in the whiplash of the hot school busing issue in the May 16 Michigan primary," McGovern "appears to be shying away from an all-out run there."

When one of McGovern's political aides was asked whether it would hurt McGovern if he didn't confront Wallace more directly, he answered that it did not matter. The Los Angeles Times reporter commented: "The observation reflected the growing confidence in the McGovern organization that their man is on his way to a first-ballot nomination—provided he picks his spots carefully, avoiding hazardous detours."

To McGovern, winning now comes first. And any "hazardous" positions—such as supporting antiwar demonstrations, supporting the right of women to abortion, or taking a strong stand against Wallace's racist stand on busing—must be sacrificed to that first priority.

No demonstrations

But McGovern's move to the right was perhaps most clear in his response to President Nixon's May 8 TV announcement of his decision to mine the ports of North Vietnam and bomb all supply lines into North Vietnam. McGovern stated: "Let us not react in blind fury and dangerous demonstrations, but let us work quietly and firmly to put forward in 1972 a new agenda of peace—and end at long last the futile and destructive war in Southeast Asia." (As quoted in the May 9 Los Angeles Times.)

Asked specifically whether he was advocating demonstrations against the escalation, McGovern replied, "I'm not advising any course except changing the political leadership of this country. We've tried everything else. I'm now convinced the only way to end this war is to take Richard Nixon out of office."

In other words McGovern advised his supporters to stay quiet and work for him, trusting that he would end the war—if he is elected.

However, many McGovern supporters—along with thousands of other Americans—were among those who poured into the streets to protest in the days immediately following Nixon's escalation. Despite McGovern's advice, thousands of antiwar Americans felt this was no time to keep quiet. The lives of thousands more Vietnamese hang in the balance, as well as the threat of a nuclear war and unimaginable destruction.

At this critical time, a massive protest movement by the American people was called for—a massive revolt such as occurred in May of 1970 when Nixon invaded Cambodia. The May 1970 antiwar upsurge had a tremendous impact, helping to stay Nixon's hand and to force him to withdraw from Cambodia.

When Nixon announced his latest escalation, he ended with a plea for unity and support. He stated that the whole world will be watching the American people's response. So what does George McGovern tell us? Don't demonstrate. Don't show your anger. Work "quietly." Isn't that exactly what Nixon and the other warmakers would like?

Why does McGovern discourage antiwar demonstrations? Why is he afraid of the prospect of masses of Americans demonstrating, acting on what they believe, building their own power? Why does he want us to let Nixon go unchallenged, to let Nixon escalate the war with impunity until the November elections, when McGovern might get elected?

Move to right

McGovern's retreat from supporting antiwar actions is part of a general move to deemphasize his liberal image and to step up his concessions to the right. As his chances of winning the nomination increase, he is attempting to become acceptable to sections of the capitalist class, and to those who run or influence the Democratic Party—party officials, Southern Dixiecrats, and labor bureaucrats.

What we see happening in the McGovern campaign is simply a repeat of what the Democratic Party has been doing for years. Liberal Democrats have appealed with promises and demagogy to those who want change. Then, with the support of left critics safely wrapped up, the liberal Democrats are free to move to the right and—if elected—do what is necessary to maintain the status quo of the capitalist system. McGovern's campaign manager Gary Hart summarized it when he told Patrick Anderson of the New York Times Magazine that, "Our strategy all along was to coopt the left." (New York Times, May 14.)

An article on the McGovern campaign in the May 5 New York Times by R.W. Apple explained this process surprisingly well. Apple wrote: "The goal of the American political system is to contain protest and rage within the electoral process, thus keeping it from bursting into the streets as revolution. The goal of the [Democratic and Republican] parties is to provide a vehicle for such protest. . . ."

This is why McGovern discourages antiwar protests against Nixon's escalation of the war. He and the Democratic and Republican parties want to head off any threat to their system of capitalism. They want to channel all protest into support for themselves. They want to keep the American people dependent upon politicians like themselves.

They want to discourage the American people from acting in their own interests, discourage them from thinking that they have the power to change things, discourage them from forming their own organizations for struggle.

In light of these developments in George McGovern's campaign, I would like to appeal to you to seriously consider switching over to support the Socialist Workers Party ticket of myself and Andrew Pulley.

When thousands of tons of bombs are raining down on Vietnam, how can you support a candidate who places his own personal advancement over the need to end this genocidal war? How can you support a candidate whose loyalty to the Democratic Party and this capitalist system leads him to oppose the independent actions of the American people against this war?

Unlike the Democrats, the Socialist Workers Party campaign has no stake whatsoever in defending the wars and inequalities of this system. Unlike the Democrats, we are not out to "contain protest and rage" or to keep it from "bursting into the streets." We are out to encourage people to protest injustice, to encourage them to exercise their mass power to force this government to get out of Indochina.

But whether you decide to endorse my campaign or not, I urge you to continue working against the war as my supporters and many other antiwar activists will be doing, and to help build the massive independent protests that are needed to express the view of the American people—U. S. Out Now!

New York

On the evening of June 25, members of the Ohio delegation to the Christopher Street march attended a play, "Coming Out," at the Firehouse, New York GAA's community center. The play was written by Jonathan Katz and was his own "coming out," since this was the first time he had publicly signed his own name to a gay piece of writing.

The play was done in documentary/journalistic style, consisting of selections from newspaper accounts, letters and diaries relating to the history of the gay movement. Perhaps the most moving moment in the play was the excerpt from Arthur Bell's Dancing the Gay Lib Blues, in which Bell told the story of Diego Rivera, an immigrant from Latin America who was one of those rounded up by the cops during a raid on a gay bar called the Snakepit. In an attempt to escape from the temporary jail where prisoners were being held, Rivera jumped from a second story window and impaled himself on an iron spike fence. He lay pinned there for some 45 minutes while cops shouted derisive remarks about "faggots."

Alternately horrifying, amusing, shocking, and uplifting, "Coming Out" is a forceful documentary on gay liberation in America.

A Saturday night dance at the GAA Firehouse is commonplace if you live in New York City, but to the visiting clan of Ohio flaming faggots, it was a lot more. Here, in the corn and bible belt, gay dances are a rare occasion. They are preceeded by weeks of planning and attendance varies according to how high the paranoia is flowing.

In New York, the story is different. There's free beer, free music, and a place to talk available every Saturday night. We were overwhelmed by all of those gay people, gathered under one roof, to have a good time. It's a nice feeling knowing that you can have a gay time and not be supporting a Mafia-run bar at the same time.

Our only objection was to the music played. It wasn't a matter of personal taste, but one of sexism. "Troglodyte" and "It's a Man's World" were songs played that reflect the outlook of white, middle-class men in America today. They give the impression that male supremacy is the natural order of sexual objects. To hear these songs at a "liberated" dance is somewhat contradictory. 'Nuff said.

An air of expectation was in the Firehouse: it was the eve of Christopher Street. People were eager for Sunday to come, but were passing the time at a dance, for gays, by gays, and benefitting the gay community.

Don't rain on my parade was the thought uppermost in our minds the morning of the Christopher Street Liberation Day parade, the high point of gay activities that weekend in New York. A bleak, steady shower had begun pouring down from the skies over the city, threatening to dissuade all but the most determined from marching. But by the time we reached the assembly point on Christopher Street in the Village, the rain had miraculously cleared up and Tinseltown was basked in a radiant sunlight.

The parade route followed the Avenue of the Americas from lower Manhattan up to Central Park, a distance of perhaps some 40-50 blocks. Thousands of gay people from all over the country marched, chanted, and sang, while thousands of spectators looked on from the sidewalks. Not even those blase New Yorkers could watch us with indifference -- and the out-of-towners just had their minds completely wiped out. An army of Gays proclaiming their gayness just ain't like nothing anybody's ever seen before.

The Ohio delegation represented folks from Athens, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, and Oberlin, not to mention Ohio gays living in exile or captivity in other parts of the nation. Under a rainbow-hued banner bearing the slogan, "We Are All One -- Ohio Gays," and a lavender-lettered sign that said, "Ohio Flaming Faggots," we performed the entire parade route -- singing our repertoire of songs, like "Hello, Gay Pride Week" (substituting Lindsay in the lyrics for Moody, of course), "Would You Like to Swing with a Star?" "Flaming Faggots," and "Radicalfems"; twirling umbrellas like batons; walking on our hands when our feet got tired doing a chorus-line in front of the Radio City Music Hall.

At Sheeps Meadow in Central Park, the terminus of the march, we gave a mini-version of the Lavender Spectacular, and then headed back home.

Detroit

It all started June 24 for Detroit as they had their first rally and march in remembrance of the Stonewall riots of 1969. It was beautiful, full of life, and when it was over, it was sad.

The day of the march was cold and rainy, but still hundreds of people showed for the march and rally to Kennedy Square in downtown Detroit. The rally consisted of about 8-10 speakers ranging from gay youth to transvestites. The whole day was full of spirit and surprise for the straight people doing their Saturday shopping.

The spirit was carried on right into the dance where everyone exploded and for many people finally realizing their pride and how beautiful it is to be gay. The dance went on with a skit that a group of women put on. The skit was about a part of a woman's life and how she loved but couldn't show her love to her best friend.

As the dance came to a close, it was like your first birthday part and the way you never wanted it to end. On Sunday, there was a picnic and all day gay-in at Palmer Park. It was so nice to see peopl just lying around and drinking, eating, and enjoying themselves.

It was sad that the picnic had come so fast because that meant the end of the weekend was close and everyone would be leaving. As people said good-bye I sat and watched the birth of new people. People who really love, understand and respect people for what they are. People who are past the point of hiding and now are saying, "I'm Gay and I'm Proud." And this feeling shall never leave my heart. The people in Detroit are some of the best people. I thank them for putting on a weekend where I could be me and show people that I will stay me.

Cedar Point

During the All-Ohio Gay Conference in May, Cleveland GAA announced plans for a gay-in at Cedar Point amusement park on Sunday, June 25, as part of the activities that would be going on throughout the country to commemorate Christopher Street.

I was one of two representatives from Columbus GAA who went to Cedar Point to take part in the event. Probably due to many things, such as poor planning, poor weather, and other activities, Cleveland GAA never showed up. But the two of us from Columbus had a fantastic time. By mid afternoon, the weather had become warm and sunny and the lines for the rides were short compared to their usual length. We saw about seven other gay people there -- detectable by the gay buttons which they wore proudly.

Perhaps sometime this summer a large turnout can get it together for a gay-in at Cedar Point.

Book Review

Finally, someone has produced a key to unlock some of the shackles worn by homosexuals since the beginning of time. Dr. George Weinberg in Society and the Healthy Homosexual deals with the myths and harmful prejudices against homosexuals in terms of what he calls "homophobia" -- or the fear of homosexuality.

His book is unique in that it is just as beneficial to homosexuals as it is to heterosexuals in reaching a better understanding of themselves as total people.

Some subjects dealt with by Dr. Weinberg are the bias of psychoanalysis, homosexual "cures," the case against trying to convert, communication with parents, homosexuality and creativity, and the dread of being alone.

If only this book could be made required reading by all parents, in all high schools and universities, and in just about all areas of legal and political importance. It would be one of the biggest breakthroughs to reaching a better understanding of the true validity and beauty of the gay lifestyle since Sappho.

Without going into a 10-page dissertation on the fine points of Dr. Weinberg's work, it can only be suggested that this book should be a welcome addition to any intelligent and concerned person's private library.

TLC Meeting

The second meeting of the Transvestite Legal Committee was held at Miss Patty's on Tuesday, June 27. There was a paucity of attendance, but an interesting and educating time was had by those attending. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, July 11, 8:00 P.M. at Tiffany Cartier's, 142 E. 7th Avenue. At that time the purpose of T.L.C. will be discussed along with acquainting all members with each other and announcement of a TLC potluck supper for TLC members only (and possibly their dates). Attendance in drag at meetings is encouraged. All transvestites, transsexuals, hermaphrodites, etc. are eligible for membership in T.L.C. Let's see everyone there. Out of your make-up kits and into the meetings.

Gay O. P.

Richard M. Nixon happens to be a straight white man. A recent study shows that San Francisco is governed by a group who represent but 8½% of the population - married white men. This is no coincidence! Need we say more? Apparently so . . .

Mister President and his Grand OLD Party affect gay people in numerous ways. Laws against us are maintained -- we are constantly jailed for "crimes against nature" and we are not allowed to teach children or to be openly gay in any but the lowest paying jobs.

Nixon's appointees to the Supreme Court continue to vote conservatively on issues to limit freedom for all of us. The War has been trying intensely to destroy Vietnam for twenty years now. Nixon's "plan to end the War in one year" was to escalate an automated air war to save face for himself and American HONOR. This has resulted in massive casualities to people in Laos, Vietnam, and Cambodia, and economic recession in the US. As gay people, we have grown up with a very different perspective on male-female relationships and we are aware of how male pride effects decisions. The US War against the Vietnamese is the product of men and their egos. Nixon cannot lose "respect" and the men in the armed forces must compete with one another and assert their power over other men. Straight men have consistently made decisions to satisfy their own needs, rather than meeting the needs of others.

Gay people will be in Miami for the Republican National Convention. We must come to act on our outrage at the Nixon government and to share our perspective and our energy with others who want to build alternatives.

Gay rage and gay love are parts of the whole which we see as necessary to becoming a strong unit.

We must look to each other for strength because the oppression of sexism makes it hard for us to survive -- and we don't want to just survuve -- we want to create. We struggle against the death dreams of Nixon and other men's power in the government and also against the male attitudes we find among leftist movement people and others who want to live in alternative ways to American society. We try to support all women in the effort to end male supremacy. The vision we have of a revolutionary society is not one where men continue to dominate. We urge men to come out into revolutionary consciousness. We think that men should become effeminate to learn to live and work collectively and to leave space free of male influence, for sisters.

★ FROM MIAMI CONVENTIONS COALITION

The Student Vote

An Organization . . .

The Student Vote is a non-partisan, tax-exempt, foundation conceived out of a need to translate the promise of the 26th Amendment into a political reality for the newly enfranchised youth of America.

Designed to Help with the Special Problems . . .

Since the voting status of all citizens is defined primarily by state law, there exists at present no automatic mechanism for implementing a federally guaranteed right to vote. The Student Vote, through formal drives, registration information and legal activities has been attempting to help young people fulfill their voting potential.

Of 25 Million Young Voters.

In 1972, 25 million Americans between the ages of 18 and 24 will be eligible to vote for the first time in a presidential election. Considering that 2 of the last 3 presidential elections were decided by less than 500,000 votes, the youth vote will have a considerable impact on the upcoming election. This newly won right to vote will give young people a real chance to voice their opinions on the needs and concerns of this country.

The First Vote

A New Direction . . .

The First Vote is a new program of voter registration, aimed at non-college youth and sponsored by The Student Vote. At this time, over 70% of all students in the country are registered. Only 40% of non-college young people between the ages of 18 and 24, including minority and ethnic youth, are registered. The First Vote program is trying to reach as many of these young people as possible.

Combining Intensive Field Projects . . .

Focusing on metropolitan areas, The First Vote is attempting to bring the power and the responsibility of the vote to young people in areas that have been previously excluded from intensive registration efforts. Through mobile registration drives, deputy registrars, seed grants, house-to-house canvassing and special events, The First Vote is working to eliminate many of the barriers to voter registration now facing these young people.

Legal Aid . . .

In many parts of the country, a young person's right to register is abridged or inhibited through discriminatory or anachronistic procedures. The legal department of The Student Vote is working closely with the First Vote program, making legal resources available to young people who wish to register, but have been unable to do so. A legal clearinghouse has been set up to provide current registration information, backup research and litigation assistance to attorneys and groups interested in overcoming the legal barriers to voter registration.

Media . . .

In conjunction with The First Vote program, an intensive media campaign, comprised of radio, T.V., posters and registration information is being distributed throughout the country. These materials will be used at both the local and national level, giving impetus to youthful participation in voter registration activities.

And Campus Activities . . .

In the early fall, an intensive cleanup campaign on college campuses will be conducted. The First Vote will act as a catalyst to initiate and provide support services for grass roots drives conducted by local students.

Into a Comprehensive Plan of Youth Registration.

The First Vote operation is striving to bring together diverse social and cultural interests into a comprehensive plan of non-partisan youth voter registration.

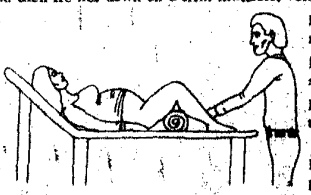
Always stay calm, as the mother may reflect any nervousness on your part. Any tension or straining will work against her involuntary muscles, and cause unnecessary pain. She should not try to hurry the delivery along.

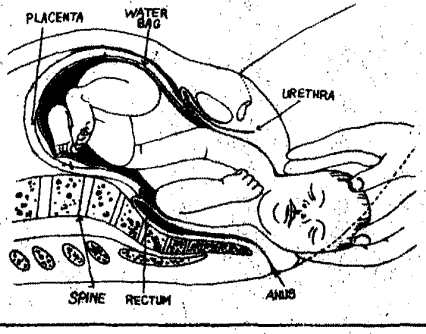
Let the mother sleep as long as she can, but it is not good for her to lie awake and grow anxious. If she cannot sleep, let her walk around until the contractions get too intense, and then lie her down on a firm mattress. She does not have to lie flat, but will probably prefer to lie in a more up- right position with something to support her back. Her legs should be spread and bent, pillow or rolled so that her legs will be supported by a towel, etc., so that her legs will be relaxed.



The mother can help herself a great deal by focusing her attention on controlling a slow chest breathing, making it more rapid and shallow as the contractions become stronger. She should resist the urge to push by blowing out continously throughout the length of the contraction. While in hard labor, she may forget to breathe; in which case, the midwife or helper should remind her with a strong, encouraging command to "blow." It is important for her to stay relaxed and allow her body to do the work on its own. She should also be reminded to take in oxygen to prevent hyperventilation. Apply hot towels to the vaginal area inbetween contractions to help muscles relax.

Be sure that everything is as sterile as possible, keeping the area under the mother as clean as you can. Also, if it is certain that there will be no help from a doctor or hospital, you should go ahead and prepare all of the supplies needed for after the birth. For example, boil blankets or cloth for 20 minutes to sterilize and let dry. In a small covered basin, boil either scissors or a knife, and shoe strings or crochet thread for about five minutes. After draining the water off, keep them covered while cooling. Keep your hands clean!

The baby's head is usually born first, with the body following easily during the next contraction. Once the head is out, do not get upset or overanxious. You should not push or pull on the baby's body; rather, just support it as it forces itself free.

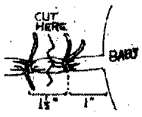


Lift the baby by his feet, resting his shoulders in your other hand as a precaution against dropping him. This is to drain some of the fluid and mucous out of his lungs and passageways. If he still does not cry and start breathing, suck the fluid out of his mouth and nose with an infant syringe if one is available. If one is not available, use your mouth to draw it out and open the channels. If these efforts do not produce breathing, use artificial respiration.

Do not bother the cord. Gently place the baby on mother's abdomen with his head lowered, facing away from mother to allow fluids to continue draining. Keep baby warm by covering with a sterile towel, blanket, cloth, etc.

Do not worry about the cord; there is no hurry. DO NOT PULL THE CORD AT ALL. At this time, the baby will receive 200 cc's of blood through the cord. After about five minutes, when the pulse in the cord has stopped, prepare to cut the cord. Remember — use sterilized equipment!!

Use something strong (shoestring, crochet thread, etc.) to tie the cord about 1" from the baby's navel, making a strong knot, so that it doesn't slip. Then make a second tie about 1½" from the first tie, or 2½" from the baby, and cut between the two ties.



Now baby may be removed from off the mother's abdomen. Place a sterile dressing over the cord stump, and tie a wide piece of cloth around his stomach to hold the dressing in place. Keep the baby warm!

The mother may push with any contractions following the birth of the baby, to help expel the placenta (or afterbirth). It is usually out within 5-30 minutes, and then the mother may get cleaned up. DO NOT PULL THE CORD — the afterbirth will come out by itself!

Check the uterus to see if it is getting hard, and if not, massage it until it tightens (every 15 minutes for five minutes, as needed). Do not massage abdomen until after the placenta is expelled.

We remind you that these instructions are only the very basic steps for emergency situations. It would be wise to check into further information, just to be familiar with ways to handle complications. We suggest Six Practical Lessons For An Easier Childbirth, by Elizabeth Bing. It contains valuable information for preparation and breathing techniques. Better Homes and Gardens Baby Book offers helpful information on prenatal and child care.

FLAMINGO PARK

TAKE OVER!

After Wednesday's Heavy Heart parade for LBJ, ZIPPIES transcended PL bullshit and helped take over McGovern headquarters. After the daring take-over at the McGovern Youth Center at the Victor Hotel a commando unit of 5 ZIPS hitched up to the Doral Hotel and outshouted PL by forcing George to come speak. The LBJ poster showed up too, smoking a J (the Zippies admit it was the same king-size mug shot of LBJ that had been reported stolen from the Convention Hall last week). Then George came to talk. V V A W & Zips & PLP forced him to face the issues. Same mumbo-jumbo. '64-'72 Johnson was shit, McGovern is too!!!!!!!!

THE POPE SMOKES DOPE DEPT.

Wow, like dope consciousness during this convention has reached an all time high. Freaks smoking dope on national TV. Horseshit pot laws being flagrantly violated by open pot poking every minute in the park. Everybody gets turned-on. And nobody gets busted!!!!! Because of all this however, the Miami Crime Commission is investigating the YIP/Zippie smoke-in that happened last Sunday. Tough shit for the narks as the "evidence" has already been consumed. Word has it that the narks want drug busts in Flamingo Park to pacify uptight Florida straights. Narks beware! The head that gets busted may be YOUR OWN!!!!!!!!!!

FLOODS

A monumental building effort by local Ameri-Cong has resulted in an actual Vietnamese dyke (80' long x 4' high) being hand built in front of the Convention auditorium area. This massive action symbolizes of course Nixon's policy of bombing the dykes in North Vietnam so they'll give out during the upcoming flood season. If Nixon's plan works, whole Vietnamese villages will be washed away by killer floods during the upcoming rainy season. Hopefully our dike will be strong enough to hold back the Nixon swill from contaminating us in August.

ORANGE BOMB AND...

In 1967, warships bombarded Vinh Chan village in the northern part of the Vinh Rizoon with ball shells of 155 millimeter and 203 millimeter calibers. While in flight, each shell releases 104 winged balls which on landing impact are propelled back into the air and at one meter to 1.7 meters high burst into hundreds of tiny fragments causing multiple wounds to the upper part of the body. The smooth orange bomb, first used against provinces south of the 19th parallel in August, 1967, projects a great many small fragments and is no less dangerous than the steel pellet bomb.

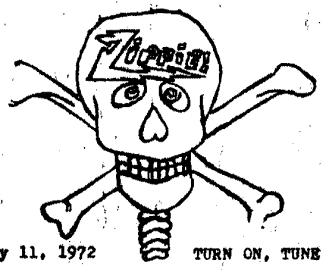
BEACH BLANKET STRUGGLE



3 pm today is the Zippie "Know your Candidate Parade" Meet in Flamingo Park. The Zippies for Wallace Brigade will lead the march to the Convention Hall. Other slogans are rumored to be: PUT TEDDY IN THE DRIVERS SEAT. FREE ART BREMER, HUMP THE HUMP & so on . . .

PUBLISHED BY YIP/ZIPPIE & UNDERGROUND PRESS SYNDICATE Vol. 1, No.5 July 11, 1972 TURN ON, TUNE IN, TAKE OVER

At high noon today, Tuesday, the Youth International Party/Zippie pulls down the zippers of the candidates.

Assemble by the Flamingo Park stage for the "KNOW YOUR CANDIDATE PARADE" to the convention Hall and beyond. The entire march route will consist of right turns to honor George McGovern's recent backpeddling on the issues of 1972. Such as pot, abortion, military spending and Donald Duck.

Once at the Convention Hall there will be the LAUGH-IN FOR MUSKIE, a YAWN-IN FOR WILBUR MILLS, a TOKE-IN FOR CHISHOLM, and an EGG-IN FOR HUMPTY-DUMPTY. Experts will once again attempt to put Humpty-Dumpty back together. The PUT TEDDY IN THE DRIVERS SEAT BRIGADE will also dedicate the moat on the north side of the Convention Complex to the "Mary Jo Kopechne Cause-way". Symbolic steering wheels will then be immersed in the stream.

A WALLACE WHEELCHAIR RACE to the oceanfront will follow, pursued by mask wearing members of the ARTIE BREMER DEFENSE LEAGUE. Once on the beach it will be sink or swim for the washed-up George.

At 3 pm on Tuesday (if we survive all of the above) we'll conduct an ABORTION AND PRISON REFORM MARCH from Flamingo Park to the Convention Hall. We'll graphically dramatise womens' right and need for abortion upon demand. The Zippies will also call for the total integration of the U.S. prison system and it's several million population back into the mainstream of American society. Our solution to that problem is simple: DECLARE ALL OF AMERIKA A JAIL.

And don't forget the LBJ DAY 3 pm march and rally in Flamingo Park on Wednesday. Details to come later.

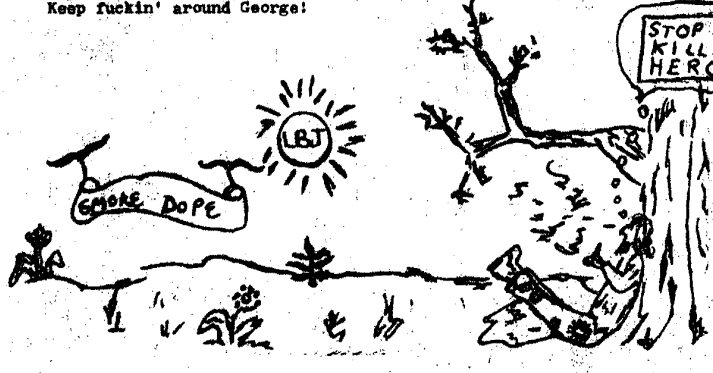
Going into the 2nd day of its summer offensive of offense, the Zippies wish to announce "LBJ DAY". LBJ is a former American of great importance, whom the Democrats have conveniently chosen to forget. Zippie, will begin its rally at 1:30 at the Flamingo Park stage.

Following the LBJ day rally the Zippies will march to the Miami Beach Police Station where they will demonstrate against Humphrey inspired racism and express solidary with Miami Beach jaywalkers. At 4:00 a series of workshops designed to contrast the sterile nature of Amerika society and that of the freak culture. Among the subjects offered will be collective living, instant media, a discussion of men's liberation. Further classes will begin at 8:00 Wednesday evening and again at 10:00 Thursday morning.

By the way, it is believed that the LBJ march will provide some answers as to the whereabouts of the missing LBJ poster which mysteriously disappeared from the Miami Beach Convention Hall.

Incidentally, George McGovern, don't think you're going to get away with that deal you made to get the Humphrey-Jackson. Zippie will take every opportunity to expose your position of remaining a power with air bases in Thailand and the Gulf of Tonkin, a position essentially the same of that of old "heavy heart" Johnson in '65. Keep fuckin' around George!



For the past couple nights a small but increasing amount of death drugs have been sold in our park. The selling of morphine, Quaalude, heroin etc. in this park is a contradiction to why we are here. Money hogs who are poisoning our sisters and brothers in this park will be hunted down and FIXED but good. So kids, know your dealer & STOP THE PUSHER!!!!!!

Most of the "movement" groups said it could not happen, but Sunday's Independence pot smoke-in did, much to the pleasure of a widely representative throng.

There were several 1,000 stoned-out heads, lots of good vibes & music, a token amount of free weed & several gallons of 'lectric lemonade (or "acid-ade").

The Youth International Party/Zippies thank all who came & especially the bands: GROVER BOYS, STONEWEDGE from Orlando & ZOUNDS. Some of the bands wanna play again during the week at night, in Flamingo Park. As more people come into town this week, the concerts will help break the tension in the air, hopefully.

The anti-heroin march, after the smoke-in, to the convention hall, was not only high on weed, but many of us were doing acid-ade. In fact, while listening to Dana Beal rap about C.I.A. smack-evils and pot-pleasures, those initial hi-how-are-you? rushes began entertaining my own body. It was a fabulous scenerio. There were about 2,000 of us passing around joints "just like kisses". There was a helicopter hovering above our heads inspiring everyone to flip the old-fashioned bird in the air. Cheers such as "The Pope smokes dope", "We, smoke pot & we like it alot", "Attack Smack!" & so on, worked up the spirit of the people for the convention week. People in hotels & apts. looked down on us longingly. We stopped for a few moments of silence at the Yippie office on Meridian. While the march was in progress troops were being herded to Miami Beach High. Later there was speculation that the guardsman held a smoke-in of their own at their golfcourse site.

HIGH NOON PIE MARCH

As the Demo. Convention opens, Miami Beach wants to jail Zippie Pat Small. A few weeks back the good natured Pat attempted to present Beach Councilman Harold Rosen with a pie after the council had rejected campsites for us.

For his effort Pat was beaten, arrested & now faces jail. Friday, Judge Sweet found Pat guilty of assault with a deadly pie & gave him 90 days in the Stockade.

At 1 pm this afternoon Pat either puts up $1500 for an appeal bond or else starts serving his time.

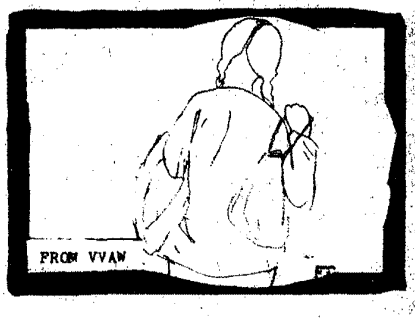
KILL

Next time you meet Henry Ford III, do what lunatick Mark Gallager did outside the Playboy Club during an unusually boring SDS "SMASH SEXOCAPITALPERACISM" demonstration Sunday nite. Walk up to hime & snarl "Give me yr' money or I'll kill you motherfucker". Henry smiled providing further evidence of the deafness of the ruling class.



Humphrey for President, 1972

Unemployment

"More than anything else, the tragedy of the Republican recession is that the great economic strides made by Black Americans has slowed to a crawl.

Since the Nixon Administration took office:

. . . Black unemployment has increased by 104 percent.

. . . Nearly 50 percent of Black youth is without work.

. . . Black female unemployment is over 50 percent.

. . . At least 100,000 Black youths have given up looking for work out of sheer desperation."

"To provide jobs to get our nation moving again, I proposed:

- Passage of The Employment Opportunities Act of 1972 to provide one million public service jobs.
- 250,000 jobs for young people through the Neighborhood Youth Corps.
- Expansion of the manpower training programs – programs that lead directly to employment, not to more training.
- An accelerated public works program.
- Community Conversion Corporations for aerospace and defense related personnel."

Black Business

Blacks today own only about 163,000 of the five million small businesses in the United States – only about two percent of the total. They account for less than one-half of one percent of the total business receipts in this country.

There are still only a handful of black-owned radio stations, no black-owned TV stations and only a few black-owned newspapers of any size.

In the area of finance the record is also poor. No additional black-owned insurance companies have been founded in recent years; there are only a few minority investment banking institutions; only one black-owned investment firm has been admitted to the New York Stock Exchange and there are only 40 black-owned banks.

I have proposed a far-reaching Domestic Development Bank which has among its highest priorities the financing of a wide variety of business enterprises owned and operated by inner-city residents – primarily Black Americans.

Jobs are important, but they aren't enough if they mean only the right of the person who is Black to work for the person who is white. The freedom to work has to include the opportunity to own, to be a proprietor, to be the boss as well as the employee."

"what I want for Black People is what I want for me."

Humphrey A Fighter: Education

"In no single area is the failure of our nation to provide true equality of opportunity more striking than in our educational system.

In our rich nation some children go to dilapidated schools in unsafe neighborhoods. And too many of these children are Black.

In our rich nation some of our children are prevented from learning because they have poorly qualified teachers. And too many of these children are Black.

And in our rich nation some of our children receive second class educations. And too many of these children are Black.

A good education is the passport to a better life, to greater opportunity and to justice. And too often this passport is denied Black children by a nation that preaches equality and justice.

There are new directions for us to provide equality of education. And we must take them now.

We must have the Federal government finance at least one-third of our education costs so that all of our schools and neighborhoods are immediately upgraded. And, we must place these billions in a separate education trust fund out of the reach of those who would deprive our children of educations.

We must target our funds to impoverished areas and we must implement special programs to help educationally deprived minorities. We must establish developmental and educational day care centers all across the country.

We must equalize spending among school districts because equal funding means equal opportunity for our children."

Jewish Civil Rights

WHAT IS HUMPHREY'S RECORD CONCERNING KOSHER FOOD?

Over fifteen years ago Senator Humphrey played a key role in drafting the federal legislation that safeguards kosher slaughter to this day. He has since been vigilant to decry any effort to interfere with this constitutional right.

Why does Senator Humphrey give so much attention to this issue?

"The provision of kosher foods for the observant Jew must be viewed as a basic right. It is not a privilege or a luxury. In our pluralistic society, we must respect the customs and rituals that each group observes.

WHAT DOES HUMPHREY SAY ABOUT SABBATH OBSERVERS?

"Another area in which we can and must take immediate action is on the protection of Sabbath observers. There are millions of Americans, of both the Jewish and the Seventh Day Adventist faith, who are discriminated against because their day of Sabbath is Saturday.

"Sabbath observance is a basic right. It is not a privilege or a luxury.

"If any American is denied employment because of his Sabbath observance, then his or her civil rights have clearly been violated.

"If any employer doing business with the Federal government discriminates against Sabbath observers, his government contracts should be cancelled.

"If any university forces observant students to take exams on the Sabbath or religious holidays, then its Federal assistance should be withheld."

WHY?

must we raise our sons to kill and be killed?

Military training teaches young Americans to kill, to hate, and often to look upon less fortunate people as a different, subhuman species. Cruel devaluation of human life is revealed by the mass murders in Vietnam.

We need young men and women to root out the causes of disease, ignorance, injustice here at home and, if they are qualified for international service, abroad.

WHY?

are we policing the world with our sons and our dollars?

The huge standing army created by the draft makes it possible for our government, with our tax money, and without Congressional consent, to send our sons to fight anywhere in the world—the Dominican Republic, the Congo, Asia . . .

We repudiate the attempts to establish world order through a Pax Americana and advocate instead renewed dedication to the work of the United Nations.

WHY?

do we protest bitterly when our government raises taxes, and stand by silently when it takes our sons?

Military conscription is a basic denial of the very freedom in whose name we act. The individual is deprived of liberty and perhaps even of life. The most severe restrictions are placed on his freedom of speech and association. The draft is used to suppress dissent within and without the armed forces. It imposes involuntary servitude.

We are grateful for the idealism of American youth who refuse to kill, but seek alternative service in the areas of housing, education, pollution, and overcrowded cities—problems which threaten to overwhelm us at home.

WILPF supports the right of young men to obey the dictates of conscience and to refuse to serve in Vietnam.

CRISIS

PUBLIC" STATEMENT THAT JESUS CHRIST IS THE SOLUTION TO THE PROBLEMS IN AMERICA.

The Bible says in II Chron. 7:14, "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sins and heal their land." Our land needs a spiritual healing. That's God's promise and these are His conditions. Look at them closely.

1) "If my people who are called by my name....." We are called a Christian nation, but are we really? On our coins are the words, "In God we trust." Do we really trust Him?

2) "Shall humble themselves..." Pride plagues America. The politician says, "I will do this and I will do that. The radical says, you had better listen to me and my demands. We had all better get off our little self-trips and make Jesus the Lord of our lives. We must humble ourselves.

3) "Pray and seek God's face." Prayer will do more than peace talks and protests put together. God must Divinely intervene in the history of this nation. He intervenes as we seek His face.

4) "Turn from our wicked ways." From the White House to the dopers on the street there must be repentance. The hypocracy of this nation must cease. Condemning young people for smoking marijuana while toasting cocktails at the White House is hypocritical. Yelling peace while running up and down the streets ripping off someone else is phony. Jesus said, "Except you repent, you shall all likewise perish." Repent or perish!

Yes, there is a CRISIS. But we offer you the CHRIST of that CRISIS. Turn from your sin. Invite Jesus to be the Lord of your life. Pray to Him right now. We believe that we can get it together, but first we must get it together with God!

THE Be-Cause LOOK BOOK

THE NATIONAL TENANTS ORGANIZATION, INC.

"a place to be somebody"

Since the dawn of mankind, people have been struggling to build "a place to be somebody".

They have labored to build 'a place' where dignity is not broken; where families can grow in safety; and where honor, integrity and love are living things instead of impossible dreams.

A home is the first place 'to be somebody'.

The National Tenants Organization (NTO) is about homes; homes that are safe; homes that are warm; homes where women and men can be fathers and mothers.

But work building "a place to be somebody" did not just begin. As a nationally organized effort it began in 1969 with the founding of NTO after years of struggle by local tenant groups. Within such a short time NTO has grown into a family of hundreds of thousands. This is not to boast about how far we've come; it's just to note how determined we are to reach where we want to go.

Yet the road from here to there is not easy. Tenants continue to feel the sting of exploitation by landlords. Some tenants still live in fear and lack the resources to wage a successful struggle for a decent home.

Viewpoint

Stella Wright : An Extended Rent Strike

by Toby Henry

(Editor's Notation: Toby Henry is the President of the Stella Wright Tenant Association.)

Stella Wright Homes is a low income, high rise public housing development located in the Central Ward of Newark, New Jersey. Operated by the Newark Housing Authority, it is funded by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Stella Wright Homes consists of fourteen (14) building entrances, thirteen stories high, housing 1206 black families in a two block area.

Nearly two years ago, because of the intolerable living conditions, tenants of Stella Wright as a last resort decided not to pay rent to the Newark Housing Authority until the substandard living conditions were corrected. Monies normally paid to the Newark Housing Authority were given to the Stella Wright Tenant Association to use as a bargaining weapon in negotiations with the Newark Housing Authority, HUD and the City Administration.

The complaints and conditions that motivated the birth of the Stella Wright rent strike range from unbearable to unbelievable.

Elevators

The two elevators in each of the fourteen buildings remain out of order forcing tenants (including senior citizens) to walk up as many as thirteen flights daily. If you should find the elevators in working condition and attempt to ride to your apartment, you are apt to be stuck in or stuck up.

"Routine Maintenance"—Violations

During the cold winter months tenants frequently do not enjoy the luxury of heat and hot water.

Broken windows occur whenever there are strong winds that force windows to open and slam against the side of the brick building. Many tenants who complain about broken windows in their apartments, due to the faulty construction plan, are forced to suffer as long as two years before they see any service done to them, even then some windows are still not repaired.

"Extermination"

We have witnessed large rats chasing little children down hallways. There are more rats in the community than humans and many of them occupy space within the projects, and why not, they go where the filth is.

The basement of each of the buildings, which by law is supposed to be kept clean, has become a haven for rats, mice, roaches, ants, bed bugs, etc. The Newark Housing Authority used to at least attempt to treat the rodent problem with ten (10) percent chemical and ninety (90) percent water. But today, even that attempt is neglected.

"Security Protection"

Because Stella Wright Homes is a police free community, criminals realize that they can commit crimes without fear of being caught. Drug users and pushers openly conduct business in hallways at any given hour of the day. As a result of the lack of protection many tenants are mugged, robbed, beaten, raped and in one specific incident, one of our tenants, Mr. Junius Threadcraft, was murdered (March 18, 1971) in the building in which he lived.

"Recreation and Facility Complaints"

A large percentage of the population of Stella Wright Homes is made up of children, teenagers and young adults. It would seem logical to provide some sort of recreation or recreational program designed to utilize their free time. Instead, our young people are forced to associate and relate to elements provided by drug users, drug pushers and other criminals.

"The Incinerator Violation"

Tenants have accepted the fact that their apartments may be filled with clouds of heavy dark smoke due to the disposal unit located on each floor of each building. According to City Ordinance regulations, the Newark Housing Authority has been forbidden to burn rubbish. The Newark Housing Authority has disregarded the ordinance. Many lives are in danger due to the substandard conditions and the incompetence of the landlord, Newark Housing Authority, and the lack of concern of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"Electricity"
Power Failure Complaints

On five different occasions tenants suffered severe food losses due to very timely electrical power failures; the longest period tenants were without electrical power was 29 hours. The power seemed to always break down within the first week of the month, which happens to be the week most of our tenants (who receive state aid) do their shopping for the month.

"Administrative Charges" Against the Newark Housing Authority and The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development

The living conditions just described to you are disgusting to read and even worse to exist in. But officials from the Newark Housing Authority, HUD and the City Administration view the entire situation as follows—"well it's a place to stay" or "it's not all that bad" or "that's the best we can do". They seem to feel that regardless of the substandard conditions, Stella Wright Homes is not a bad place to live. But we invited members from the N.H.A., HUD and the City Administration and their families to spend one month with us as tenants. Their answers and reactions ranged from "hell no" to "if it weren't for my illness I'd be glad to".

Nixon Stranglehold Rural and Urban Housing Funds

The National Tenants Organization (NTO) does not propose to hold every solution. But we do believe that coordination of efforts is an important part in not only reaching our goals but moving beyond them.

We have succeeded in bringing a lot of different tenant groups together in a single structure. Divided, our strength was little. United, there is power to move institutions that once we thought were immovable.

... AND we have moved. The Brooke Amendment to the U.S. Housing Act, which sets a ceiling of 25% of the income on rent for public housing tenants, was passed in 1969 after NTO urging and support.

We are moving to stabilize and limit all rents nationally.

NIXON ATTACKS VIETNAM VETERANS

In the last two years the Vietnam Veterans Against the War have been the pivotal group in awakening the American people to the horrors of the war in Southeast Asia. No other group has been able to expose so well the fraudulent nature of Richard Nixon's Vietnamization program. It is for this reason that their large support within Nixon's own constituency poses a substantial threat to Nixon's re-election. Because of this the Vietnam Veterans warrant the Democratic Party's strongest support.

Because of their unimpeachable credentials to speak out against this war, the Nixon-Mitchell forces have felt compelled to use the most desperate tactics in an effort to discredit the VVAW.

Late Friday afternoon, July 7th, between 20 and 40 Vietnam Veterans from around the country, many of whom have come to Miami to dramatize their opposition to this continuing war, were abruptly served by FBI agents with subpoenas to appear before a Federal Grand Jury in Tallahassee, Florida on Monday morning, July 10th. The basis for the issuance of the subpoenas was an open Southeast regional planning meeting held by the Veterans in Florida more than a month ago to discuss plans for activities at both National Conventions.

Admitted FBI informers who have already surfaced make it clear that Mitchell and Kleindeinst have known about this meeting and the discussions there since the moment they occurred; yet no actions whatever were taken by the Justice Department until the eve of the Democratic National Convention. It is plain, therefore, that this entire Grand Jury proceeding is nothing less than a blatant attempt by the Republican Administration to harass, intimidate and discredit its most eloquent antagonists. It is nothing less than an effort to deny the men who deserve it the most their most elementary constitutional rights to peaceably assemble and express their grievances. By subpoenaing the Vets at this moment the Nixon Administration sweeps them from the streets of Miami as effectively as would wholesale illegal arrests. The motives for such an attack are readily apparent. First, we believe that the Nixon forces, through the Grand Jury, are concocting another one of their preposterous conspiracy charges painting the Veterans as violent extremists in hopes of negating what will undoubtedly be a powerful indictment of the Administration's policies by these very Vets. Secondly, by tieing them up in a protracted Grand Jury investigation with the threat of summary jailing for contempt, Nixon hopes to physically remove his opposition from the streets of Miami when the Republicans gather here in August, and if such jailing should provoke a confrontation by non-delegate forces gathered at the Democratic convention who support the Vets that will be another bonus for the President's re-election campaign.

This most recent outrage is but another attempt, through the abuse of the Grand Jury system, to silence a peace movement which despite the President's wishes will just not disappear.

As attorneys for the Veterans we call upon the Democratic Party to take immediate steps to bring this Grand Jury persecution to a halt. We are seeking a Federal Court Order to quash the subpoenas served upon the Vets, at least until after both National Conventions are completed. This Party can support our legal efforts by announcing publically its condemnation of this Grand Jury proceeding. A resolution to that effect, a copy of which is annexed hereto, will be introduced on the floor of this Convention; we call upon all delegates to support it. We ask that concerned delegates immediately send telegrams to Richard Kleindeinst, at the Justice Department in Washington, demanding that the Grand Jury proceeding be brought to a halt.

We cannot permit the men who fought and bled in this ugly war to be denied their rights to demonstrate to the American public their unyielding opposition to its continuance.

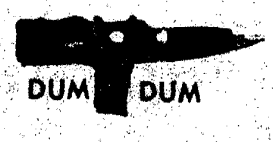
"You're Under Arrest"

7.



Since early 1965, the U.S. has employed in North Vietnam an improved version of the dum-dum bullet already prohibited by the 1899 Hague Convention. After penetrating the human body, this bullet explodes, lacerating tissues into tiny fragments. Thousands of such bullets were fired in air strikes against Hanoi, Haiphong, Nam Dinh, causing many civilian casualties.

From VVAW Pamphlet

PRG 7 POINT PEACE PROPOSAL

The PRG 7 point plan was first presented in Paris as long ago as July, 1971. The two central points are:

1. Regarding the military situation: The U.S. must set a date for the total withdrawal of all U.S. troops, military personnel, weapons and war materials and those of its allies.

2. Regarding the political situation in South Vietnam: the U.S. must end its intervention in the internal affairs of South Vietnam and stop backing the regime of Nguyen Van Thieu.

PEOPLE'S BLOCKADE of ARMS to INDOCHINA

In the early 1940's there were a few instances of Europeans lying down on railroad tracks to prevent Jews from being taken to concentration camps. We can only imagine what impact there would have been if thousands of people had taken such action instead of just a few dozen.

Actions like this are already taking place. At the Naval Ammunition Depot in Leonardo, N. J., people have begun a sustained campaign to blockade munition shipments leaving for Vietnam. On several occasions a flotilla of canoes, sailboats, and small motor boats attempted to blockade ships; and others were arrested while holding a worship service on the railroad tracks which carry the munitions to the pier. In Bangor, Washington, people have attempted similar sea blockades of munitions ships loaded with bombs for B-52s. And in Norfolk, Va., a few weeks ago, people attempted a sea blockade of the 5000-man aircraft carrier, USS America, which was to join 7 other carriers and the huge naval armada off the coast of Vietnam.

The war in Indochina has been "wound up" rather than "wound down" as claimed by the Administration. Compared with the so-called "height" of the war in '68-69, there are three times as many aircraft carriers raining death on the Indochinese, more daily air sorties over North Vietnam, more destroyers pounding Vietnam from the sea, three times as many B-52s . . . and Haiphong has been mined. In a word, there is more killing, more destruction.

This massive escalation of the war was ordered to obscure the failure of Nixon's Vietnamization policies. And by continuing its support for Thieu's military clique and by sabotaging the Paris Peace Talks, the U.S. shows its commitment to a military solution which will only prolong the misery of the Vietnamese people indefinitely.

Although the war has been escalated tremendously, the war has become an invisible war, a forgotten war. It is fought with highly sophisticated electronic equipment; it is fought from high in the sky with push buttons and IBM computers. The casualties are Indochinese, not American. Yet every day from ports, train and truck depots, and air bases across the country, the bombs and munitions are being transported to Indochina secretly and anonymously. This export of death to Indochina must be made VISIBLE and PUBLIC. People must be made aware of the crimes of war in which we Americans are deeply involved.

The next five months are a most critical time for the Vietnamese people. If Nixon or another candidate committed to a Thieu-type government in Saigon is elected in November, the people of Indochina face another four years of bombs and napalm. The war must be made visible to the American public.

The PEOPLES BLOCKADE is a nationwide effort to blockade bombs and munitions shipments bound for Indochina.

The PEOPLES BLOCKADE is nonviolent direct action against the war: placing our bodies between the bombs and the Indochinese people.

The PEOPLES BLOCKADE allows all of us who are torn and frustrated by our government's war crimes against some of the gentlest people on the face of the earth to prevent those crimes through a clear and direct act of conscience.

The PEOPLES BLOCKADE says NO to our government; it says NO to crimes against humanity; and it says that we will continue to say NO through nonviolent direct action until the war ends.

The Peoples Blockade office has materials, literature, posters, organizing manuals, etc., to help your group organize a land or sea Peoples Blockade. We have lists of possible targets - sea terminals, railroad tracks, and air bases. And we can help you make contact with experienced organizers and trainers. Write or call us if you are interested in developing a Peoples Blockade in your area: PEOPLES BLOCKADE, 160 N. 15th St., Philadelphia, Pa. 19102, 215-563-9372. PELLET BOMB

Among the high velocity fragmentation weapons, the steel pellet bomb emerges to the front ranks. It first appeared as a cylinder-shaped steel pellet bomb, dropped from an airplane, weighing 800 grams and containing 250 metal pellets which were propelled out from a 19 tube container that holds 368 bomblets. The cylinder-shaped bomb hits anyone who remains in the open, within a 15 meter range. A single bomblet can kill or wound many persons at a time.

A LETTER FROM FATHER Berrigan

Dear farm workers, friends,Jesus freaks; dear senior citizens, sisters, summer visitors; students; politicoes, priests, party leaders; dear welfare people, working people, wealthy people, dear Vietnamese, dear veterans; also rabbis, resisters, and all others, near and far –

This letter is sent to you all, a message to Americans. It is a letter about an unamerican day in our history. The unamerican, unfeeling, unthinking moment when Richard Nixon, taking off from his unamerican activities, is about to be nominated once more - our Man in the Blight House.

Nixon? Again?

Let's see. In '72, if elected Nixon will become our Leader for the 200th anniversary of the American Revolution. George Washington to Richard Nixon, Jefferson to Mitchell, Hamilton to Agnew. Also Valley Forge to MyLai. Brothers and Sisters, we've come a long way.

Some of us would like to show how far we've come. We want to show Nixon and Agnew and Kliendeinst what a bloody road they've led us down – the bloody road from Hanoi to Saigon to Attica.

That's why we're renaming Florida's Highway One (the road that leads to the Convention Hall in Miami.) We're taking our cue from Vietnam where the French Soldiers renamed Highway One; they called it "The Street Without Joy."

For one day, August 22, the day of Nixon's nomination at the Republican convention, we're going to take all the joy out of traveling down Highway One in Florida. We're going to make it a Street Without Joy; for Nixon, for Agnew, for all their camp followers and oil munionaires and fellow racists and Delegates to the Death Game; for all their manufacturers of murder, for all their anti-personnel pimps.

We're going to take the joy out of Nixon's death game. We're going to line Highway One with admissable evidence against war criminals. We're going to turn the Florida noon into moonlight and make them drive through their own grave yard. We're going to open a drawer in the National Morgue, pull back the sheet, and push their faces into their own four-square product: death by air, death by water, death by land, death by fire.

Here's the plan. We will crowd the Street Without Joy with artifacts, services, products, consumer items, foriegn aid– everything they've dumped on innocent southeast Asians during all the years of Our Longest and Most Honorable and Patriotic Foriegn Incursion.

We will show them for their crimes.

We will hold up to THEIR EYES Burning children, Death Masks, Limbs, Weeping Faces, Photos, Puppets.

We will remind them of Bombed villages, Ravaged Landscapes.

These things will be done by Vietnamese People along that highway; yes, and our own Working People and Veterans Against the War, and Students and Nuns, Priests, Rabbis, Ministers, Gurus of every kind and Welfare People, who fare not well. And so on and so on.

To make the Street Without Joy a GAUNTLET OF SHAME down which, as through the passage of hell, these absurd hirelings, parasites, war criminals, camp followers, these slaves, hacks and drones, these uneasy unthinking wielders of rotten power,- may see up close the price for which they have sold the flesh of the innocent, have sold their own souls.

Who knows - we may save them yet!

Or at least we may keep them from wasting another billion bucks on wasting another million Vietnamese.

A 10 mile stretch of pure anger, soul, compassion, chutzpah, fury, truth. A final judgement on their works and pomps. You name it; or better still, help us make the name come true.

Think, me for a moment. What are the Death D egates really doing when they line up on August 22 to nominate Richard Nixon?

They're huddling like sheep to say yes to Mister No. (No to peace, No to Busing, No to the Poor, No to civil rights.)

They're OK'ing the Great Rubber Stamp. (One thing he makes perfectly clear; the millionaires are in control, the military is in control, Kissinger is in control. And to hell with the Vietnamese, the Pakistanis, the poor, the blacks, the students, the resisters, the prisoners, in Hanoi and in Attica and in San Quentin and all the brigs between. Also, to hell with you and me.)

They're nominating racism, violence, fear, war, war profiteering, corrupt courts, vicious grand juries, no-knock assaults on the poor, police armies.

They're nominating the sublime Statesman and Visionary who gave you Agnew, Mitchell, Kissinger, Rizzo and the trials of Angela, Harrisburg and Ellsberg.

They're nominating the Quaker Oaf who gave you the mining of Haiphong, the bombing of Hanoi, the attacks of the dikes.

Bully for them! Bully for the bullies!

Dear friends, some of us have had it. Some of us have had it for years. In'68, inspired by another Bomber In a High Place, my friends, my brother, and I destroyed hunting licenses in Catonsville, Maryland. We went on trial, we went underground, we went to prison. It's '72; some of us are at large again.

To face – what?

More and more and more and more of the same. Another Respectable Bomber is showing his capacity to occupy the High Place. By bombing more fervernlly than ever we bombed before.

And the Demented Delegates want him back. They've set the day and hour of the nomination – a cynical charade of everything decent, everything real bout or elective process.

They're coming to Miami in August. They're coming to pull it all down; to destroy what G. Washington built, to betray what Lincoln gave his life for, to deride what Americans love and cherish and honor; our country, our people, our hope, our good name among other nations.

They've come to Miami to finish the next volume of the Pentagon Papers; authors – Nixon, Agnew, Mitchell, and that admirable cutlass crew of the Departments of Peace and Plenty, Laird and Rogers. Also the infectious Chiefs of Staff, General Motors, General Foods, General Electric. . . And of course, and at length, and above and before all – Kissinger.

One could go on and on. But the situation can be summed up neatly. If the convention proceeds unchallenged, if no one says NO, if Nixon makes it again, millions more Vietnamese will die, and thousands more Americans, and uncounted other people who get in the way of our leader s pique and pride.

If he makes it, many of us will also be back in prison.

In '68, nine of us were condemned in the courts for burning in public those sacred government properties, the draft files. We were protesting, you may remember, the burning of children.

But whose fingers, whose hands, whose shoulders, whose bodies, will stop the bombing of the dikes? We need a very flood, an outpouring of people, a new outcry, as the Mad Hatters assemble to approve ever new crimes; the destruction of dikes, the seeding of rain clouds – and what more, and what worse, in 4 more years?

Come to Miami, say NO with us, loud and clear.

– Daniel Berrigan

MIAMI WOMEN'S COALITION

The Miami Women's Coalition is a grouping of about 39 women who came together around the conventions in Miami this summer. We are gay and straight, old and young. Some of us have lived in Miami for many years, others have come down from many different places in the US to work on the Republican Convention.

The oppression of women in America – our experience here in Miami with the booming "rent-a-bird" business for the conventions, the selling of the bodies of women in Saigon, the racist suffocation of black women in America – has convinced us that Richard Nixon cannot claim the presidency of the United States for another four years.

We feel it is absolutely important that women have a strong independent presence at the Republican Convention. From August 20th to August 21st, Women Will Create a New Day, of power celebration and protest. We are planning a welcoming party for women on Sunday night, August 20th; a women's beach party, and a women's action for the following day. We feel that it is important that women's activities lead off the convention demonstrations.

During the Democratic Convention we put out a state call asking Florida women to join us in the activities palnned by the National Welfare Rights Organization and we organized a Miami Women's Coalition Brigade at the the NWRO march.

At Flamingo Park in July, we set up a women's tent in an area of the campsite which we share. Childcare facilities are available, as is limited off-campsite housing. We are planning ot provide expanded facilities for the Republican Convention.

Many of the women in MWC want to make sure that the group continues after the conventions have left Miami. We have had local meetings with about 50 women where we talked about welfare, the war, and specific issues of women's oppression here. We have also had a very effective prison action. The women in the county jail were being moved to a "new" facility, in reality much worse than the old jail. A group of us went down to show our solidarity with the women, to protest their confinement, and demand an explanation of their condition.

Our address in Miami Beach is 1718 Alton Road, and our phone number is 305/672-0055. Sisters, please send us your ideas, comments, photographs, poems, money, support, strength, creativity, and love. A fresh wind is blowing against the empire.

WHAT IS THE YSA?

During May 1970 millions of college and high school students mobilized in the largest student strike in history, taking over their schools and transforming them into antiwar centers for reaching out to the rest of the population. This upsurge created in those who participated a new awareness—an awareness of their own power and at the same time an understanding of the need to join with other sections of the American people in united action to force the warmakers to respond to the demand of the majority: Bring the GIs Home Now!

May was a living example of the political strategy developed and advanced by the Young Socialist Alliance on campuses and in high schools across the country, not only in the antiwar struggle but in the struggle for self-determination by Blacks, Chicanos and other national minorities, and in the struggle of women for their liberation from the degraded and inferior status to which they have been assigned by the male-dominated institutions of this society.

WHO WE ARE

The Young Socialist Alliance is a multi-national revolutionary socialist youth organization dedicated to the construction of a socialist America and a socialist world. We see socialism as the only alternative to a system which inevitably produces poverty, exploitation, wars of aggression, the poisoning of our environment, the oppression of national minorities, the subjugation of women, and the distortion of all human relationships.

The YSA's basic program of opposition to this capitalist system can be defined by a few fundamental points.

The YSA supports the Cuban, Vietnamese and Arab revolutions, the main inspirations for the world socialist revolution. Cuba has shown that revolutions in the colonial world are able to achieve national liberation only to the extent that they lead uninterruptedly into socialist revolutions. The Vietnamese revolution is showing the whole world that the people of a small colonial nation, fighting for national liberation, can resist the military might of U.S. imperialism. The Palestinian people are today in the vanguard of the Arab revolution in their struggle against imperialism and Zionism for national self-determination.

The YSA supports the struggle for full socialist democracy in Eastern Europe, the Soviet Union, and China. These workers states have abolished capitalism and must be supported against world imperialism, but they are dominated by privileged bureaucratic regimes which need to be overthrown before socialism can become a reality. Socialism means not only the abolition of capitalism, but the full flowering of workers democracy, the elimination of privileges for a few, and a society of abundance for all. We condemn the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia, which trampled on that country's right to self-determination and put a temporary halt to the development of political democratization there.

The YSA holds the perspective of a working-class revolution for socialism in the United States and the other advanced capitalist countries. The mass upsurge of the French workers in May-June 1968 demonstrates that this goal is realistic, and strikes such as the postal workers strike and the UAW strike of 1970 show the kind of power the U.S. workers will wield when they become politically aroused. Working people — women, Blacks, Chicanos, Puerto Ricans, whites—will lead the American socialist revolution.

WHERE WE STAND

The YSA's perspective is above all international and based upon the interests of the world socialist revolution. We work in solidarity with revolutionary socialist organizations all over the world.

In the United States, the YSA's program has four central aspects:

THE ANTIWAR MOVEMENT

The YSA supports the mass antiwar movement and works actively to build demonstrations for the immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam and all Southeast Asia. We work in antiwar coalitions, such as the National Peace Action Coalition, and in the Student Mobilization Committee, on a principled revolutionary basis, uniting with others on the basis of agreement to organize mass action against the war.

SELF-DETERMINATION STRUGGLES

The YSA supports the struggles for self-determination by the Afro-American, Chicano, Puerto Rican and Native American peoples. These national minorities represent the most exploited section of the U.S. population, suffering a dual class and national oppression. Fighting that oppression, they will be in the vanguard of the American socialist revolution. Third World YSAers actively participate in all phases of the liberation movements of the oppressed national minorities in this country. We believe that the formation of independent political parties, like the Chicano La Raza Unida Party in Texas and Colorado, is key in the development of the national self-determination struggles. Such parties can fight independently of, and in opposition to, the Democratic and Republican parties of the ruling class. The formation of a mass independent Black party, similar to the Chicano La Raza Unida Party, will mark a major advance in the Black struggle.

SOCIALIST ELECTION CAMPAIGNS

The YSA supports the election campaigns of the Socialist Workers Party, such as the 1970 Congressional and state election campaigns in New York, Illinois, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Georgia, Minnesota, Michigan, Colorado, Ohio, Texas, Wisconsin, Florida, Washington and California. We see these campaigns as a means of explaining socialist ideas to millions of people who still have deep illusions about the capitalist elections. Independent mass movements have been repeatedly derailed through support to the Democratic, Republican and other capitalist parties. For this reason, Marxists have a principle of never supporting any capitalist party. The YSA calls for the formation of an independent labor party, based on the trade unions, which can break with the ruling class in the arena of elections and pose political issues on a class basis.

WOMEN'S LIBERATION

The YSA actively supports the women's liberation movement. The oldest form of oppression in class society is the oppression of women. The rise of the women's liberation movement today fundamentally challenges all of the institutions of capitalist society, including one of its most basic cornerstones, the traditional nuclear family. The YSA played a major role in building the massive women's demonstrations on August 26, 1970, including the march and rally of 40,000 in New York City. YSA women work to construct broad coalitions of women for united action around such issues as the demand for legal, free abortions, for free 24-hour-a-day child-care centers, and for equal education and employment opportunities for women. The YSA participates actively in all phases of this vital movement.

YSA STRATEGY IN THE SCHOOLS

The YSA is active mainly on college campuses and in the high schools, where the opportunities to participate in and lead mass actions are now the greatest, and where the most people can be won over to revolutionary ideas and to the YSA.

In the schools, we apply a strategy of mobilizing students and working from the campus as a means involving other sections of the population in mass struggles—the way the schools were made into antiwar centers during May 1970.

If you agree with us, then you should join the YSA.

WHAT IS THE NLF?

The NLF is the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam, derogatorily referred to by American and other newsmedia as the 'Viet Cong'. Not only has our press misnamed the NLF, they have also seriously mis-informed America about its nature and programme.

In order to understand the NLF it is necessary to know some recent Vietnamese history. After many years of fighting against colonial rule, the Vietnamese people thought they had won their independence by defeating the French army at Dienbienphu in 1954. At this time, the Victorious Viet Minh forces, led by Ho Chi Minh, concluded the Geneva Accords with the French.

The Geneva Accords provided that Vietnam be temporarily divided into two zones for the regrouping of the two armies. The Viet Minh was to regroup in the North and the French forces in the South. The Accords guarenteed national elections in July, 1956, after which the French would complete their withdrawl from Vietnam. The elected government would then govern all of Vietnam, and Vietnam would remain free of foreign armies, arms and military bases. To clarify the temporary nature of the division of the country, the Geneva Agreements stated that 'the military demarcation line is provisional and should not in any way be interpreted as constituting a political or territorial bounary'.

The French withdrew before ensuring the implementation of the Accords and the U.S. moved directly into Vietnam. The U.S. installed the Diem regime in the South. Diem refused to hold the elections guarenteed by the Geneva Agreements, because, as the President Eisenhower admitted, 'possibly 80% of the population would have voted for the Communist Ho Chi Minh as their leader'.

The Diem regime ruthlessly executed its political opponents. As resistance to Diem grew, the number of executions grew until hundreds of thousands had been murdered. By 1960, by the people of South Vietnam against the US-controlled Diem government had developed to the point where a national organization was needed to lead the struggle. On December 20th, the N.L.F. was formed.

The National Liberation Front of South Vietnam is composed of some twenty-five organizations, including almost all South Vietnames political parties and trade union federations, and most ethnic and religious organizations, student and women's groups.

Since 1960, Diem has been assassinated and the American Government has replaced him with a succession of similar regimes, including the present Thieu regiem. The U.S. has escalated the war against the Vietnamese people, spent nearly one hundred million dollars a day supporting an army of over one million U.S. and puppet troops, and how tries to defeat the Vietnamese through "Vietnamization". About 300 Hiroshima bomb equivalents has been unleashed on the Indochinese land and peoples in the Nixon Administration.

And yet, the NLF and its army, the Liberation Armed forces, steadily increase in both political and military strength. The liberated areas of South Vietnam (areas governed by the PRG-RSVN) now comprise 80% of the land and people of South Vietnam.

The NLF is fighting for an independent and democratic government for South Vietnam. It will organise truly free elections, based on universal suffrage and the secret ballot, to choose a popular and progressive National Assembly in a democratic manner.

The NLF guarentees the civil and human rights of the South Vietnamese people --freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of association, freedom to organize trade unions and political parties, freedom of belief, freedom of movement, freedom to work and to rest and the right to study.

The NLF will create an economy free of foreign domination in order to raise the people's standard of living. It will restore and develop industry, transportation and communications. Public health and education will be greatly improved. The NLF will nationalize all American holdings in Vietnam and also those of the Vietnamese traitors. It will complete the implementation of its policy of 'land to the tiller'.

The NLF guarentees equality of the sexes, and equal treatment of and mutual aid between the different ethnic and religious communities in South Vietnam. It will re-establish normal relations between the two zones of Vietnam and work towards a gradual and peaceful unification of the country.

An NLF-PRG government will adopt a foreign policy of peace and neutrality, will obtain from any military alliance and will allow no foreign troops or military bases on its soil as is stated in point 5 of the 7 POINT STATEMENT by the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Viet Nam made public by Minister Madame Nyugen Thi Binh at the Paris Conference on Viet Nam-July 1st, 1971.

Most of the NLF programme is already being implemented in the liberated 80% of South Vietnam. The NLF-PRG is the only effective government in South Vietnam: it has brought roads, schools, sanitation, hospitals to the liberated areas. Of course, the NLF programme cannot be fully implemented now or as long as the U.S. remains in Vietnam.

"Over the past few years," the NLF has pointed out," the U.S. imperialists have cortinuously escalated the war, yet they have unceasingly clamored about 'peace negociations' in an attempt to fool the American people and the other peoples of the world. "As Nguyen Huu Tho, the ex-Saigon lawyer who is now chairman of the NLF, explained, "We ardently love peace, but definitely not 'peace' in slavery. As long as the U.S. imperialists trample on our country, there can be no peace."

The U.S. Committee to Aid the NLF-SVN was formed in April 1965 to help make the U.S. public aware of the essentially just and moral aims of the Vietnamese in their resistance to U.S. Government efforts to 'pacify' their country. We seek a peace that will allow the Vietnamese to determine their own affairs.

SHRIKE MISSILE

Teleguided strike missiles designed for military installation destruction, which when exploded eject 12 thousand four millimeter dimension cubic splinters, are used to attack civilians in towns, cities, population centers such as Hanoi, Haiphong and other inhabited localities.

Teleguided bombs are called "smart" bombs by the military. Two main types of "smart" bombs are guided by a lasar guidance system and a television-type guidance system. These bombs are accurate within 6 feet of the target when released at an altitude of 4 miles.

Most of the Japanese investigators when interviewing the Vietnamese napalmed, cannot help mentioning ancient burned victims of Hiroshima and Nagasaki as a parallel. Taking advantage of scientific and technical achievements, the United States has devised and improved such destructive weapons prohibited by international law to use them on a large scale and with an evident genocidal intention in North Vietnam, still more widely in South Vietnam, and also in Cambodia and Laos. Making Vietnam their testing field for deadly bombs with the Vietnamese people as guinea pigs, the United States imperialists have brought their cruelty and savageness to culmination in this unjust and immoral war.

McCarthy'72

PREPARED & CIRCULATED BY CAMPAIGN PROJECTS, 1972, 301 FIRST N.E. WASHINGTON JOHN P. FLYNN, TREASURER

On Corporate Power

"The corporation is privileged by its place in society. Though defined as private, the corporation is, by virtue of everything it does, very much public; much more must be demanded of it than the simple production of goods.

"The Constitution never anticipated concentrations of economic power such as we have in the major corporations. We therefore need a new body of law and standards with which to deal with these corporations. We can no longer accept that the basic institution of our economic system can operate only for the purpose of profit and for the particular interests of those who own or manage them.

"A profitable economic system must be obliged to provide jobs for those who can work. Surely, the corporations should not be able to shirk this responsibility on short-term calculations of profit or to cast off their surplus workforce at will.

"Public policy can redirect investment into those areas where it is needed, such as housing; excise taxes can discourage wasteful and unnecessary consumption. The economy is not a value-free instrument of production. It must be organized for social ends and public goods."

On Medical Care and Social Welfare

"Sickness was not invented for the doctors. Rather, doctors and the entire medical profession must be made to confront practically the reality of inadequate health care for many in the population. We need a federally subsidized program of insurance that guarantees every citizen both preventive and curative health care. But such a program is not realistic unless it moves on to deal with the structure and demography of the medical profession. And it is equally unrealistic unless insurance extends to care for the mentally ill.

"We must equalize unemployment compensation programs from state to state. And we must also make pensions the possession of the employee as his inalienable right, and not allow the pension to function as a contract of indentured service."

The Rights of the Poor

"The testimony of welfare mothers before the special hearings I held in the Senate was the most moving and honest testimony I had heard in twenty-five years of public life. When you hear these people talk about the indignities they suffer and the hopes they dare not have, you know that we must move decisively to a guaranteed adequate income for all our citizens. Without that, we will continue to have a colonial people exploited and abandoned within our midsts."

On Urban Policy and Race

"The truth is that significant change in and around the urban centers depends on increased federal funds through direct allocation and some form of revenue sharing. But the suburbs and cities together must share the social burdens of our metropolitan areas, and some of the financial burdens as well. This implies major revisions of the established tax structure, equalization of school expenditures, and systematic efforts to locate housing near jobs and jobs near housing. Certainly, the corporations should not be altogether free to move their plants and offices to exclusionary suburbs and leave moderate income and minority work forces behind. Around our cities, in the suburbs and exurbs, in new towns, we have the opportunity to create quality communities that are integrated across both racial and income lines. This requires not only new directions for public expenditures but also a mobilization of the public will away from inequalities that have gradually been making of America what Disraeli called England in the nineteenth century: 'two nations'."

On Freedom and the Judiciary

Like many other senators, Eugene McCarthy voted against the confirmation of Carswell and Haynesworth to the Supreme Court. But with just two others at his side, he also voted against Nixon's first appointment to the court, that of Warren Burger as Chief Justice, and said, "On Burger's record, this appointment threatens to create a judiciary disdainful of due process and of other constitutional protections of individual liberty."

In an address to the American Civil Liberties Union, McCarthy said, "the basic right to privacy has been eroded over a generation, and not only by Republican administrations. As a result it will be more difficult, but it is therefore also more urgent that we now redefine and reassert this right so that it protects Americans from the invasion of wiretaps, 'bugs' and other listening devices, from new methods of surveillance and coercion."

McCarthy told the Harvard Law School Forum that, "In releasing the Pentagon Papers, Daniel Ellsberg was asserting not so much his right to speak but the right of the people to know. This is a right which the executive branch has tended to ignore or disdain in recent years, but it is essential to democratic government."

On Disarming the National Guard

In 1970, Senator McCarthy offered an amendment to a military procurement bill which would have prohibited the use of live ammunition against American civilians unless so ordered by the President of the United States. Only Senator Kennedy supported McCarthy in his effort to limit the power of governors to deploy armed troops in civil disturbances. This measure would diminish the possibilities that such killings as those at Detroit, Jackson State, and Kent State could be duplicated elsewhere.

Senator McCarthy stated, "In too many instances, the indiscriminate and careless use of firepower by the National Guard has resulted in national tragedy. Since 1964, governors have called out National Guard units to contend with over 100 civil disorders. . . . But the National Guard is not provided with half a billion dollars in Federal funds and 400,000 draftable young men for controlling, threatening, and shooting our own citizens. . . . The question is whether we want the Guard to be used rather freely as it has been under the various governors or whether we want more strict regulation and the requirement that the Governor of the State have the approval of the President before he acts — with the hope that this will provide some incentive for training the Guard properly and impose some restraints on both President and governors not to send the Guard into situations in which they have no business."

On Political Leadership

"In the nearly 200 years since the American Revolution, we have moved from George Washington to Richard Nixon, from John Adams to Spiro Agnew, from Thomas Jefferson to William Rogers, from the remarkable Edmund Randolph of Virginia to John Mitchell, from Alexander Hamilton to John Connally, from John Jay and John Marshall to Warren Burger and William Rehnquist. This is not exactly progress.

"It may be that we cannot easily match the quality of leadership of the early years of the Republic. But we can have a President who has traits more significant and more relevant than his ambition. In fact, it should not at all be a question of who wants the Presidency the most, or who says it first and with what intensity. We can have a President who accepts readily the limits of power as well as its possibilities. We can have, if only we will it, a President who has spoken to the best purposes and most serious concerns of the nation in difficult and critical times. If you take into account these difficult standards and apply them to all of the candidates, you might find me the most qualified."

On Vietnamization

"When the Nixon administration announced its policy of Vietnamization, I warned that it was a bare disguise for continuing a cruel war with other means: Asians would still be dying, crops destroyed, vilages decimated, refugees 'generated.' This, of course, has proven to be so. I also stated that limited troop withdrawals contained the seeds of a wider war, and I pointed out that when the level of our troop presence became insufficient to avoid defeat we would escalate once again and use more bombs to save a bankrupt policy. And this, too, has now happened. We need a President who, we can be certain, will as his first act bring this war to an end. Not at a date certain in the future, but as soon as he is inaugurated. Not to have it contingent upon free elections. Not to have it continued with American air power or American military support. Not to accept in our time what the French called 'the yellowing of the bodies'."

> "Many joined him later, but he had the courage to be first."
> Senator Ralph Yarborough

On the Automobile Culture

"We ought now sharply to reduce expenditures on Federal highways, which, along with the manned space shots, is one of the most wasteful programs in the entire budget. We have super-highways going from one congested city to another, from one polluted stream to another, from one ill-equipped hospital to another, from one inadequate school to another.

"In developing public transportation that does not inordinately disrupt established neighborhoods, we can also control by regulation the expansion of the automobile culture. Certainly it is not sensible to stimulate the economy by inducing automobile consumption, which adds to our problems. But, in a positive way, we can regulate the production of automobiles, which are larger than they need to be, use more fuel than they require, pollute the atmosphere more than they have to, and are not as safe as they can be."

WHAT YOU DON'T KNOW WILL HURT YOU!

Have you been LULLED into BELIEVING THE WAR IS NO LONGER AN ISSUE? Mr. Nixon, who was elected because it was believed he would end the war, recently promised to withdraw 45,000 men from Vietnam. He wants you to think the war is "winding down; but if it is, then why are there still 180,000 men in Indochina and THOUSANDS MORE being drafted every month? AND WHY, if the war is "winding down" has the DRAFT been extended for TWO MORE YEARS?

"BY THE END of this year, the NIXON administration will have deployed in THREE years as much bomb tonnage as did the JOHNSON administration in FIVE"...Miami Herald, Nov. 14,1971

DO YOU THINK YOU ARE BEING TOLD THE TRUTH? Recent studies by Cornell University researchers show that much military activity is not acknowledged UNTIL MORE THAN A YEAR AFTER IT HAS BEEN CARRIED OUT!

THE SAME STUDIES show that "MORE than enough planes remain (in Indochina) to permit a continuation of the air war on a MASSIVE SCALE....'

And, "DESPITE ADMINISTRATION DENIALS, a major U.S. air effort has been carried out in Northern Laos..(causing) widespread devastation of Laotian society"..... Miami Herald

THERE IS A SECRET WAR GOING ON — AND YOU'RE PAYING FOR IT!

WHAT THEY DON'T WANT YOU TO KNOW is HURTING YOU

The high cost of killing 300 people in Indochina every day adds to your high cost of living.

The government spends $538,000 to train a pilot, but only $728 to educate a child.

Tell your CONGRESSMEN that MR. NIXON ISN'T FOOLING YOU! TELL your CONGRESSMEN THAT YOU EXPECT them to end the war NOW! And TELL them that you want your tax dollars spent for better living, NOT for KILLING. And TELL YOUR CONGRESSMEN that if they don't listen to you now, you won't listen to them when they want your vote.

A foreign film-maker has called U.S. napalm bombs, those weapons prohibited long since by international law, "portable crematoria." Incendiary weapons have been widely utilized. Napalm has been perfected and has become super-napalm, pyrogel napalm and B Napalm, thermite, magnesium, white phosphorus, and mixtures of napalm and phosphorous or of napalm and other incendiary materials.

These weapons have common characteristics: when they burn, they produce extremely high temperatures. Napalm: 900 degrees to 1,300 degrees C.; pyrogel napalm and super napalm: 1,500 degrees to 2,000 degrees C.; magnesium: 3,500 degrees C.; mixtures of phosphorus and aluminum powder: 3,000 degrees to 3,500 degrees C. These materials are very sticky and adhere to the human body, turning the victims into living torches. In addition to causing very serious burns, they also kill by giving off carbon dioxide.

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S COMMISSION ON MARIJUANA AND DRUG ABUSE REPORT, 1972

MYTH. Marijuana use leads to heroin.

FACT. "Marijuana use per se does not dictate whether other drugs will be used nor does it determine the rate of progression, if and when it occurs, or which drug might be used."

"Whether or not marijuana leads to other drugs depends on the individual, on the social and cultural setting in which the drug use takes place, and on the nature of the drug market. The fact should be emphasized that the overwhelming majority of users do not progress to other drugs."

MYTH. Marijuana use causes crime and aggressive behavior.

FACT. "In sum, the weight of evidence is that marijuana does not cause violent or aggressive behavior; if anything, marijuana generally serves to inhibit the expression of such behavior."

MYTH. Marijuana is addictive.

FACT. "In a word, cannabis (marijuana) does not lead to physical dependence."

MYTH. Marijuana users are societal 'drop outs.'

FACT. "The most notable statement that can be made about the vast majority of marijuana users — experimenters and intermittent users — is that they are essentially indistinguishable from their non-marijuana using peers by any fundamental criterion other than their marijuana use."

"Young people who choose to experiment with marijuana are fundamentally the same people, socially and psychologically, as those who use alcohol and tobacco."

Although the Presidential Commission on "Marijuana and Drug Abuse" clearly indicates there is no justification for criminalizing marijuana use, that report in and of itself, will not guarantee the necessary legal reforms. People are still continually harassed, arrested, convicted and jailed for smoking marijuana. The National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws is carrying out a public information/lobbying effort at the community, state and national levels. We ask your support as a member, as a contributor, and/or as an organizer in our campaign to legislate new and responsible marijuana laws. We cannot permit a whole generation to be made outlaws because of anachronistic and unjust marijuana laws.

NATIONAL ORGANIZATION FOR THE REFORM OF MARIJUANA LAWS

STATEMENT IN SUPPORT OF THE NEED TO REFORM THE MARIJUANA LAWS

NORML is a non-profit organization dedicated to achieving legislative reform of the current marijuana laws, on both the state and federal levels. We do not advocate the use of marijuana. But we know of no medical, legal or moral justification for sending those to jail who do use it. We believe the present marijuana laws cause more harm to society than the substance they seek to prohibit. As best stated by John Kaplan, Professor of Law, Stanford Law School, (author of Marijuana, The New Prohibition), the costs to society of the present system of prohibition are far greater than any benefits which might result from suppressing the use of marijuana.

The current laws are severe, often imposing long prison terms for simple possession of marijuana. For sale and distribution, some states permit such penalties as life imprisonment and even death. These laws have resulted from several decades of emotionalism and misinformation. Beginning in the 1930's, marijuana was erroneously dubbed "the killer weed" and was blamed for all sorts of violent crimes and deviant behavior. Out of this emotionally charged atmosphere grew the ill-conceived Federal Marijuana Tax Act and a welter of equally harsh state laws.

By attempting to enforce the marijuana laws, significant segments of our law enforcement personnel and resources are diverted from areas where their need is greatest: violent crimes and the trafficking in drugs known to be harmful, such as heroin, cocaine and LSD. For example, in California there were 69,000 persons arrested for marijuana offenses in 1970 and 71,000 in 1971. Approximately one quarter of all that state's felony complaints were for violations of the marijuana laws. The addition of this number of cases to an already overburdened criminal court system complicates greatly the judicial processes and contributes significantly to court backlog. And the growing financial drain on the state to enforce these laws, estimated by Kaplan at $72,000,000 for California in 1968, means that other, more constructive programs remain short of needed funding.

The estimated 24 million Americans who have broken the law by smoking marijuana generally consider it the functional equivalent of drinking alcohol. They resent the fact that 80,000,000 fellow citizens freely partake of alcohol — their recreational drug — but deny them the right to do something they believe to be less harmful — smoke marijuana.

There are very convincing reasons why alcohol is considered by many to present a far more serious health hazard than marijuana. The President's Commission on Law Enforcement of Justice, Task Force Report: Drunkenness, 1967, estimated there are 6,000,000 alcoholics in the U.S. They also found that 30,000 deaths and over 1,000,000 severe injuries occur on the highway each year associated with alcohol; 20% of the people in state mental hospitals are there because of alcoholic consumption; and one-third of all arrests are for drunkenness. Yet the society as a whole apparently feels this is a level of menace to the public health and welfare which can be accepted. Following the infamous "great experiment", alcohol prohibition was ended. The drinkers and the non-drinkers alike concluded that the unparalleled growth of organized crime, violence, wholesale bribery and corruption within the government, and the general loss of respect for the law were worse than the evils associated with alcohol.

It would be difficult to overstate the parallels between the current prohibition and the prohibition of alcohol under the Volstead Act. In both instances, large segments of the population openly violated the law. And those who break these laws do so with the belief that it is the laws which are wrong — not their conduct. The over-all effects of continuing to enforce such unpopular laws tend to weaken respect for the law in all areas.

The Tenth Staff Report of the National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, a Presidential study group, came to this conclusion:

Until and unless evidence is forthcoming of harmful or addictive effects of marijuana—and to date the evidence is all to the contrary—no rational basis exists upon which to resist arguments in favor of modifying the Draconian statutes penalizing possession of marijuana. As long as tobacco and alcohol are lawfully sold "poisons", there is scant justification for absolutely prohibiting the sale and use of marijuana. Moreover, the effect of this heavy-handed prohibition in eroding respect for law among young people in today's world may be widely underestimated.

Young people who choose to experiment with marijuana are fundamentally the same people, socially and psychologically, as those who use alcohol and tobacco."

Is our society threatened by marijuana use?

"When the issue of marijuana use is placed in this context of society's larger concerns, marijuana does not emerge as a major issue or threat to the social order.

The fundamental principles and values upon which the society rests are far too enduring to go up in the smoke of a marijuana cigarette."

Based on these and other findings, the Commission made the following recommendations:

(A) Possession of marijuana for personal use should be legal; and

(B) Casual distribution or sale of small amounts of marijuana where no profit is involved should be legal.

RE: THOMAS KING FORCADE
SECURITY MATTERS - REVOLUTIONARY ACTIVITIES

Youth International Party

The Youth International Party (YIP), also known as Yippies, is a loosely knit anti-establishment revolutionary youth organization formed in New York City in January, 1968. Following a factional dispute in May, 1972, the YIP divided into two factions; the Yippies, headed by a YIP collective; and the Zippies, headed by THOMAS KING FORCADE, a member of the underground press syndicate.

As of June 28, 1972, Thomas Forcade was living at 3113 Mary Street, Coconut Grove, Miami, Florida, the residence and headquarters of the Zippie faction of the YIP. As of this date, [redacted] was considered a leader in the Zippie movement, lived at the same address and was considered the primary leader in the absence of Thomas Forcade.

RE: THOMAS KING FORCADE
SECURITY MATTERS - REVOLUTIONARY ACTIVITIES

As of June 29, 1972, Thomas Forcade was in effect "kicked out" of the Zippies because of his wanting to support Che Guevara. The reason behind this was because the Zippies were afraid that there could be a possible confrontation with the Cubans in Miami over the fact Forcade wanted to support Che. Due to the confusion over this matter, Patrick Small was actually leading the Zippies and they continue to live at 3113 Mary Street, Coconut Grove, Miami, Florida.

(MM T-1 on 6/29/72)

Thomas Forcade of the ZIP faction of the YIP is publishing an underground-type newspaper referred to as the "Beach Blanket Struggle," formerly known as the "Beach Blanket News." It appears this paper is being prepared for distribution throughout the United States. It reportedly is being printed by the Golden Rule Press of South Florida, 190 S.W. 5th Court, Pompano Beach, Florida.

His present occupation or place of employment are unknown.

[redacted] said that this order was paid for in cash by an unknown white male, approximately 23 years of age, wearing long blond hair and being 6'1" in height and weighing 170 pounds. [redacted] further described b6 this individual as being dirty looking. [redacted] said that he b7C had no mailing permit for the "Beach Blanket News," and that the aforementioned individual picked up the 4,000 papers after they were printed and took them away from his shop.

[redacted] said that he did not print any copies of the "Beach Blanket Struggle;" however, two weeks ago, he received a call from an unknown male asking whether he would print copies of the "Beach Blanket Struggle." [redacted] turned the offer down.

[redacted] said he knows [redacted] and an individual by the name of [redacted] who were formerly employed by [redacted] characterized Tom Forcade arrived in St. Petersburg, Florida, about 11:30 p.m., on June 26, 1972, by bus. There was a power hassle in Miami and Forcade was voted out of the Zippies. In St. Petersburg, he was staying at Mediagraphics, 125 108th Avenue, Treasure Island, Florida, which firm specializes in art work for advertising agencies. Forcade reportedly was to be in St. Petersburg for about three days.

(MM T-2 on 7/5/72)

On July 6, 1972, both Tom Forcade and [redacted] were at the Flamingo Park Camp Site, Miami Beach, Florida, at the Zippies' area and both individuals contemplated having a parade and "smoke-in" on Sunday, July 9, 1972. b6 b7C

(MM T-1 on 7/6/72)

As of July 7, 1972, Tom Forcade continued to live at 3113 Mary Street, Coconut Grove, Miami, Florida, which is the residence and headquarters of the ZIP faction of the YIP. The Zippies, as of that date, were "hard up" financially and low on funds. They were making posters to use in a parade and smoke-in on July 9, 1972. The main trouble has been getting sufficient "grass" for the smoke-in and the emphasis is to be that hard drugs like heroin should not be used, but that grass is perfectly alright. Within the previous day or two, possibly on July 5 or 6, 1972, Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman did stop at the Zippie Headquarters, 3113 Mary Street. Tom Forcade has been talking to both of these individuals and on occasion, visited both Rubin and Hoffman at the Albion Hotel in Miami Beach, Florida, where they were living.

(MM T-3 on 7/7/72)

> Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman, on June 18, 1970, were found guilty of Anti Riot Law violations that arose from activities during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, Illinois, in August, 1968. Pending an appeal, they were released on bond by the U. S. Court of Appeals, Chicago, Illinois.

Tom Forcade has, in effect, been "kicked out" of the Zippies.

(MM T-4 on 7/10/72)

b6

Tom Forcade and [redacted] are heading up a parade and a "smoke-in" to be held in Miami Beach, on July 9, 1972. The smoke-in is to be held at Flamingo Park, Miami Beach.

(MM T-1 on 7/4/72)

Thomas Forcade attended a meeting held on July 6, 1972, at the Crest Hotel, Miami Beach. This meeting was primarily sponsored by the Miami Conventions Coalition (MCC) and various representatives of the different groups attended. Tom Forcade attended as a representative of the Zippies. The meeting itself was to agree on ground rules for the use of the Flamingo Park Camp Site. In regard to the camp site, the representatives agreed on the following points:

1) No hard drugs would be allowed at the camp site.

2) The "smoke-in" would not be held at the camp site area.

3) No activities would be permitted which would in any way jeopardize the camp site permit.

4) A "People's Convention" would be set up consisting of one member of each organization for the purpose of dealing with camp site matters only.

5) A security program was established with representatives from each group.

During the meeting, it came up that [redacted] of the Zippies had been referred to as a police provocateur. Forcade began to yell and scream, indicating that he did not work with any group unless everyone publicly apologized for calling [redacted] a police provocateur. There was a hassle and the meeting broke up before all points had been considered. b6 b7C

(MM T-5 on 7/6/72)

MCC

The MCC was formed at a national meeting in Washington, D. C., on May 20, 1972, as a coalition of groups planning protest activities at the Democratic and Republican National Conventions.

The Zippies conducted a march and smoke-in on the afternoon of July 9, 1972, and there were about 400 participants. The Zippies had been smoking pot at the Flamingo Park Camp Site and continued to do so. They marched from Flamingo Park to the Convention Hall, Miami Beach, Florida, and back. There was no violence and no arrests in connection with this.

(MM T-3 on 7/10/72)

As of July 10, 1972, it appeared there was a change in the leadership of the Zippies and Tom Forcade and [redacted] had lost the real leadership. b6 b7C

(MM T-3 on 7/10/72)

On the afternoon of July 14, 1972, the Zippies went to a reported birthday party held for Jerry Rubin and Tom Forcade was among the group. Jerry Rubin did not show up. This took place at the Albion Hotel. Immediately after, the Zippies yelled through a bullhorn and stated they were tired of Rubin living in a penthouse while they were living in tents. The Zippies are continually in a turmoil, distrust each other and have a paranoid about this. They seem to be "loose", wanting to go their separate ways. The Zippies have their headquarters and continue to live at 3113 Mary Street, Coconut Grove, Miami, Florida, but the landlord is attempting to evict them. The Zippies have drawn up a scenario as follows:

8/20/72 — Dishonor America Day featuring a "urine-in" with American flags. Apple pies are to be tossed at a blown-up picture of Martha Raye, who represents "Mom."

From sunrise to moonrise, they will have what is called "the second coming of Jesus Christ" under the slogan of "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition." The idea is to tie in the complicity of the right wing of the church with the right wing of the government.

8/21/72 — Women's Day, using a Moon over Miami theme, featuring an anti-Pope march pointing out the fact the Pope is anti-woman by his position on abortion and birth control.

8/22/72 Honor Nixon Day, featuring the celebration of death. The idea is to have a sarcastic series of guerrilla theaters. The further idea is to indicate that to support Nixon is to support war, repression and racism.

8/23/72 Work with PCPJ and MCC on "Mass Civil Disobedience Day." Tom Forcade has made arrangements to talk secretly with [redacted] about this day.

8/24/72 The Zippies will call a YIP Congress in order to get rid of the current YIP leadership. b6 b7C

(MM T-3 on 7/17/72)

People's Coalition For Peace and Justice (PCPJ)

PCPJ is self-described as a broad coalition of local and national organizations committed to conducting massive demonstrations aimed at ending the war in Indochina, and poverty, racism and injustice at home. Its national office is located at 156 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York. b6 b7C

Tom Forcade and [redacted] are being replaced in the Zippie leadership because of the reason that the Zippies are dis-enchanted by their repeated outbursts to the media.

(MM T-6 on 7/6/72)

Thomas Forcade was active in the march and demonstration which occurred on July 11, 1972, at Miami Beach. The marchers went to the Convention area and threw a Wallace wheelchair over a fence. They went to a bridge over a creek outside the Hall and had a false Ted Kennedy attack by throwing a wooden steering wheel into the water and singing "Bridge Over Troubled Waters," and naming the moat "Mary Jo Causeway." There was quite a bit of obscene language used, some of which was on posters.

(MM T-7 on 7/13/72)

On July 14, 1972, Tom Forcade was being evicted by his landlord and this is the headquarters and residence of Forcade at 3113 Mary Street, Coconut Grove, Miami, Florida. This is the headquarters for the Zippies. The landlord claimed the property was being sold. Forcade went to the Albion Hotel where Jerry Rubin was staying and stated Rubin was living in luxury while they lived in squalor.

(MM T-1 on 7/14/72)

Tom Forcade has been out of Miami and the Zippies moved out of the headquarters at 3113 Mary Street, Coconut Grove, Miami, Florida. They currently live and have their headquarters at 3039 Mary Street. The Zippies have approximately 15 actual members, although as of August 9, 1972, there were about 17 persons living at 3039 Mary Street. Of the 17, 15 could be considered members and two considered "drifters," as this house is open to young people who like to drift in and out. As of August 9, 1972, Thomas Forcade was not in Miami and was believed to be in New York.

(MM T-1 on 8/9-10/72)

On the night of August 17, 1972, a meeting of the various groups was held at the Flamingo Park Camp Site relative to camp rules. Tom Forcade and [redacted] were present and represented the Zippies.

(MM T-1 on 8/18/72)

As of August 18, 1972, there were approximately 25 Zippies in Miami Beach, Florida, most of whom lived and worked out of the residence--headquarters, 3039 Mary Street, Coconut Grove, Miami, Florida. There continues to be a power struggle as far as Thomas Forcade is concerned.

(MM T-3 on 8/18/72)

RE: THOMAS KING FORCADE
SECURITY MATTERS - REVOLUTIONARY ACTIVITIES

As of August 21, 1972, the Zippies appeared to be going along with Tom Forcade as the ZIP leader.

(MM T-1 on 8/21/72)

Thomas Forcade was "busted" by the police during activity at Miami Beach, Florida, on August 23, 1972. He had participated in numerous demonstrations during both Conventions. He is believed to be out on bond, and since released, he indicated he intended to go underground somewhere in the Washington area. He has used the names of Garry Goodson and George McTesky, although it is not known at this time whether or not he would again use these names.

(MM T-1 on 8/29/72)

[redacted] Miami Beach, Florida, Police Department, advised that on August 23, 1972, Tom Forcade was arrested in a Zippie truck, at which time he had gasoline and other items suitable for assembling fire bombs in the truck. b6 b7C

Records of the Miami Beach Police Department, as checked on September 6, 1972, reflect no actual arrests; however, there was a field interrogation card, dated June 14, 1972, which had the following:

Thomas King Forcade, white male, date of birth September 11, 1945--writer--underground press--staying at Albion Hotel, Miami Beach, Florida.

There were also three "stop" cards as follows:

May 22, 1972, Thomas King Forcade--a representative of YIP, staying at Albion Hotel.

June 5, 1972, Thomas King Forcade--author of revolutionary press, with a party as an organizer.

June 14, 1972, Thomas King Forcade--lived at Albion Hotel.

RE: THOMAS KING FORCADE
SECURITY MATTERS - REVOLUTIONARY ACTIVITIES

Records of the following agencies, as checked on September 6, 1972, were negative as to Thomas King Forcade:

Miami, Florida, Police Department

Dade County Public Safety Department

Miami Municipal Court

Credit Bureau of Greater Miami

Lieutenant [redacted] Dade County Public Safety Department, advised that due to the great number of arrests during the demonstrations and trouble at Miami Beach during the Conventions, the records were scattered. He advised that if there were no records in the central filing system, it was probably because there had been insufficient time to make the appropriate index cards. He advised it would probably be three or four weeks before records were straightened out. b6 b7C

[redacted] Tactical Investigative Section, Dade County Public Safety Department, on September 8, 1972, advised that he specifically recalled Thomas King Forcade being arrested on August 23, 1972. He advised that he, [redacted] was in the area of the Convention Hall; specifically in the area of the Lincoln Mall and Meridian Avenue, and that demonstrations were going on. He advised it was about between 4:00 and 6:00 p.m. that a Zippie sound truck--a rental and further described as an open-state body, one and one-half or two ton truck--drove up. He said the driver was Tom Forcade and that there 11 demonstrators in the back of the truck and 3 in front. He advised that the truck was stopped and that Tom Forcade was arrested. He stated that in the back of the truck, the following items were found:

One big can, described as an "Allstate Oil" can, but which did not contain oil and had some kind of inflammable liquid. This was a five-gallon can;

Three small incendiary devices; one a vegetable can with a wax-like material in it with a wick coming out; the other two were smaller cans with a wax-like material with a match-type item sticking out.

[redacted] advised that due to the fact that there were so many people in the truck, it was not believed that Tom Forcade should be charged in any way as to the incendiary devices, and subsequently, Forcade was actually arrested and charged with improper change of lane, impeding traffic and no valid driver's license. He advised that the arresting officer was [redacted] of the Central District, Motorcycle Division, Dade County Public Safety Department. [redacted] said further that two individuals, [redacted] and [redacted] of the Crime Laboratory, Bomb Section, Dade County Public Safety Department, examined the incendiary devices. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that he did not write up a detailed report on this matter and he did not know whether or not any mention of the incendiary devices was made by Officer [redacted] who arrested Forcade on the traffic charges.

Sergeant [redacted] Organized Crime Bureau, Dade County Public Safety Department, on September 8, 1972, advised that he does recall Tom Forcade being arrested on August 23, 1972, in connection with the demonstrations at Miami Beach, Florida. He stated that [redacted] was the person who knew about this. Sergeant [redacted] advised that later during the night of August 23, 1972, he had served a felony warrant at the Dade County Jail on Thomas Forcade. He said this felony warrant pertained to the theft of a picture of Lyndon Johnson, which picture had been stolen from the Convention Hall, about a week before the Democratic Convention. Sergeant [redacted] advised that as close as he could recall, the picture, which was actually a blown-up photograph, was valued at $125. He advised he had no additional information about this particular charge at this time. b6 b7C

Sergeant [redacted] stated that it would be impossible at this time to attempt to locate the actual record pertaining to either the felony warrant or the traffic arrest on

For the information of the Bureau, it is noted that a check of the central files of the various law enforcement agencies in the Miami area proved to be negative regarding FORCADE. In this connection, it is noted that the arrests relative to the subject were through the Dade County Public Safety Department. Lieutenant [redacted] of this department advised that due to the great number of arrests made during the convention, it would not be possible to actually locate the arrest records pertaining to FORCADE. He stated that the records currently were being consolidated and indexed. This matter will be followed closely and the Bureau advised as to actual information in the arrest records themselves as soon as they are available.

Recipient offices sent informants to one or both of the national political conventions held in July and August, 1972, at Miami Beach.

Miami has in both instances furnished an evaluation of the services of these sources based on contact Agents of that office had with the various sources while affording coverage of disruptive activities in the Miami area. Recipient offices that had sources in Miami for MIREP should carefully review Miami airtel dated 8/29/72 and note any existing weaknesses on the part of sources rated fair or those who failed to contact the Miami Office. All recipients carefully debrief sources returning from the convention and make appropriate dissemination to various office files and other offices as warranted.

The Bureau feels that the overall quality of sources traveling to Miami for coverage during the conventions was excellent. It is readily apparent that Agents handling informants carefully selected the most qualified informants, thoroughly briefed them and laid the necessary ground work to insure quality coverage while in Miami. Without such informants and good direction both prior to departure and while being handled by other Agents in Miami the extensive comprehensive coverage of the disruptive groups and individuals would not have been possible.

On Tuesday July 11, 1972 the Democratic Party held the second day of its National Convention at the Convention Center in Miami Beach, while at the same time the Miami Conventions Coalition continued its series of actions and demonstrations relative to the Convention.

[redacted] b6 b7C b7D arrived at Flamingo Park to talk with those of the "non-delegates" who were awake at that hour. The occupants of the park seemed unaware of the previous night's happenings, but were glad to learn of the victory of the McGovern forces in the vote on the Chicago and California delegations, and of the collapse of Humphrey and Muskie. One individual commented that when Humphrey made his famous speech on civil rights at the 1948 Convention he was a complete hypocrite, as there were no Negroes in Minnesota to integrate or segregate. He would have struck closer to home by advocating civil rights for the Lapps in Norway. There was enthusiasm enough for McGovern at Flamingo Park; probably 90% of those who had come to demonstrate either wore McGovern insignia or expressed support for him verbally, and those who indicated that they were indifferent as to the outcome of the election were directly and sharply challenged with such remarks as "Then why did you come here at all?"

A mimeographed newspaper listing the events of the coming day was distributed to all who were awake to read it; there was a regular program of happenings from morn to eve, with the Youth International Party, the Zippies, SDS and other groups as sponsors. At [redacted] left to have breakfast at a restaurant on [redacted] brief remarks and his own admissions [redacted] traveled extensively and apparently across frontiers to earn his income. He gave as the address at which to contact him the home of [redacted] telephone [redacted]

[redacted] After breakfast the two drove back to the Doral Hotel, where [redacted] was busy in the press office on the 16th floor. [redacted] and still had no place to stay in Miami Beach, and learning that rooms were available in the Carillon Hotel, where Senator Humphrey had made his last stand, they resolved to take one together with the individual from Columbia University. That person had in the meanwhile contacted the Unicorn News collective, which was staying across the street from the Carillon at 6780 Collins Avenue, Apartment 41, Miami Beach 33141, telephone 305 866-5781, feed line 305 866-5906. [redacted] had expressed an intention to be present at the press conference held by the gay caucus at the Democratic Convention, which was scheduled for 10:00 a.m. b6 b7C b7D that morning at the Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood, Florida. drove his associate as far as the Carillon, in front of which the latter met together with

The four of them climbed into a taxi and rode north on Collins Avenue toward Hollywood. On the way remarked that the FBI had searched his apartment and had offered favors to people in return for information on the sources of his income. He quipped: but would add no more than . Shortly before 10:00 a.m. the taxi arrived at the hotel, where the press conference was about to begin in a large room on the second floor. b6 b7C b7D

Unfortunately for the gay activists, alternates and delegates who assembled at that hour, the gentlemen of the press were for the most part dead to the world after the long Monday night session at the Convention. And so, after waiting for about an hour, the score of individuals who had come to be interviewed left and went their separate ways. did some taped interviews, then accepted a ride from an individual who took them to the hotel in Miami Beach where they were to obtain their validated press credentials for the day.

At the Carillon Hotel there was no trace of at 1:00 p.m.; they had not taken the room as planned. At the Barcelona Hotel was in the swimming pool; he expressed some irritation with for his behavior of the previous day, which included a variety of acts of rudeness to staff members and prominent persons.

That evening at Flamingo Park the crowd was considerably larger than it had been on Monday, but because of the dark it was difficult to find anyone or anything except by wandering about and trusting to luck. The musical entertainment was continuing at full blast, while near the south entrance to the area used for camping the Yippies had set up a color television set on which some 90 people were watching the Tuesday night session of the Convention, at which the platform was being debated. Among those in the group was . Comments on the platform were in the vein of "McGovern is really taking on a tremendous handicap". The SCLC camping area was right by the set, but few of its supporters were watching. b6 b7C b7D

Also in the crowd milling about in the darkness was whose address earlier in the year had been He said that he had driven all the way from Denver, Colorado and was planning to stay in Florida (though not necessarily in the Miami area) between the conventions.

No maps of the camping area were available and the lighting was sparse and inadequate. The rock music playing hour after hour gave the whole setting the aspect of a carnival, to the annoyance of people who were trying to sleep amid the din. Others relaxed in short pants and bathing suits, or queued up for water or to use the public telephone. Such was the appearance of the site in Flamingo Park at 2:00 a.m. on Wednesday.

[redacted] b7D

On Monday July 10, 1972 the Democratic Party held its National Convention at the Convention Center in Miami Beach, Florida. At the same time the Miami Conventions Coalition and affiliated groups began a series of actions and demonstrations related to the Democratic Convention.

The site that had been allocated to the demonstrators (officially termed "non-delegates") amounted to about one-third of Flamingo Park, a recreation center at the southern end of Miami Beach lying between Meridian and Michigan Avenues and between 11th and 15th Streets. On the early afternoon of July 10 about 500 demonstrators were encamped in this area, some under tents, some in cars and trailers, others simply lying on the open ground in sleeping bags. A number of national organizations were represented at Flamingo Park, notably the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and the National Welfare Rights Organization, which were petitioning the Convention for a $6500 a year guaranteed minimum income; Students for a Democratic Society, which had a number of demands loosely connected with the slogan of anti-racism; the Socialist Workers Party, which was rather ineffectually trying to win support for its own candidates; Vietnam Veterans Against the War, who had their well disciplined encampment at the north end of the area occupied by the demonstrators; and a large tent housing pictorial exhibits on the war in Vietnam, with the literature of several organizations that carry on publicistic activity with a political or scientific orientation.

Also on the site at Flamingo Park was a group of some 50 or 60 young people seated under a tree where "free dope" was being distributed and consumed. The gay contingent had two tents of its own, sheltering some 15 to 18 individuals. Besides these aberrations, there were also Jesus freaks and Hari Krishna enthusiasts who conducted their own rites and propaganda. Added to all these factions at the park was a rock band whose raucous music blared away hour after hour. The heat of the afternoon was rather intense, and there seemed to be little interest in energetic activity of a political nature. b6 b7C

Present at the SDS gathering were [redacted] of Columbia-Barnard SDS. Most of the "non-delegates" were young, between 17 and 21, and did not appear to have had much past movement activity. To judge by the names on college sweatshirts and automobile license plates, the geographical distribution was quite extensive; virtually every part of the country had a few representatives.

At the Doral Hotel was located the headquarters of Senator George McGovern, the leading contender for the nomination. In the lobby was a melange of delegates, newsmen, curiosity seekers, staff members, demonstrators and hotel employees, all casually rubbing shoulders. Security was minimal, although some sort of credential was required for access to the press room and the McGovern campaign offices.

Standing in the doorway of the hotel about 4:00 p.m. was [redacted] He greeted an old friend from Columbia University and took him inside to where [redacted] was talking to some people in the press room. [redacted] announced that he had come to Miami Beach as representative of National Public Television (NPTV) and its filial, the Educational Broadcast System (EBS). In a station wagon outside the Doral he had a large quantity--$70,000 worth, so he claimed--of radio and television equipment. b6 b7C b7D

A little later in the afternoon, [redacted] and [redacted] drove to the Barcelona Hotel where [redacted] was staying with [redacted] and a third individual, and moved the equipment from the car to Room 961, which [redacted] and his two friends had taken for the days of the Convention. Here [redacted] and the friend from Columbia stayed until about 8:30 p.m., when they left in search of some dinner. After peregrinating through several hotel lobbies, they made their way to the coffee shop of the Doral and there sat down to a meal.

After a hour or so, the party returned to the room at the Barcelona Hotel and watched the Convention proceedings on television. They were genuinely elated as the tallies began to point to a McGovern victory on the first ballot on Wednesday night. The hours passed, and finally the proceedings came to an end. [redacted] returned from the Convention Center with his friend, bringing the news that Humphrey and Muskie would throw in the sponge the next morning.

[redacted] had made themselves at home in the room, taking showers, napping on the beds, and ignoring the hints of their hosts that they would like to be left alone. Finally, toward 5:00 a.m., they left, with [redacted] heading back to the Doral, and [redacted] and the third party taking the station wagon to Flamingo Park to have some conversations with the demonstrators. b6 b7C b7D

On Thursday July 13, 1972 the Democratic Party held the fourth and last day of its National Convention at the Convention Center in Miami Beach, while the Miami Conventions Coalition concluded its cycle of actions and demonstrations oriented around the Convention.

At Flamingo Park the number of "non-delegates" was beginning to fall off, as with the nomination of McGovern the Convention had reached its peak, and it was reported that a number of people had already driven away in their cars and trailers. A certain segment of the demonstrators intended to stay in the Miami area, swelling the ranks of the local radical community, while others planned to pass the time until August 21 elsewhere in Florida. Nearly all had the intention of returning for the Republican Convention, which would be the "big event" of the year, far surpassing the local and mostly unsuccessful strikes that had broken out on the campuses in April.

The circle of drug users under the tree continued its activity unperturbed by the happenings in the outside world. Some groups were in process of packing their belongings and breaking camp, while others were just relaxing and enjoying the free food, drugs and entertainment.

At the other end of the island, at the Americana Hotel, a party was being given that afternoon for the youth caucus of the Democratic Party. Here, at 3:00 p.m., a rock band was blaring away in a deafening fashion while speeches were intermittently read in favor of one or another of the Vice Presidential hopefuls. Among the people in the audience was [redacted] b6 b7C b7D This crew did not remain long at the hotel, but the association of the three deserves mention, in particular as [redacted] was wearing press credentials.

Back at the Doral Hotel, crowds filled the lobby in the early evening in the hope of catching a glimpse of McGovern on his way to the Convention Center. But he chose to leave by a more discrete exit and so disappointed his admirers. There was still virtually no security at the entrance to the hotel, and a few demonstrators from the park slipped into the large room at the right of the entrance that was being used by the McGovern forces. Here visitors milled around hour after hour watching the proceedings on a color television set. In another room of the hotel the Zapruder film of the assassination of President Kennedy was being shown as a moving picture. Those who saw it said that it showed clearly that the first bullet struck Kennedy in the front of his head, blowing off a piece of his skull--thus confirming the doubts as to the correctness of the Warren Commission findings.

Nothing exciting happened in the late evening hours at the Doral. About midnight copies of McGovern's acceptance speech in mimeographed form became available to the press, and when [redacted] learned that the text had been issued he requested a copy immediately. b6 b7C b7D

[redacted]

After the conclusion of the acceptance speech [redacted] made several collect telephone calls, offering various executives in the TV industry a "wrap-up" of the night's events, but none was interested. Then he departed for the floor of the Convention to make some last-minute taped interviews before the delegates and celebrities started to leave Miami Beach.

[redacted] decided to pay a visit to the Miami Conventions Coalition, which had moved from its earlier offices in Miami to 1718 Alton Road, Miami Beach 33139, telephone 305 672-0122. They drove in a Ford Pinto which [redacted] had rented earlier that day from Hallandale to the southern end of Miami Beach, where [redacted] wanted to see if there was mail for him at the post office. Then they made their way to the office of the MCC, which occupied some half dozen rooms on the second floor of a small building.

Inside the building they were greeted by the office staff, and finally invited three of them to have dinner with them in Hallandale. All five packed into the Pinto and headed north. On the way a heavy thundershower broke out, drenching the car; but it had ended by the time they reached their hostess' apartment.

The three members of the MCC consisted of a boy from Washington, D.C. who had been involved in Mayday in 1971, a girl from Santa Cruz who had been at the Atlanta Mayday Conference, and a girl from Philadelphia. All were in their early twenties. As the hostess served dinner, they discussed the election and their plans for the coming month. They felt that McGovern could not win but thought that it was not really important. Their own field of activity was the Exposé project within the MCC. They took their work quite seriously and seemed to think that it could actually contribute to ending the war in Vietnam.

At the moment MCC needed money badly. They estimated that it had to have $3000 by July 25 and $75,000 by August 20. The initial outlays would be for printing and distributing large masses of publicity material. They were not planning to have the printing done in the Miami area, but rather in the north. [redacted] gave them a list of names and addresses of people he claimed to know that ranged from [redacted] He urged the MCC members to contact known backers and supporters of the Democratic Party in the thought that such people would be willing to finance this sideshow in order to benefit their candidate, even if indirectly.

b7D

The MCC members said that many arrangements for the August demonstrations would have to be different from those in July. The security force would have to be much stronger and formally organized. They believed that the Cuban exile community in Miami was quite hostile to the demonstrations and might try to interfere. There would be the whole process of negotiating with the city for a new and larger campsite, as Flamingo Park was clearly adequate for no more than 2000.

The crucial issue was one of persuading large numbers of demonstrators to come to Miami Beach from distant parts of the country. A small turnout would be fatal as it would make the whole action seem ridiculous.

About 7:30 p.m. the five left Hallandale and returned to the MCC office. Here, among others, was [redacted] who had not yet left the Miami area, and also a boy whose first name was [redacted] who had been with the Yippie delegation at several conferences and demonstrations in the past. b6 b7C b7D

In the office were piles of literature, posters for various organizations, and publicity material for the Southern Regional Conference scheduled to begin on Friday in Tallahassee. At 9:00 p.m. a meeting began in one of the rooms of the office. There were 18 individuals, all white and mainly in the 17-22 age bracket. The group seemed inexperienced and naive, its background having been chiefly with Mayday the previous year. Quite significant for the entire project was the absence of Negro and Latin American support, apart from the SCLC-NWRO involvement in the July demonstrations. The main focus of interest was clearly the war, not welfare or any domestic issue. The participants seemed oblivious to the fact that the war had been steadily losing its importance as an issue in the eyes of the American public at large and even of the campus community. Also, there was little insight into the problem of how to interrelate electoral and "non-electoral" politics.

[redacted] remained long enough to dredge his memory and imagination for names of possible contributors, then he and his companion left at 9:20 p.m.

On Wednesday July 12, 1972 the Democratic Party held the third day of its National Convention at the Convention Center in Miami Beach, while the Miami Conventions Coalition pursued its program of actions and demonstrations in support of specific demands and policies.

By Wednesday afternoon the throng of "non-delegates" at Flamingo Park had increased to about 1500, which represented about three-fourths of the capacity of the camping area. To everyone's great annoyance a swarm of little flies had descended on the Miami area, and the tiny creatures were particularly in evidence in the park. Among the new faces at Flamingo Park were [redacted] of the Conspiracy 7; [redacted] of New York University SDS, who was at the SDS table soliciting support for its anti-racism bill; [redacted] of PLP and CAIM at Columbia University; and a girl of Latin American ancestry who had also attended CAIM meetings. She remarked that the delegation from Columbia University was quite small and that most people preferred to wait for the Republican Convention in August. At the SWP booth was an undergraduate from Columbia who had been b6 active from April onward in SMC, which otherwise is quite small on b7C that campus.

Members of the different factions and organizations were arguing and disputing, while the rock music and the chants of the Hari Krishna enthusiasts that filled the air gave the park the aspect of a summer picnic and carnival. The gay contingent, which was often confronted by the Jesus freaks at Flamingo Park, was composed of individuals whose physical appearance was so strange that they would have been worthy additions to a teratological museum. Vietnam Veterans Against the War stayed somewhat aloof from the rest of the crowd; its members were slightly older, mainly in the 23-27 range, and they seemed more deliberate in their conduct at the park. Many of the younger individuals in the crowd looked as if they did not quite know what to do in this setting. Not a few of them simply wandered off to the swimming pool or the basketball and tennis courts and forgot completely about politics. The Jesus freaks were later reported to contain several members of a strong-arm squad that had harrassed the gay community in Los Angeles on several occasions.

About 4:00 p.m. it was bruited about that a group of demonstrators had gone to the Doral Hotel to confront McGovern in person. And in fact, the lobby of the Doral was filled, though not exclusively, with young people who had come from Flamingo Park to make their demands on the prospective candidate. Members of the splinter groups had even brought along their leaflets and petitions and were distributing them in all directions. Upstairs, in the McGovern offices on the third floor, staff members were barring the doors to demonstrators attempting to infiltrate the inner sanctum. [redacted] now made his reentry on the scene, claiming that he could not obtain the room at the Carillon because the desk demanded $50 in cash in advance. He said that he had stayed up all night and even asserted that he had lunch with [redacted] and I.F. Stone that afternoon. After he spent some time in the press room at the end of the corridor, he agreed with his friend from Columbia to take a room at the Eden Roc Hotel which would cost $10 a day for himself [redacted] and [redacted]

And so on the early evening of July 12 [redacted] moved their equipment from the Barcelona Hotel to Room 1430 at the Eden Roc. When unpacked, the items appeared to consist mainly of equipment for making and editing audio tapes, although there were a few small television monitors. Hyman professed to have been in many places in Miami Beach, taping interviews with demonstrators, staff members working for various candidates, and of course the celebrities present in great numbers. Two in particular whose names came up in his conversation quite often were Warren Beatty, who was allegedly fund-raising for McGovern, and Gloria Steinem, the leader of the disappointed feminist and pro-abortion faction at the Convention.

[redacted] being quite exhausted, fell asleep on one of the beds in the room, while his friends watched the nominating speeches and then the voting on television. At 11:59 p.m. the Illinois delegation cast the decisive vote: McGovern was the party's nominee. Shortly after this [redacted] and his associates walked over to the press room at the Doral, where they met, among others [redacted]. All around them there was rejoicing in the McGovern camp, although a few voices were already warning that a tough and uncertain fight lay ahead. The question now was: Who would be the Vice Presidential nominee? And so, to be ready for the events of the fourth and closing day of the Convention, [redacted] and his associates returned to the room at the Eden Roc where they would spend the night.

Forwarded under this same cover are recommendations for incentive awards and commendations for certain personnel of this and other offices, in recognition of their excellent services during these conventions.

In addition, it is suggested you may wish to consider granting incentive awards for FBIHQ supervisors [redacted]

Miami Supervisors [redacted] and I, during the weeks preceding and during these conventions, conferred many times by telephone and personally with these men concerning all phases of our preparations. Their suggestions and assistance to us in perfecting our functions have been greatly appreciated and did much to insure the success of our efforts.

For your further information, the Attorney General while here, was most outspoken and kind in his remarks to me concerning FBI efforts during the conventions. He specifically commented, very favorably, as did his assistants [redacted] and [redacted] upon our plans, the activity at our lookout and operational sites, as well as the quality of the information concerning the planned and anticipated activities of protest groups which was disseminated upon a timely basis to local and departmental officials.

I also wanted you to know personally that the morale of the personnel of this Division was greatly boosted by your gracious telephone call last Friday evening in which you expressed your congratulations for a job well done.

I. DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION SITE

The 1972 DNC will be held at the Miami Beach Convention Hall, located between 17th and 20th Streets on Washington Avenue, a central area of Miami Beach. The Convention will take place in the north section of the hall. The south section of the hall will be utilized by the media.

The Convention Hall complex, which includes the Miami Beach Auditorium and other smaller buildings, is bounded by Washington Avenue on the east, Meridian Court on the west, Collins Canal on the north, and 17th Street on the south.

The Convention Hall is being arranged to seat 5,000 delegates and alternates.

Command Post area for all interested police agencies is located in basement of southwest corner of auditorium.

Through this post, constant contact will be maintained with various patrol and security guards, inside and outside the complex, the convention floor itself, and with police headquarters. Immediately adjacent to the Command Post, areas are being partitioned off for the use of other official support agencies, including Secret Service and the FBI.

The FBI desk will be manned by three Special Agents on 12-hour shifts, to conform with the shifts of the local police and other agencies, from 12:00 noon to 12:00 midnight, when peak activity is expected, and from 12:00 midnight to 12:00 noon. During the first shift, the FBI Desk will be staffed by the Security Supervisor and two assistants. During the second shift, it will be manned by the Extremist Supervisor and two assistants.

II. SECURITY RESPONSIBILITIES

Convention Hall Complex and surrounding area - This is responsibility of the Miami Beach Police Department (MBPD), with Chief ROCKY POMERANCE in charge. During the convention and two weeks prior thereto, other police agencies, including the Miami Police Department, Dade County Public Safety Department, Florida Highway Patrol, and agents of other state agencies, will provide sufficient manpower to the MBPD to enable this agency to handle its responsibilities.

During the convention sessions, the MBPD will assume responsibility for the fenced area to the north and the area to the east of the convention hall, where most of the protest activity is expected to occur. Miami Police Department will man the fenced areas to the north and west; officers of the Dade County Department of Public Safety will be used as a backup force inside the fenced area in the event they are needed; and officers of the Florida Highway Patrol will be paired with local police for patrols of the surrounding area. All police personnel will be on 12-hour shifts during the convention.

Inside Convention Hall - Sergeant-at-arms responsibility will be assumed by the Andy Frain Service, a private security service which has been deputized by the DNC. This service will be responsible for administrative policies effected within the convention hall, in an effort to avoid disruption of the convention proceedings. Its responsibility is to maintain sufficient order to permit a smooth operation of convention business, as opposed to actual physical protection of the premises and other routine police functions. Any arrests inside the convention hall during the convention will be effected by the local police only upon the execution of an affidavit by an Andy Frain representative.

Candidate Security - Secret Service, as of this date, has assumed responsibility for protection of the following Democratic candidates. The hotel where each will stay in Miami Beach or Miami is indicated.

HUMPHREY	Carillon Hotel, Miami Beach
MUSKIE	Americana Hotel, Bal Harbour (immediately to north of Miami Beach)
MC GOVERN	Doral Beach Hotel, Miami Beach
WALLACE	Four Ambassadors Hotel, Miami
JACKSON	Montmartre Hotel, Miami Beach

(Dupont Plaza ?)

III. CREDENTIALS

Delegate - Secret Service is having printed, and will insure security of delegate credentials until turned over to the DNC.

Security - Access credentials to confines of convention complex being supplied by Secret Service. Will consist of card containing photograph and name, not subject to counterfeiting or alteration, and issued to law enforcement support agencies requiring access to all areas of complex.

IV. DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION SCHEDULE

1972 DNC will be held from July 9 - 14, 1972. Regular sessions are scheduled from 7:00 p.m. to midnight, but it is anticipated that unscheduled afternoon sessions will be held.

Convention Director is [redacted] National Convention Headquarters have been opened in the Washington Federal Savings and Loan Association building, located behind the convention hall. About one month before the convention opens, this headquarters will be moved to the Fontainebleau Hotel. b6 b7C Frain Service has been contracted by the DNC to provide internal security at the convention hall. This company handled the same service for the RNC during 1968.

See tentative convention schedule attached.

MAJOR POINTS TO REMEMBER REGARDING THE 1972 DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

A. Committees

1. Three Standing Committees - Rules, Credentials, Platform - no Committee on Permanent Organization.

2. Each Committee consists of 150 members an increase of 40 over past Committees.

3. Membership is proportional on all Committees ranging from 1 to 10 depending on population.

4. Committees will not meet in Miami Beach, but most likely in Washington, D. C., several weeks prior to National Convention.

5. Committees must complete work 14 days in advance of Convention in order that report can be put in the mail 10 days in advance, in the case of the Rules and Platform Committees. Credentials must complete work 48 hours in advance.

6. The Platform Committee is mandated to hold a minimum of 8 regional hearings. One general hearing in Washington, D. C. is likely.

7. Platform and Rules will likely convene in June.

8. All permanent Committee Chairmen must be elected by the members of the Committee themselves.

9. All members of Committees must be elected by state delegations.

10. Provision is made for the election by a representative body within the state of temporary Committee members who serve until permanent members are chosen.

11. Representation must be balanced as between men and women.

12. The Chairman is authorized to appoint, subject to confirmation of the Executive Committee, temporary Chairmen of the Platform and Rules Committees. Mrs. Harris elected temporary Chairwoman of Credentials. b6 b7C

13. Chairman [redacted] to present to Platform Committee comprehensive document outlining major views at first meeting. This document to be based on Democratic Policy Committee hearings - 9 of which have already been held.

14. Credentials Committee to assign hearing officers to hear timely challenges filed within 10 days after selection of delegates.

B. Arrangements

1. Housing by lot.

2. Seating in Convention Hall by lot.

3. Roll Call by lot, beginning with California and ending with Oklahoma.

4. 450 telephone network to be installed within the Hall. 350 of which will be on floor in the Delegate and Alternate sections. Press section, candidates' trailers, candidates' downtown headquarters, Fontainebleau Hotel and floor to be interconnected into direct-dial system.

5. Inexpensive transportation to be provided to all delegates and alternates and press directly from hotels to Convention Hall, starting two hours before Convention.

6. 25 caucus rooms of varying sizes to be available within the Hall.

7. Each candidate to be given equal trailer space immediately adjacent to the Hall.

8. Special provisions for low cost housing and meals for delegates wanting same.

9. Closed-circuit television direct from Convention Hall and DNC press headquarters to be available in all major hotel rooms.

10. Each candidate to be permitted a maximum of 15 point-to-point telephones on floor.

11. Each Presidential candidate given choice of location and amount of their own headquarters housing.

12. Each network allotted one camera on floor plus four reporters with mikes. Each radio network and group allowed three reporters with mikes, except ABC which is allowed seven reporters.

C. Convention

1. Specific order of business provided. b6 b7C

2. Chairman [redacted] temporary Chairman.

3. Credentials Committee first to be recognized.

4. Rules Committee second to be recognized.

5. Permanent Chairman elected by Convention after nominations have

6. All of the above comes on the first night.

7. Second night given over to Keynote Address by Governor Askew, with the remainder of evening devoted to Platform debate.

8. Third night given to nominations and balloting for President with only those candidates securing a minimum of 50 signatures, no more than 20 of which may come from any state, being eligible for nomination.

9. Nominating and seconding speeches limited to a total of 15 minutes per candidate.

10. Prohibition against demonstrations.

11. Order of nomination determined by separate draw.

12. Fourth evening devoted to nominating and balloting for Vice President and acceptance speeches.

13. No motion or amendment may be moved from the floor which has not already been considered by one of the three Standing Committees, where in order to be considered by the Convention as a whole, a minority report must have obtained at least 10 per cent of the vote (15 votes) of the Committee.

14. Anyone can be voted for during the balloting for President and Vice-President even though he/she was not formally nominated.

15. Rules Committee will recommend to the Convention for permanent adoption, applying to future Conventions, the recommendations of the Fraser and O'Hara Commissions as well as the recommendations regarding future structure and organization of the National Committee and Party.

V. TRAINING OF POLICE

A training program of approximately 100 hours for 300 officers of the Miami Beach Police Department, Miami Police Department, and Dade County Department of Public Safety, is in progress at Florida International University (FIU), Miami. This program is under the direction of WAYNE B. HANEWICZ, Assistant Professor of Criminal Justice, FIU.

A major portion of this training is being devoted to Behavioral Sciences, Psychology of Political Dissidents, and Humane Crowd Control. The main purpose of this training is to teach methods of coping with potential disorder without violent confrontation. As part of this training, "Sensitivity Sessions" are being held, to which leaders of local dissident groups are invited for "mock confrontations" with police and for discussions as to methods of avoiding violence.

Chief POMERANCE has stated this training, although not 100% well received, has been effective thus far in preparing the officers for convention problems.

Chief POMERANCE has continually emphasized that his directives will be "effective but humane" in controlling the masses of protestors, and although the police will use whatever defensive measures are necessary, their emphasis will be on maintaining a peaceful convention.

See training curriculum attached.

TO: All Attendees of National Political Convention Training Program

FROM: [redacted] b6 b7C

RE: Purpose of Training Program

During the first session of our training program many of you indicated that an oversight had been made in not clearly describing the nature of the "Input-Behavioral Sessions" and the goals of the program generally. Pursuant to this observation, the planning staff would like to take this opportunity to speak to this problem.

In general, the primary purpose of the training program is twofold: (1) to impart technical knowledge (law, crowd control tactics, proper use of equipment, etc.) which you may find useful during the convention, and (2) to develop your ability to utilize that knowledge effectively and humanely under conditions of emotional and physical stress. A secondary purpose of the program is to offer it in such a way as to allow those of you who wish to do so to receive 4 academic credits in the Criminal Justice Program at Florida International University.

The first primary purpose, the imparting of technical knowledge and skills, is best accomplished through lectures and demonstrations. Thus, you will find that the training schedules which you have been given include specific lectures on law, departmental policy, mass arrest procedures, etc., as well as demonstrations in the proper use of equipment ("Equipment Familiarization") and the proper techniques for tactical crowd control. Since this kind of material can be presented to large groups, you will often find that an entire session of 100 plus men will hear the same lecture or view the same demonstration at the same time.

On the other hand, the second primary purpose, the development of your ability to act effectively and humanely under emotional and physical stress, does not lend itself to large lecture groups. Learning how to recognize and cope with stress in yourself (and, if you are a supervisor, in the men under your command) requires that you have ample opportunity to observe and discuss situations freely, spontaneously, and without reservation. Additionally, it requires that you have readily available to you someone who is well trained in recognizing and dealing with stress in people, and who has the competence to assist you in developing your own abilities in this area. Consequently, this part of the program is carried on through small (15-20 men) groups which include a trained professional.

There is another goal of the "Input-Behavioral Sessions" which does not necessarily require a trained professional of any kind; it only requires that we do not plan anything. Unplanned sessions give you an opportunity to make your own suggestions and discuss your own ideas; it is based on the assumption that you are as well equipped as anyone to assist each other in developing the special techniques and abilities characteristic of professional police officers.

I. PHILOSOPHY OF DISSENT IN A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY 2 Hrs.

A lecture on the role of dissent in a democratic society, with emphasis on the goals it is meant to achieve and an exploration of some of the reasons which people sometimes give in justification of it.

II. HISTORY AND CONTEMPORARY MODES OF DISSENT 2 Hrs.

A lecture on the historical and contemporary forms which dissent has taken, with particular reference to specific groups or factions and some of their common techniques.

III. CONSTITUTIONAL LAW I 2 Hrs.

A lecture on the philosophical foundations of the Bill of Rights, with particular reference to the 1st Amendment and considerable emphasis on its role in a democratic society. Presentation would include the powers granted to the Federal government, limitations on state police powers, the Bill of Rights, due process of law and the general scope of the Fourteenth Amendement.

IV. CONSTITUTIONAL LAW II 2 Hrs.

A lecture on some specific problems and legal issues which police officers often encounter in dealing with situations involving 1st Amendment rights. Presentation would include such topics as the modes of protected expression, the clear and present danger doctrine and related tests, the authority of state and local police officers to use force in demonstration and riot situations and the tools which would be available to police officers in a demonstration situation.

V. STATE AND LOCAL LAW 2 Hrs.

A lecture on the relevant state and local laws pertaining to situations which police officers are most likely to encounter during a political convention, mass demonstrations, and civil disorders.

VI. DEPARTMENTAL POLICY 2 Hrs.

A clear statement of the departmental and inter-departmental policy which will be in effect during the Democratic National Convention regarding demonstrations, drugs, and similar issues.

VII. MASS ARRESTS AND BOOKING PROCEDURES 2 Hrs.

A lecture on, and demonstration of, the mass arrest and booking procedures which will be in effect during the Democratic National Convention.

VIII. EQUIPMENT FAMILIARIZATION 4 Hrs.

Demonstrations and practice in the use of new communications, vision, and other equipment which may be of use during the Democratic National Convention, including a discussion of the potential and limitations of such equipment.

PHILOSOPHY OF DISSENT IN A DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY

Outline of remarks to be delivered by [redacted] at Miami Beach, April 1, 2, 1972 as part of the training program for the policing of the 1972 Democratic National Convention.

Introduction:

1. Does dissent play any special role in a democratic society?
   (a) Is it particularly to be expected?
   (b) What ends does it serve, and which does it subvert?

   Answer to be given: It is to be expected in at least some forms in any democratic society that is working even tolerably well, and thus its occurrence should be treated not as a crisis but as a continuing and recurring condition of democratic life.

I. What is dissent?

A. The flexibility of the term. To 'dissent' may be
   1. To disagree
   2. To object to
   3. To separate oneself from
   4. To refuse to conform to

B. Consequent understandable shifts (and room for misunderstanding) in the behavioral correlates of dissent: they can run a gamut from silent disagreement to civil disobedience and perhaps even further.

C. Dissent and disloyalty
   1. What is disloyalty? Should we concentrate on intention or on effect?
   2. Disloyalty to what? The importance of complexities of communities and ideals.
   3. What must be at stake if behavior is to count as disloyal?
      (a) Ends vs. means.
      (b) Procedure vs. substance.
      (c) 'Ruining' things vs. 'improving' them.
      (d) Behavioral criteria again.

II. Dissent and democratic ideals.

A. The complexity of democratic ideals.

B. Democratic man.
   1. Is self-reliant in action and judgment.
   2. Accepts the burden of some responsibility for what happens in his community.

   (These may be seen as contributions to the rationality and moral quality of the society as well as to the dignity of the citizens.)

II. Dissent and democratic ideals, continued.

C. Democratic society.
   1. A society in which there is enough free flow of information and common knowledge so that it makes sense to think of its citizens generally making up their own minds rather than letting others make up their minds for them.
   2. A society in which persons generally have enough influence on what happens so that it makes sense for them to accept some responsibility for what happens.

D. Some modern problems with these ideals due to the size and complexity of societies and our increased understandings of the possibilities of the manipulation of social attitudes.

E. What could we reasonably expect if
   1. Persons were thinking for themselves?
   2. Persons did accept some responsibility for what happened in their communities?

III. Dissent as a threat to the bonds of the community.

A. Should there be limits on 'thinking for oneself' and 'accepting moral responsibility, etc.'?
   1. Limits set by one's knowledge and expertise.
   2. Limits set by the extent of one's power to influence events.
   3. But, should anything be 'off-limits'?

B. Can we develop a concept of loyal opposition that will work when there are no restrictions on the subject-matter of dissent?

IV. Summary.

A. The absence of dissent would be a sign of the failure of certain democratic ideals.

B. The presence of dissent can strain the sense of community that keeps societies viable.

C. Conclusion: As consideration of the role of dissent shows democracy is a risky business. It is also a grand 'experiment'. The attempt to live up to democratic ideals is an attempt to go perilously far in risking the bonds of community in the name of increasing the rationality and the moral quality of what happens in a society and increasing the dignity of the persons living in it.

"With each passing summer it becomes more and more difficult to distinguish between legitimate social protest and flagrant violation of laws designed to protect persons and property. Puzzling and unpleasant though this choice may be for us all, for the police, who are responsible for the maintenance of law and order, it is a cruel dilemma". --Fred Inbau, Professor of Law.

THE FIRST AMENDMENT: A HISTORICAL AND SPECULATIVE OVERVIEW

> Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

PURPOSE OF DISCUSSION: To summarize the history and reasons that sustain a conclusion that until speech or a public assembly become a part of conduct which legislation can restrain or regulate no legislative power over it exists. (This is the way the framers of the First Amendment intended it to be.)

LECTURE OUTLINE:

I. PRELIMINARY COMMENT
   A. LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS' ATTITUDES AND GOAL ACHIEVEMENT
      1. On police goals
      2. On the functions of law
      3. On enforcement policies

II. THE FIRST AMENDMENT'S ENGLISH AND AMERICAN BACKGROUNDS
   A. ENGLISH
      1. The right to speak in legislative halls
      2. The contribution of John Wilkes to freedom of speech
   B. AMERICAN
      1. Sources of the Constitution and Bill of Rights
      2. The contribution of John Zenger to freedom of speech

III. THE AMERICAN CONSTITUTION AND BILL OF RIGHTS
   A. ADOPTION OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES
      1. Reasons behind its adoption
   B. ADOPTION OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS
      1. Reasons behind its adoption
   C. THE ROLE OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT UNDER THE BI-SOVEREIGNTY CONCEPT
      1. The federal government as the protector of personal liberties

IV. FREEDOM OF SPEECH IN A PARTICIPATORY DEMOCRACY
  A. THE FIRST AMENDMENT AND CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT
    1. Dictatorships and free speech
    2. The right to know is the cornerstone of democracy
    3. Speech and assembly are not absolutes

V. FIRST AMENDMENT PHILOSPHY IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY
  A. THE TWO EXCEPTIONS TO THE FIRST AMENDMENT
    1. The "clear and present danger" test
    2. The "prurient interest" test
  B. A JUDICIALLY-CONCEIVED EXTENSION OF FIRST AMENDMENT RIGHTS
    1. Picketing
  C. SYMBOLIC SPEECH AND THE FIRST AMENDMENT
    1. Conduct is more than speech
  D. THE FIRST AMENDMENT AND LAW ENFORCEMENT POLICIES
    1. Complex and sensitive issues
    2. Law enforcement officers need guidelines on the protection of First Amendment rights

SUMMARY: It has been brought out in this session that attitudes influence an officer in the way he achieves desirable goals. It has been emphasized, moreover, that to achieve these goals an officer must understand how the United States Constitution and Bill of Rights protect personal rights, and the role of the First Amendment in securing these rights. Armed with this knowledge--and keeping abreast of the law--it is quite likely that when an officer must act that what he does will probably be right.

Confrontation Management

By Donald A. Lund

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: Captain Donald A. Lund was born in New York City, New York, in February of 1944. He received the Bachelor of Arts Degree in sociology from Middlebury College in 1965, the Master of Philosophy in sociology from Yale University in 1967, and he achieved the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy in sociology from Yale University in 1969. His major fields of competence include medical sociology, social stratification, deviance, and social control. Captain Lund held the position of Assistant Professor of Sociology at Yale University prior to his entry into active duty. He is a graduate of the Military Police Officers' Basic Course (1970). Captain Lund was subsequently assigned as an Instructor with the Dissent and Disorder Management Branch, United States Army Military Police School, Fort Gordon, Georgia. He previously held the position of Special Assistant to the Chief of Staff for the Modern Volunteer Army in the U.S. Army Military District of Washington, and he currently is Executive Director of the Task Force on Civil Disorder for the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals.

AUTHOR'S ACKNOWLEDGMENT: I would like to express my appreciation to my fellow instructors in the Dissent and Disorder Management Branch of the U.S. Army Military Police School for their insightful contributions and suggestions in the formulation of the ideas presented in this article. The ideas presented do not necessarily represent Department of the Army doctrine.

Dissident strategies designed to provoke law enforcement officers into repressive and brutal acts have been well publicized. Jerry Rubin in his book, "DO IT," describes his brand of confrontation tactics and emphasizes the methods he used to obtain police "overreaction." From the control force perspective, prime impetus to avoidance of overreactive response comes from its usefulness to the dissident element. Cries of "repression," "police brutality," or "pigs off campus" can rally more sympathizers and make a situation more volatile than shouts of "end the war" or "academic freedom." Confrontation management is therefore proposed as a strategy of intervention, designed to assist in creation of an environment in which a state of social equilibrium can be restored and in which the dangers of overreaction can be mediated.

We recognize that there are many who will initially react to the concept of confrontation management with skepticism. This concept is not synonymous with permissiveness or inaction. The issue we raise is not whether to restore order, but rather how order may properly be restored in a free society. Certainly this great nation has sufficiently powerful police and military forces to control civil disorder. Our tasks as law enforcement managers and order maintainers are to use that power effectively without sacrificing the constitutional liberties and human values that give our social system its needed qualities of justice and equity.

Some advocate the use of massive force to control protest and disorder. To take the easier, more immediately gratifying course of punitive, hasty suppression of civil disorder would in the long run only increase social hostilities and abet the cause of many dissident organizations. History is replete with examples of violent suppression serving as the catalyst for further violence and social chaos. Yet, an ineffective or belated response to civil disorder is equally undesirable—and will not be tolerated by an endangered government or community. Thus, our task is to somehow find and follow the narrow path between overreaction and underreaction.

A NEW CONCEPT

"Confrontation management" may seem a pretentious synonym for "riot control." This term is however intended to describe an entirely new concept for successfully handling the very difficult problems of civil disorder. Whereas "riots" are only one form of contemporary dissident activity, "confrontations" encompass the entire spectrum of civil disorder, ranging from disruptive demonstrations and nonviolent civil dis· dience through more traditional forms of riotous activity and beyond. Whereas "control" perhaps implies the application of suppressive force, "management" connotes use of skill and judgment in selecting the most effective response for each particular confrontation. Current military "riot control" doctrine has been suitable for limited, spontaneous outbreaks of violence. However, a more complex problem is posed by deliberately planned confrontations which openly solicit a dramatic police response—and the national attention accompanying that response. Confrontation management is a strategy developed by the Staff of the Civil Disturbance Orientation course at the U.S. Army Military Police School, to supplement conventional doctrine. This strategy concept takes cognizance of and seeks to counter the attempts of dissident organizations to further their movements through "confrontation tactics." It seeks to defeat their stategem of provocation of control forces, which is designed to produce control force overreaction and thereby to radicalize additional supporters for the dissidents from a dissected, concerned, but presently uninvolved populace. Simply changing the target from university reform to police brutality has widened the scope and elevated the intensity of several campus disorders.

The military is accustomed to perceiving civil unrest as problems of crowds or "civil disturbances"; the latter term is essentially synonymous with riot and is used extensively in current U.S. Army publications. Certainly, prior to the rise of political activism of the 1960's, civil disorder would follow a common pattern: a sizable, but not massive crowd transformed into a riotous mob by a precipitating incident or by an agitator leader. The mob would then commit spontaneous acts of violence within a fairly limited area. Finally, riotous activity would spread throughout disadvantaged neighborhoods. Such disorders could be quelled without great difficulty once sufficient force was assembled. A violent riot is not a problem to be belittled, but fortunately this form of civil disorder usually lacks the organization and deliberate purpose necessary to sustain itself against a trained control force.

FORMS OF DISSIDENCE

We still have occasional disorders that take this form and, for these disorders, the traditional riot control doctrine is a suitable response. However, many of the contemporary forms of dissident activity pose more difficult problems, such as the following:

1. Mass demonstrations—involving hundreds of thousands of people which can overwhelm the capabilities of local law enforcement agencies.
2. Civil disobedience—often involving elderly women, young females, and mothers with small children, whose nonviolent posture places the control forces in an awkward position.
3. Systemic protests—involving fanatically dedicated, often naive young participants for whom normal deterrents such as threat of arrest or use of force has limited effect. These protests usually derive stimulus from some dissatisfaction with the "system" or "establishment," and are motivated by idealistic, utopian, or revolutionary attitudes.
4. Socioeconomic disorder—involving many small groups of dissidents operating independently or in concert over a wide urban area, dispersing and reassembling elsewhere when threatened by control force operations. This pattern is stimulated by social, economic, racial, and/or urban conditions. Stemming from underlying tension, frustration, and unrest, its beginning as a disorder takes place through a precipitating incident, such as a confrontation with police over a minor issue in the ghetto community.
5. Political terrorism—involving extremely violent, often nihilistic or anarchistic tactics, such as sniping and/or bombing, which make conventional police operations probably ineffective and certainly dangerous.
6. Nationalistic reactionary disorder—violence usually directed against individuals with whom the participants disagree. This disorder evolves from intensely nationalistic or patriotic attitudes among the protagonists and is usually labeled the "hard hat" phenomenon.

By noting the wide variance in the forms of civil disorder, we can readily see the need for a corresponding variance in our response to the phenomenon. Each confrontation varies in a great many ways: the purpose and magnitude of the dissident activity, the capability and preparedness of the control forces, the attitudes and proximity of the general public, and the weather, terrain, and sensitivity of the involved area. Which is the decisive factor in the determination of the appropriate and required response? We believe the key factor to be the confrontation's level of intensity.

RANGES OF GROUP BEHAVIOR

Human behavior in groups ranges in its conformity to norms from a state of complete law and order (a repressive state tolerating no deviance) through a level of normalcy (with tolerance of some deviance and normal transgression) to a state of complete anomie (a posture of complete normlessness and accompanying chaos). The normal condition in a human group is characterized by a degree of deviance, which is used to define the boundaries of acceptable behavior, but it is predominantly a state of equilibrium. Most civil disturbance behavior falls along the continuum at a point between normalcy and anomie, and its social cost in a democratic society is dependent on the degree of swing along the continuum back toward normalcy. Should the control measures bring the prevailing social state closer to the condition labeled "law and order," then the social cost to democratic freedom may be great. Further discussion of this subject will be attempted in a more philosophical paper.

A confrontation's effect on the community, usually determined by the level of intensity, falls along a continuum ranging from no effect, inconvenience, or harassment in the lower range, to disruption and destruction in the upper range. The level of intensity at the time of control force intervention should determine, in part, the nature of the control force response. It indicates the urgency with which action must be initiated, the extent to which the dissident activity must be curtailed, and the degree of force that is justifiable in attaining the curtailment.

For example, during the antiwar demonstrations extending through the last two weeks of April, 1971, and into the first week of May, much behavior, including demonstrations by veterans, and a mass protest demonstration in front of the Capitol, was tolerated. Primarily, this behavior could be tolerated because it had only an inconveniencing effect on the Washington, D.C., populace. However, when an elaborate plan of traffic blockage was proposed, resulting in disruption and potential destruction, substantial control action was initiated.

Based on these premises, the concept of confrontation management has been developed to provide more precise and meaningful guidance to police and military commanders faced with today's varying forms of civil disorder.

HINDERING FACTORS

The traditional riot control objective always has been and still is to "restore and maintain law and order." What is meant of course is to return the social system to a state of normalcy. Certainly, this is the goal in every social control effort. Yet, the return to equilibrium or normalcy is not feasible or immediately attainable in many confrontation situations. The following factors may hinder or delay the attainment of this ultimate objective:

TABLE 1
RANGE of CONFORMITY to NORMS

CONFRONTATION INTENSITY LEVELS

1. Magnitude of confrontation—the size and the extent of many disturbances will make the enforcement of all laws impossible.

2. Readiness of control force—in the initial stages of a confrontation, the capability of control forces will be fairly limited, pending the assembly of additional forces and the erection of field facilities.

3. Time of day—during certain hours of the day, large numbers of bystanders or hangers-on can be expected to be present at a confrontation, making their potential involvement a factor limiting effectiveness of control force response.

4. Intensity of emotions—where the emotional involvement of a confrontation's participants — including the dissidents, disaffected hangers-on, bystanders, and control forces—are at a high point, any aggressive action could trigger greater violence.

5. Sympathies of public—certain dissident demonstrations or activities may attract the sympathy of a major segment of the community, thus making the actions of the control forces subject to very close scrutiny.

6. Strategy of dissidents—in many confrontations, the dissident's goal is to produce the type of dramatic, aggressive police response that is necessary to promptly restore order, and the need to thwart that strategy is therefore a factor.

Thus, because of these limiting factors, the complete restoration of social equilibrium may have to be deferred for a few hours or indefinitely. In the interim, what action must or should be taken by control forces? What alternative objectives should be considered? The commander is faced with a dilemma of choice. While various factors may preclude him from completely or immediately restoring order, he knows that total inaction would be unacceptable to the threatened institution or community. Hence, a need exists for establishing a meaningfully stated, and attainable, interim objective. To fill this need we propose this statement: Reduce or limit the confrontation's intensity to the lowest realistic level. The objective of intensity reduction relates to the confrontation intensity spectrum discussed earlier. It recommends the reduction (or limitation) of a confrontation's intensity to the lowest level that can be realistically attained, given all the conditions and variables influencing the environment in which the confrontation is taking place. It avoids dysfunctional attempts to improperly lower the intensity level which would in all likelihood actually increase the level of intensity. For example, preventing a protest march from disrupting rush-hour traffic may be realistic, yet attempting to stop the march entirely may be unrealistic because it would precipitate disorder or even violence.

Washington, D.C. police, supported by National Guard and Federal troops, took action to maintain traffic flow during the disruptions of May 3, 1971. Dissident leaders had laid elaborate plans to prevent government workers from reaching their offices by blocking main traffic arteries, bridges, or circles. Their strategy became effective on the previous day, Sunday, May 2, 1971, when a large force of D.C. Police cleared the staging grounds (East Potomac Park) to "disorganize" the traffic disruptors. They simultaneously cleared the city of those who had come only for the weekend's rock concert and who had no intention of staying for the disruption. Choosing the early morning for their move, the police caught the demonstrators unprepared and succeeded in clearing the area. This seemingly threw demonstrators off balance and gave police and troops the opportunity to minimize the number of present disruptors the following morning. Had they attempted to arrest the entire conglomeration, thus preventing any possibility of traffic tieup (other than normal), a larger scale disorder might have ensued. Had no attempt to influence the situation been made, the resulting havoc might have been costly. The mass arrest procedures used the following morning, however, were probably dysfunctional in view of their social costs.

INTENSITY REDUCTION

To further illustrate how this arbitrary point of "lowest realistic level of intensity" can be determined, the following are some intensity reduction steps:

1. Assess the current (or probable) intensity level of the confrontation.
2. Determine the highest level of "acceptable" intensity (above which any greater intensity would be unacceptable or intolerable to the endangered institution or community).
3. Determine the lowest level of "attainable" intensity (below which any further reduction attempts would likely be dysfunctional.)
4. Establish a "realistic" management goal somewhere in between (preferably approaching the lowest level yet allowing some safety margin above the level of potential dysfunction.)

There are two "keys" to intensity reduction which must be understood: It is relative, and it is a compromise. That it is relative to the situation or threat is evident. The establishment of any intensity reduction goal is valid only for that particular disorder and the conditions peculiar to it. The actual determination of each disorder's upper limits of acceptable intensity or lower limits of attainable intensity will vary greatly. A level of disruption that may be tolerated on a college campus would be totally unacceptable on a military installation. Likewise, the degree of order that may be successfully attained in managing a demonstration by the unpopular American Nazi Party would prove disastrous if applied to a Black Panther rally in Oakland, California.

Intensity reduction is a compromise. The establishment of an intensity reduction goal is essentially a compromise between two extremes: excessive or dysfunctional action, and permissiveness or ineffective action. The control force commander must avoid attempting to attain a degree of control beyond his present capabilities or through provocative measures of force—lest he, in fact, escalate the situation. On the other hand, he must take effective action to insure an acceptable degree of security and continued functioning of the institutions of the disturbed community and to curtail those forms of dissident activity considered "unacceptable." Thus, the establishment of an intensity reduction goal—as an interim measure until the ultimate restoration of social equilibrium can be attained—is a necessary compromise between those two extremes.

ALTERNATIVE TECHNIQUES

The intensity reduction concept allows the control force commander to objectively and analytically evaluate the factors which may influence a confrontation—and its resultant level of intensity. In recent years, much attention has been directed at ways of influencing or manipulating an actual or potential confrontation, in addition to or instead of the application of force. Of particular note are those alternate techniques that have been successfully employed to reduce a confrontation's current or potential intensity level. These include channelization, diversion and cooptation.

Channelization implies an established communications link between the dissident leadership and the control force. Every effort should be made to establish such communication as soon as intelligence units determine that a confrontation is in the planning or development stage. Where the intent and nature of a confrontation is known in advance, pressure may be brought to bear on the dissident leadership to "channel" the confrontation into a more acceptable form. This pressure can be either positive (e.g. offering concessions) or negative (e.g. erecting deterrents).

Diversion, through sponsorship of a "diverting" rock festival for example, has been successful in the past. Where a confrontation is planned or is predictable, action may be taken to "divert" potential participants and/or bystanders from the proposed confrontation site. This diversion may be either direct (e.g. denying access to the confrontation site) or indirect (e.g. promoting an alternative activity of greater interest).

Cooptation may also prove successful and has been a "time honored" technique of defusing protest throughout history. Where an actual or potential confrontation is dependent upon the leadership of a few known individuals, action may be taken to "coopt" that leadership, thereby denying leadership to dissident activities. This action may be overt (e.g., giving dissident leaders "establishment" positions, which coopt their energies) and covert (e.g., infiltrating and clandestinely promoting dissident leaders whose aims and intentions are more acceptable). Other actions are feasible. In our search for confrontation management techniques we are limited only by our imagination and our ability to learn from the experiences of other control forces.

An evaluation of past operations that have proven successful can reveal several general considerations that have proven valuable in obtaining success. Those considerations that have proven importance and the broadest application have been summarized as "confrontation management" principles. The degree of applicability of each principle will vary according to the specific circumstances of each disorder. Each principle must be applied to a given situation, in combination with all other principles, before its relative importance can be assessed. Among these principles are threat awareness, professional imagery, coordinated preparation, supervisory unity, functional responsiveness, objectivity-neutrality, and minimum force. Each will be addressed in turn.

Threat Awareness

Threat awareness can be defined through the simple equation "intelligence plus sensitivity equal threat awareness." The successful and efficient employment of military or police resources is vitally dependent on timely, accurate intelligence. Too often, however, the analysis of civil disorder threats has been predominantly, if not entirely, based on the organization, intention, and activities of the dissidents. Equal attention must be given to how the affected community will respond to dissident actions—and to the reactions of control forces. Sensitivity to the attitudes represented in the community is almost as important as timely and accurate intelligence.

Professional Imagery

During a confrontation, the sympathies of the immediate bystanders and general public become vital. Whereas the dissidents are likely seeking to enlarge participation in the disturbance, control forces must deter the public's involvement. Hence, the predisposition of the public to respect, support, and cooperate with the control forces is a great advantage. Conversely, an unfavorable public image of control forces would increase their problems and abet the dissidents. Police competence is a key aspect of professional imagery. Police officers must perform their jobs with extreme skill and must constantly demonstrate a high level of competence. Police integrity must be above suspicion, and police must be detached from politics and political issues. Identification of the police with one or another faction within the community can only lead to a tarnished professional image. Police officers must stress the public service aspect of their role and can profit by placing emphasis on face-to-face communication within the community they serve. Above all, concrete performance—not rhetoric—will lead to a professional image.

Coordinated Preparation

As with any complex, demanding operation, extensive and continual preparation is required to attain and maintain a state of readiness for successful confrontation management. These operations are particularly difficult because of the diversity of the municipal, county, state, and federal agencies that may be involved and because of the great variety of threats to be encountered. Detailed yet flexible planning thoroughly coordinated with other concerned agencies is a key to preparing for civil disorder. Also of critical importance is training, including individual awareness training, specialized team training, and joint exercises with other departments and agencies.

Supervisory Unity

The employment of diverse forces from different governmental jurisdictions to quell civil disorder poses major supervisory problems. Unlike conventional military operations under a unified command, no single individual is likely to have command or operational control over all the civil and military agencies within the disturbed area. Where unity of command cannot be achieved, supervisory unity should be sought through such techniques as collocation of command and operations centers, integration of communications systems, and delineation of organizational responsibilities. Merger of diverse forces can best be achieved through stress of coordination, cooperation, collocation, and communication.

Functional Responsiveness

Past civil disorders have produced many examples of control force actions which offended or even outraged public sensibilities, usually unintentionally and often illogically. Nevertheless, we have often increased rather than reduced a confrontation's intensity because of the particular technique employed, e.g. electric batons and dogs. Functional responsiveness is, simply stated, logically analysing the cause and effect relationship of a proposed course of action by first defining the desired objective and then selecting "functional responses," i.e., actions which enhance the attainment of that stated objective in terms of either immediate or long-range results. To objectively evaluate the nature of a response and its functionality, one must first accurately define one's objectives. The action taken must be evaluated on the basis of its real contribution to the stated objective. Finally one must ask, "Will this proposed action reduce or escalate the intensity level of the confrontation?" Every effort must be made to avoid actions with high potential for latent dysfunction.

Objectivity-Neutrality

In a free society, the objective of control forces in quelling civil disorder is the restoration of law and order with justice, not the suppression of dissent or the imposition of summary punishment. The conduct of forces must be characterized by emotional objectivity and political neutrality. This outward, visible display of objectivity-neutrality, depite the individual beliefs of the fficers and personal provocations ndured, is particularly important vhe he dissident actions may be xpressly designed to provoke the ype of illegitimate control force re- ction that would radicalize greater upport for their movement. Pro- essional members of control forces nust avoid identification with is- ues and must appear as dispassion- te moderators no matter their po- tical and idealogical beliefs. (A olice officer approached John erry of the Vietnam Veterans gainst the War during a demon- tration and told him, "I think what ou are doing is disgusting." Kerry esponded, "I am glad that you have xpressed your feeling. Now will ou do your duty and protect my ight to demonstrate peacefully.")

inimum Force

The use of force in managing ivil disorder—or any other law en- orc nt operation—must be re- tricted to that degree justified by ecessity. During combat operations, military force is trained and quipped to "destroy" the enemy ith decisive firepower, and very w limitations are placed on the se of force against the opposing med combatants. However, the anagement of civil disorder within he United States is a law enforce- ent operation, whether conducted y military or police forces. The ob- ctive is not to defeat the dissidents t to enforce the law; to restore w and order and to deal with ap- rent law violators through the nstituted judicial system. The use excessive or unnecessary force in elling the disorder may subject e responsible person to civil and/ criminal liability and, further, ay serve to increase public sympa- y for the dissident movement. ch increased public sympathy may el ranks of the dissidents and rther raise the intensity level of e disorder.

Certainly these principles provide no easy solution to the difficult and often dangerous problem of civil disorder. They do provide a basis from which to evaluate preparedness for disorder and a new perspective from which to judge the various options open to those who must face confrontation.

Evaluation of Preparedness

Perhaps we can assist in stimulating the evaluation process by posing the following questions:

1. Is your police intelligence unit adequate to give lead time for handling all but a completely spontaneous disturbance? Is your intelligence unit sensitive to the effect of confrontation on your community?

2. Do you have the flexibility to channelize, coopt, or divert a proposed confrontation?

CRIMINALISTICS

THEORY AND PRACTICE

By Kevin P. O'Brien, Monroe Community College, and Robert C. Sullivan, Sergeant/Supervisor of Chemistry and Instrumentation Sections of New York City Police Crime Laboratory

Foreword by Patrick V. Murphy

From the Holbrook Press Series in Law Enforcement, consulting editor, Vern Folley, Harrisburg Area Community College

NEW—More than 50 photos and drawings illustrate and simplify the best time-proven lab testing techniques for the in-service officer. The initial handling of evidence, crime laboratory processing of evidence and tips for report writing are covered in enough detail to make the book invaluable as a ready reference before court appearance and for the training of laboratory personnel. (Instructor's manual accompanies class-sized adoptions.)

Forensic photography, plaster casts and molds, testing body fluids, examination for arson, narcotics and document tampering, and testifying in court are covered. Appendixes deal with examining marijuana, crime lab equipment and other vital topics. June, 1972, $10.95, est. 320 pp.

3. Is your police department detached from politics and political issues in your community?

4. Do you have an adequate plan to deal with disturbances of any sort?

a. Who has that plan, who is responsible for reviewing it, who is responsible for implementing it?

b. Is the plan merely a local plan or is the plan county-wide or state-wide?

c. Are all persons even remotely to be involved with the control of a disturbance notified of the plan?

5. Do you have the potential problems of jurisdiction clarified?

a. Do the Mayor and the City Commissioners understand their limited roles in the case of a disturbance?

b. Are the jurisdictional lines between the city and the county clear? Who determines policy when the Sheriff's department is called? Your Chief and Manager, or the Sheriff and the Prosecutor? Who?

c. What are the relationships with the State Police? Is there a potential conflict of jurisdiction or policy? What if they want to use gas and our Chief does not?

d. What happens when the National Guard is called in? Who takes command of all the control forces? Do they have powers to arrest?

e. How may a curfew be declared? Do you have the machinery ready to implement a request to the Governor? Can the sale of guns, liquor, and gas be controlled? How wide an area must be included in the declaration of a curfew and ban on sales?

f. Do you have agreements or understandings with the area college about the use of control forces on their campuses? Who orders them on, and who orders them off?

g. Do you have plans for the control of large assemblies of persons on park land or on private land for rock festivals or for Ku Klux Klan meetings?

6. Do you have plans for dealing with bombing attempts (not mere threats) and with attempts to sabotage your public utilities?

7. Is your training designed to foster objectivity-neutrality?

Certainly these questions only touch the surface of the many facets of confrontation management. Consideration of answers to them will help in increasing our skill in the management of disorder and may lead to consideration of alternate means of order maintenance.

In closing, we must emphasize that in our American democracy, the personal freedoms and governmental constraints we value so greatly also serve to protect those who seek to redress their grievances through civil disorder and violence. The challenge we face is not just the maintenance of order but the maintenance of order and liberty. We must insure that the law is effectively and equitably enforced, yet without resort to the diminishment of the very liberties we seek to protect. ★★★

NORTHERN VIRGINIA COMMUNITY COLLEGE

The Police Science Program, Northern Virginia Community College, Central Campus, has arranged with the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs to conduct a three-day course for law enforcement officers on Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. It will be offered Wednesday-Friday April 19–21, 1972, all day, each day.

This offer is in response to many requests made by police officers, and their superior officers for up-to-date information and expert instruction by fully qualified narcotic and drug specialists.

The object of the course is to offer to the field officer instruction and information that will prepare him to do the best job possible as far as narcotics and dangerous drugs are concerned. Pressures on the drugs specialist should be relieved somewhat, and overall efficiency of the department improved. The subject matter to be covered in the course includes: Identification and field testing of drugs such as amphetamines, barbiturates, hallucinogens, marijuana, narcotics and synthetics; Search for the seizure of drugs; Undercover work; National and International Drug Traffic; Philosophical problems related to marijuana and other drugs. A variety of visual and sensory aids and teaching methods will be used. Films, printed matter and sample demonstrations of odor and smoke will be included. There will be ample time for questions and answers.

It is suggested that participants come prepared to take notes so that they can refresh their memories on the content of the course as the need might arise. A brief but comprehensive quiz will be included in the course. Persons may attend all or parts of the seminar. Awards of completion will be issued to those who successfully complete the entire course.

Fee: $4.00. Enrollment will be limited; Reservations for tickets will be handled in order of receipt. To assure admission please register by April 5, 1972. Please pay by check or money order payable to Northern Virginia Community College. For further information, contact Professor Lander C. Hamilton, Head, Police Science Program, Central Campus, Northern Virginia Community College, 8333 Little River Turnpike, Annandale, Virginia 22003. (703–280,4000 Ext. 266)

[illegible] and the Police Officer

By Alan J. Schwartz

About the Author. Alan J. Schwartz is Associate Professor of Speech Communication at Iona College in New Rochelle, New York. He holds degrees from the University of Connecticut, Temple University, and New York University. He has taught in the City University of New York, Dowling College and Iona. He has consulted in communication to industry and lectured to police training academies and workshops for the past 10 years. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the New York State Speech Association and former President of the New York State Debate Association.

Dr. Schwartz is also a poet and lives with his wife, a remedial reading specialist, and their five children on a small farm north of New York City. He is the son of Captain Philip Schwartz (ret.), former Chief of Detectives, Connecticut State Police, and former President of the Harvard Associates in Police Science.

It is a large mistake for a police officer to say that he is "like everyone else." He isn't. He is a special person. He is a special communicator. Much of the fate of today's society rests upon the communicative ability of the police officer. If that statement appears too simple, or if the words "communicative ability" have been used too casually, then some analysis is necessary concerning the special problems facing human beings as they grope toward each other in often vain attempts to communicate in today's society.

While many individuals and groups hold to value structures which have been traditional for many years, society on the whole is at present going through transitions having to do with other value considerations. These are causing many and varied anxieties. A police officer approached me after a class session some months ago to remark, "I can't get through to the kid on the street. What do you do when everything has failed?" Some discussion of what he meant when he said that "everything" had failed disclosed that his technique for communication had been that form of speaker-audience function wherein the motives of the one speaking had been to convince or persuade his audience about certain issues. This corresponded to the traditional method in oral discourse which is taught wherever there is education in public speaking.

Whereas most crisis-communication today seeks to express a point of view, little of it is concerned with pure understanding of the inner workings of other human beings. Those inner workings could literally be called churnings. The individual in today's society, whether he be "over thirty" or a "long hair," is beset by churnings. A national poll-taker recently published a list of more than a dozen areas considered by people to be problems. They included Vietnam, the economic situation, drugs, race relations, crime, protests, and poverty, to name a few. Problems as crucial as these, compounded together, have brought about what might be termed a gigantic nervous-breakdown in the United States. This nervous-breakdown has manifested itself in a number of ways. The most visible have been overt acts of violence and anguish, often pointless, often causing injury and death. The most invisible has been the turning inward to seek kinds of self-escape, often in drugs, often in a rejection of the concept of work for wages, often in intense paranoia. In these and other manifestations, there is a rejection of the traditional concept of authority and authority-symbols.

It seems only natural, therefore, to assume that the highly visible symbol of order and law enforcement in our society, the uniformed police officer, should fall victim to the overt results of our nervous breakdown—and, of course, he has.

It is not the intent of this article to argue that the police officer does not have the same anxieties as the rest of society. It is, likewise, not an intent to argue that the donning of a police uniform automatically endows its wearer with powers of insight above and beyond mortal man. It is, however, the crux of this paper to point out that each police officer must acquire important skills in dealing with human beings to be effective in his job. Also, he must have a knowledge of humanity and especially himself far beyond the average citizen's. It is only in this way that he can develop the ability to communicate with people rather than speak at them.

This intensive training and education should follow three paths, understanding self, understanding others, and seeking to communicate effectively with others. The problem with understanding self is that one tends to sees himself as two people. The first is that kind of person he knows he can be but never quite seems to arrive there, and the second is composed of those perceptions acquired by our relationships with other people. These perceptions become valid when tested by actual experiences. The man who experiences fear when rescuing someone from a burning building but nevertheless performs the act flawlessly has settled an important question about his ability to act in certain crisis situations. The need for the director in the theatre has often been explained along the lines that he provides a single image of action on the stage to the audience. The actor cannot see himself perform and therefore has difficulty in really knowing how he appears on the stage. If we are to understand ourselves as humans, we must continually receive reports and direction from others about ourselves. The police officer must understand the concept of changing personality in the many roles that he plays. Depending on the situations with which he comes into contact, he must realize that not only is he a man of flexible behavior, but those with whom he communicates also face the same personality changes. To one having difficulty with these changing roles, all long haired individuals appear as hippies, and all blacks hate cops.

It is no secret that to be able to understand and communicate with other human beings one must attempt to perceive them as they perceive themselves. The current trend toward group and encounter sessions among professions, including police departments, is at least a healthy sign that some techniques are being attempted to reveal personalities. There has long been that variable of value structure that looked upon any disclosure of inner self as the worst invasion of personal privacy. This is still primarily the case. However, in order to be completely successful in communication, both sides must reveal some of themselves to the other. The police officer must reveal his humanity in all of his communications with the society he serves. The disclosures are not as naive as it first may seem. Revealing one's attitudes, likes, dislikes, loves, hates, and self-perceptions fill in the whole man. The image may be strong enough, for example, to overshadow a one dimensional image of the term "pig-cop" coming from some quarters of society. It should be remembered, at this point, that we are concerned with better and more effective communication between the police officer and the public. There is something wrong with the police officer who reveals that he beats up anyone who resists arrest, because he "knows" that the suspect will soon be out on the street again (due to the court system) and a potential danger source to him. If society subscribes to this kind of solution for its law enforcement problems, then it may be almost too late to take a step back to consider the kinds of suggestions in this paper.

The third path involves the active effort of welcoming every chance to engage in human communication. The seeking of opportunities to communicate and/or communication situations can only add to those inner resources of the human personality which help messages to be received humanely. There must be desire. The police officer who feels that he can do a more professional job by communicating more effectively but has no real desire to interact with other human beings—and goes about trying to perform those technical variables which are supposed to help communication—is indulging in self delusion. With real desire, there should be an acute sense of the observation of human nature. "People watching" and being able to draw valid conclusions from what one observes is part of the effort involved in communication. A true feeling of belonging to those very people he is sworn to protect can allow a sense of warmth to accompany a police officer's communication. A sense of transmitted warmth can move mountains.

As a beginning, the police officer should consider four areas of human communication. These considerations should come into play automatically when he is faced with a communicative situation. They are: (1) the people; (2) the overall situation; (3) the words, and (4) the obstacles to communication. Considering the first area, a police officer must look inside the people with whom he comes into contact. This is not just to ascertain their potential for doing him personal harm, but should involve a desire to know them, their hopes and fears. They constitute his flock and his brethren. There are bumper stickers which display the sentiment that those who do not respect the police officer should call a "hippy" in times of trouble. There is a subliminal sentiment here. If one assumes that the police officer remains an authority symbol and not a human being to people, then the sentiment expressed in the bumper sticker indicates that the same is true in reverse. Many men indicate that they have tried to communicate themselves to people only to meet unreasoned antagonism. The answer is that the police officer is a special person, and this specialness requires him to have a sense of patience, kindness, and understanding far beyond the average citizen. It isn't easy, but then again, whoever said the job was going to be!

The overall situation concerns the reason for the communicative situation. Why has this gathering, whether it is composed of two people or two hundred come about? It may be a confrontation situation or it may be a speaker-audience experience concerning traffic safety. One should be aware that his personality cannot be generally communicated the same way to mature adults as to children under twelve. This also applies to ethnic groups other than his own. The dictionary defines tact as "a keen sense of what to do or to say to keep good relations with others or avoid offense." No one could put it better.

It is often said that talk is cheap. More often, however, it is too expensive. A college professor at an all-black institution in the South used a common classroom term, "you people," to a class in speech communication. The result eventually led to the teacher's resignation from the school. The term was derogatory to the black students. Upon investigation it is found that the term symbolized an inferiority that was difficult if not impossible to take. The psychology behind this term must be viewed from the black point of view. It makes no difference to the white man. He is not involved. Words can be deadly. Certainly the police officer comes into contact with epithets which cause the hairs on his backbone to stand on end. Training and education into semantics, the power of words, and the analysis of their function in the human society should be a requisite for all men who wear a badge. There must be education, for the job is a special one, and only in rare cases can it be handled by those not aware of its specialities.

Often the answer to a "good morning!" greeting can signify whether the respondent is in a good or bad humor, whether he is sick or well, and whether he is worried or free from tensions. The tension-ridden individual can be an obstacle to communication. A judge with an upset stomach can be an overwhelming obstacle to a sincere motorist who pleads "guilty with explanation" to a traffic ticket. The uniform is often a visible obstacle to communication. White versus black in any situation can be an obstacle to communication. Today, the young present their youth and modes of dress and behavior as obstacles to communication. The list could go on. The point is that the police officer is a special person. He must, by training and education into the psychology of human communication, be able to cope with these problems.

So it goes on! The crisis-communication which confronts today's police officer is unique in history. The revolution in communications has equalized the flow of information in this country. The illiterate sharecropper who lives in squalor may still have a television set and view the same messages as the Wall Street broker in his Park Avenue apartment. People are different and react to situations differently. We think nothing of a television series which depicts a middle class family with all the niceties; the ghetto resident thinks long on these things.

The words used is today's mass communications are the words of the educated minority. The obstacles provoked by these variables often find their way to the lap of the police officer. How he has been educated to deal with these things may well determine how a large chunk of the future of our society goes. This article has merely touched lightly on communicative matters which should be of grave concern to every law enforcement training facility in our nation. ***

TV MAKING PEOPLE MORE AWARE OF CIVIL RIGHTS, BUT IT ALSO CREATES NEW PROBLEMS FOR POLICE

Televison is making citizens more aware of their civil rights when they meet up with the law, but it is also posing new headaches for the police, TV Guide magazine reported in its December 18 issue.

TV producers, on the other hand, are now much more knowledgeable in the area of civil rights and go to great efforts to assure that characters featured in crime dramas do not have their rights abused.

This new emphasis on civil rights has presented major problems for police throughout the United States and Canada. "Now your TV cops are supercorrect," said a veteran policeman. He noted that in the 1960s many police officers felt they were not being depicted correctly on TV. Resultant protests to TV producers help to correct the condition.

"Punks aren't scared of cops anymore. Every punk we pick up thinks he knows more law than we do . . . . thinks he knows a little loophole," the officer said.

Network officials admit they have a special concern that crime shows include this awareness of civil rights. "This new concern over civil rights in our shows may be a nuisance to the police, but it's a necessary nuisance," said Herb Schlosser, West Coast programming chief for NBC.

Edwin T. Vane, program chief for ABC's nighttime shows, said that previously people seldom questioned a policeman's role on TV. "Everybody figured his means were justified. There was no awareness of a need for accuracy. We carefully checked doctor shows for accuracy, but not crime shows. Nobody cared. But now all that has changed," Vane said.

The shift has presented major problems for writers, who formerly had wider literary range in doing crime dramas. E. Arthur Kean, a 20-year writing veteran and currently a writer for Hawaii Five-O, said it was a lot easier in the old days.

"Today I get so worried about legal accuracy that I generally check my scripts with at least three different police departments. Often a civil-rights point will turn up and explode what was a good story," Kean said.

VI. LAW ENFORCEMENT ASSISTANCE ACT GRANT

A grant of approximately $400,000 has been received from LEAA by Miami Beach for preparation, research, training, equipment, and necessary services in connection with the DNC.

See copy of LEAA grant attached.

VII. POLICE MANPOWER COMMITMENT

Police will work on 12-hour shifts, and will be available for assignment from July 5 through August 25.

Manpower commitments at present are as follows:

Miami Beach	150 - out of 250 man force
Miami	100 - out of 705 man force
Public Safety	100 - out of 1000 man force
Florida Highway Patrol	250 - out of 1000 man force
Miscellaneous Florida Officers
Beverage Department	50
Marine Patrol	50
Fish and Wildlife	50
Total	750
Florida National Guard	Size - Statewide	8000
Dade County contingent	Size	1000

It is not planned to have the National Guard in readiness at any obvious site near the convention area.

VIII. POLICE PLANNING

STAFF MEETINGS - LIAISON

Since early March, 1972, a convention planning staff meeting has been held during the morning hours of every second Friday, in a conference room at the Garden Center, Convention Complex.

This meeting has been attended, on almost all occasions, by representatives of the following agencies:

Chief of Police ROCKY POMERANCE, Chairman, and aides
Dade County Department of Public Safety
Miami Police Department
Florida Highway Patrol
Florida Marine Patrol
Dade County Department of Corrections & Rehabilitation
Florida Bureau of Law Enforcement
Florida State Attorney's Office
Florida National Guard
U. S. Attorney's Office
Andy Frain Service
Secret Service

INTELLIGENCE

On mornings of alternating Fridays, an intelligence group meets at the same place to receive and disseminate information concerning protest activity being planned by various organizations. This is composed of the following:

Miami Beach Police Department, Chairman
Miami Police Department
Dade County Department of Public Safety
Florida Highway Patrol
Florida Bureau of Law Enforcement
Secret Service
FBI

Oral information in summary form concerning various groups, and important figures, planning protest activity, from all areas of the country.

Written descriptions and photographs of prominent new left figures and fugitives who possibly, or probably, will travel to this area and engage in protest or violence.

IX. PROGRESS - STAFF PLANNING

Since March, the general staff meetings have considered various plans dealing with security and handling protest activity in connection with the DNC.

With the acceptance by the RNC of Miami Beach as its convention site also, problems have been enlarged to the extent that much of the previous planning with respect to the DNC will have to be escalated.

In fact, Chief POMERANCE announced at the meeting on May 12, 1972, that this would be considered Meeting #1, and in itself would not be of much benefit, since discussions are currently underway in Washington this weekend between the Governor and administration officials with respect to enlarged responsibilities and problems incident to the RNC moving here.

During the meetings to date with respect to the DNC, the following subjects have been discussed, and, in some cases, partly implemented:

A. COMMUNICATIONS - CONVENTION COMPLEX

Command Post in southwest basement of auditorium in convention complex will be manned by representatives of all interested agencies, including Secret Service and FBI, in adjoining offices readily available for the quick receipt and exchange of vital information.

IBM terminal being installed to link Command Post with NCIC and Florida CIC.

Miami Beach furnishing to each agency at Command Post two Xerox telecopiers, one for use at convention site, and one installed in office of respective agencies.

B. NAME CHECKS - FINGERPRINTING

Fingerprint and name checks of Convention workers, service employees, or hotels where candidates and delegates will be housed, is being handled directly by Secret Service through FBI headquarters in Washington.

C. MASS ARRESTS, IDENTIFYING PRISONERS, TRANSPORTING, AND HOLDING

Persons arrested will be taken to Miami Beach Parks Department compound, Dade Boulevard and Meridien Avenue. They will be fingerprinted and photographed there with arresting officer; then transported to Dade County Jail, 1321 Northwest 13th Street, Miami, by Department of Corrections personnel. Dade County Senior Circuit Court Judge THOMAS E. LEE, JR. is coordinating handling of persons arrested with Captain [redacted] Supervisor, Operations Division, Dade County Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation. Judge LEE has arranged for several courtrooms in the Justice Building, adjacent to the jail, to be open on 24-hour basis. Subjects will be arraigned as speedily as possible. Those bonded out will be immediately released. Those males pleading guilty will be sent to the Dade County Stockade, 6950 Northwest 41st Street (capacity 875). Females will be sent to City of Miami Jail, 1145 Northwest 11th Stteet, which shortly will be under the jurisdiction of Dade County Department of Corrections and Rehabilitations.

Persons held for trial will be assigned as follows:

Males - Dade County Jail (capacity 1000)

Females - Miami City Jail (capacity 500)

Juveniles - Kendall Hall, 8500 Southwest 107th Avenue) (capacity 200)

b6
b7C

In case of mass arrests, where above facilities become over-crowded, City of Miami Stadium, 2301 Northwest Tenth Avenue (Capacity 20,000) will be used as temporary holding facility.

Overall problem under continuous study for additional alternate sites.

D. ARREST POWERS OF LOCAL AND OUT-OF-COUNTY OFFICERS

Being researched by [redacted] State Attorney's Office, Director of Dade County Department of Public Safety is empowered to, and has consented to, deputize all officers, if necessary.

E. ARREST FORMS

Prisoner Control Handbook of Department of Public Safety being furnished all agencies. Washington, D. C. field arrest forms being altered to best fit needs of this area.

F. CRIMINAL JUSTICE COMMITTEE

Committees of local jurists will have office in Convention Complex to be immediately available for consultation. No ordinary criminal cases being scheduled during conventions in order that officers will be free for convention duty.

G. CURFEW ORDINANCE

Being explored and reviewed by State Attorney's Office.

H. SECURITY OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

Members to initiate in own jurisdictions.

I. TACTICAL TRAINING FOR CROWD CONTROL

Miami Beach and other police agencies will receive, probably in secluded area of Homestead Air Force Base, for purpose of avoiding adverse publicity.

J. POLICE UNIFORMS

Miami Beach Police Department will wear long-sleeved white shirts for appearance and protection from sun. Suggested other agencies do likewise.

Batons in retaining rings to be carried. Helmet use tentative, contingent upon conditions.

K. BOMB THREATS

Chief Pomerance, [redacted] of Secret Service, [redacted] of Andy Frain Service, and [redacted] of DNC, to be informed of all threats, and will evaluate. Pomerance has final responsibility for ordering evacuation of hall. b6 b7C

Bomb trailer and bomb silo will be available for disposal of any object believed to be a bomb found on convention site.

Explosives ordnance experts will be available at all times on convention site.

L. TEAR GAS

Secret Service researching methods, filters, to protect air conditioning intake at convention hall.

M. CIVIL DEFENSE CENTER

Dade County Department of Public Safety plans to have Civil Defense Center open around the clock during conventions. This Center will be available for mobilization in event of any disaster.

N. DEMONSTRATION AREA

A two city block area in length, and six vehicle traffic lanes in width, on Washington Avenue, between 18th and 20th Streets, Miami Beach, located immediately in front of the Convention Hall, has been set aside for protest demonstrations.

This area is fenced off from the Convention Complex by a chain link fence, the fence being attractively camouflaged by large decorative bushes.

AMUSEMENT AREA

The DNC will operate at the South Beach Recreational Center, located on the ocean beach, one square block in area, an amusement center, with rock and country music being supplied around the clock.

FORUM AND CAMP SITES

The following sites are tentatively being given consideration as forum and/or camp sites for protest groups coming to this area:

			DISTANCE TO CONVENTION COMPLEX
Lummus Park Miami Beach	Forum site for dialogue and meetings	Size - 2 city blocks	1/4 mi.
Flamingo Park Miami Beach	Same	Size - 10 city blocks	1 mi.
Miami Beach Sr. High School - rear Miami Beach	Same	Size - 8 city blocks	600 ft.
Watson Island McArthur Causeway Miami	Forum and possibly camp site	Size - 40 acres	5 1/2 mi.
Virginia Key Beach Park Rickenbacker Causeway Dade County (south)	Camp site (This causeway leads to Key Biscayne, where Presidential compound located)	Size - 30 acres	14 mi.
Interama site Dade County (north)	Camp site	Size - 680 acres cleared and filled	9 mi.

The Manager of Dade County, during the week of May 7, 1972, announced that Dade County probably will be willing to supply food, medical supplies, and sanitary facilities at the camp sites finally selected.

See map for locations of sites.

O. RUMOR CONTROL (INFORMATION CENTER)
COMMUNITY RELATIONS SERVICE

Representatives of the Community Relations Service, Department of Justice, appeared before the Staff Meeting on May 12, 1972, explained the workings of their service, and offered their cooperation, which it would appear may be accepted.

OVER-ALL ASSESSMENT

A peaceful RNC will depend to a large degree upon the progress of the current administration in ending our involvement in Southeast Asia. Our Vietnam involvement is the mass base upon which the larger coordinating groups is totally dependent for support, and thus the degree to which the administration lessens this involvement will determine the degree to which their mass support is lessened.

If our Vietnam invoevement is totally ended at the time of the RNC, we can anticipate support for planned mass demonstrations will not be forthcoming, and the numerical strength of the participants will be minimal.

With the scheduling of the DNC and RNC in the same locality, the smaller DNC demonstrations will obviously become a "warm-up" for the RNC. It is felt thw DNC will generally be peaceful, based upon the following indicators:

(1) The main thrust of planned mass protest activity is directed against policies of the incumbent party rather than the Democratic Party.

(2) Larger coordinating groups have indicated they will attempt to keep the DNC peaceful, since it will not be "the main show".

(3) Students in South Florida are generally apathetic and non-violent. For example, the country's most widely known protest leaders, JERRY RUBIN and ABBIE HOFFMAN appeared at the University of Miami on May 12, 1972, drew a crowd of no more than one thousand students, despite the fact they were accompanied by two popular movie stars.

With the advent of the RNC, Miami Beach Chief of Police ROCKY POMERANCE has stated the manpower available to him for policing duties is far below that which he feels necessary. He has pointed out San Diego had a commitment of 7,000 uniformed officers to assure security in that city, while Miami Beach, at the present, has a commitment of some 750 officers. He feels a minimum of 5,000 police personnel, both uniformed and non-uniformed, will be necessary to assure control in the event of any disruption during the convention periods and the intervening time. Chief POMERANCE is an experienced, professional, police administrator, and it is believed his assessment is accurate. Thus, manpower is a critical issue, and Chief POMERANCE's success in obtaining additional manpower will be a factor in maintaining an orderly convention.

Criticism has been directed at police personnel during previous conventions for their "abrasive" attitude, and considerable emphasis has been placed upon overcoming this attitude in preparing for the 1972 conventions at Miami Beach. Current training sessions place maximum emphasis on behavioral sciences and humane crowd control, thus training the officers to cope with potential disorder without abrasiveness and violent confrontation. This method of police instruction, which should go far in overcoming potential disorder, is directly attributable to the policies of Chief ROCKY POMERANCE, who himself will be a great factor in maintaining order.

Chief POMERANCE is an experienced police officer, well known for his charisma and humane attitude. He has already gained the attention and respect of dissident leaders throughout the country by his public statements guaranteeing police cooperation and no police interference with their legitimate right to dissent. In return he has requested, and has received through public statements, the assurance of demonstration leaders that a peaceful attitude will prevail. It is felt Chief POMERANCE's attitude and his rapport with dissident leaders will greatly assist in promoting a peaceful atmosphere at convention time.

The area of Flamingo Park in Miami was observed [redacted] during the day and early evening, and there was no dissemble activities indicating violence was eminent at that time. An individual was encountered there whose name was believed to be [redacted] This individual identifying himself as the individual who had previously attended a Miami City Council meeting and during the meeting hit a councilman in the face with a pie. [redacted] indicated that no one at Flamingo Park seemed to be interested in engaging in any activities on that occasion.

During the evening of [redacted] and morning hours of July 12, 1972, a house occupied by a number of zippies was observed. The house was in the Coconut Grove section of Miami. There was a large number of individuals there, among whom were TOM FORCADE, [redacted] and another individual who appeared to be very influential in the zippies. This individual was [redacted] Someone indicated during the evening that the residence in Coconut Grove had been rented by TOM FORCADE. b6 b7C b7D

FORCADE and [redacted] were heard discussing the lack of their ability to promote any activities at the Miami Convention. They both lamented the fact that those individuals who had arrived in Miami to participate in these activities, had become, instead, enmeshed in the drug culture of Miami.

FORCADE at one point suggested the possibility of driving an old car into one of the gates of the convention hall at Miami Beach. This idea was brought to the attention of those at the house and it was overwhelmingly rejected.

[redacted] appeared to be the individual in charge of organizing activities surrounding the convention. [redacted] and FORCADE were also heard to remark that the zippies had devoted too much energy toward internal feuding with ABBIE HOFFMAN and JERRY RUBIN. FACADE was overheard saying that he was purposly initiating a rumor at Flamingo Park in an effort to damage the reputation of JERRY RUBIN among young people there. The rumor was that RUBIN was working with the establishment press, including television so that he, RUBIN, will be b6 b7C able to realize personal profit from his connections with the press, and the possibility that he will be able to be able to publish information concerning his experiences in Miami. When the rumor started by FORCADE involved a report that RUBIN and HOFFMAN had made a secret aggreement with presidential candidate GEORGE MC GOVERN to keep the Democratic National Convention quiet and nonviolent.

FORCADE has been in no contact with anyone in St. Petersburg since the Democratic National Convention.

LEE SANDERS who has had some prior contact with FORCADE is believed to be working as a truck driver with the Blue Bird Ice Cream Company of St. Petersburg. b6 b7C [redacted] has been seen and she has indicated that she has not seen [redacted] in a considerable length of time. She was evasive as to the exact period of time, however. Also, one of [redacted] former close friends, [redacted] St. Petersburg, was spoken to about [redacted] has not seen [redacted] for four or five years.

THOMAS KING FORCADE
SECURITY MATTERS - REVOLUTIONARY ACTIVITIES

The Youth International Party (YIP), also known as YIPPIES, is a loosely knit anti-establishment revolutionary youth organization formed in New York City in January, 1968. Following a factional dispute in May, 1972, the YIP divided into two factions; the YIPPIES, headed by a YIP collective; and the ZIPPIES, headed by THOMAS KING FORCADE, a member of the Underground Press Syndicate.

[redacted] Tactical Investigation Section, Dade County Public Safety Department, stated that he recalls during the demonstrations which took place toward the end of the Republican Convention, one THOMAS KING FORCADE was arrested. [redacted] stated that it was on August 23, 1972 that he, [redacted] was in the area of the Convention Hall, specifically in the section of the Lincoln Mall and Meridian Avenue, and that demonstrations were going on. He stated as close as he could recall between 4:00 and 6:00 p.m. or so a zippie sound truck drove up. He described this truck as a rental truck, open stake body, one and one-half tons. He said the driver was TOM FORCADE and that there were 11 demonstrators in the back of the truck and three in front. He said the truck was stopped and TOM FORCADE arrested. He stated that in connection with the truck, three items were found; one big can described as an "All State Oil" can, but which did not contain oil and had some kind of inflammable liquid. Three small incendiary devices; one a vegetable can with a wax-like material in it with a wick coming out; the other two were smaller cans with a wax-like material with a match-type item sticking out. [redacted] advised that due to the fact there were so many people in the truck it was not believed that TOM FORCADE should be charged in any way as to the incendiary devices and subsequently FORCADE was actually arrested and charged with improper change of lane, impeding traffic and no valid driver's license. He stated the arresting officer was [redacted] of the Central District Motorcycle Division, Dade County Public Safety Department, Miami, Florida. [redacted] said further that he believed either [redacted] or possibly both may have examined the incendiary devices and he stated these two persons were employed in the Crime Laboratory, Bomb Section, Dade County Public Safety Department. [redacted] said that he, [redacted] did not write up a report on this matter and he did not know whether or not any mention of the incendiary devices was made by Officer [redacted] who arrested FORCADE on the traffic charges.

[redacted] Clerk, Metro Court, Dade County, advised that Florida Uniform Traffic Citation number 605379 indicated THOMAS KING FORCADE received a citation at 6:40 p.m. on August 23, 1972. FORCADE at the time was driving a vehicle described as an International 2½-ton truck, yellow in color, a Hertz truck rental bearing 1973 Florida license 1Y4372. It also had a notation "Meridian Avenue and Lincoln Lane, north bound". On the citation itself, the charge was no valid driver's license and the Officer, [redacted] Attached to this citation was an arrest form reflecting case number 140355-Q, Jail number 28902 for THOMAS KING FORCADE, born September 11, 1945 at Haywood, California. The arrest form reflected the arrest date as August 23, 1972, time-6:40 p.m., location-Meridian Avenue and Lincoln Lane, and note taken to D. C. Jail. The offenses charged were improper change of lane, impeding traffic and no valid driver's license. The complaint form on the back listed "bond, $1,000" with the date, August 24, 1972. The complaint was signed [redacted]

[redacted] Central District Motorcycle Division, Dade County Public Safety Department, advised that on August 23, 1972, he was on the Convention Detail at Miami Beach, Florida. He said he was working in the area of the Convention Hall and Meridian Avenue and Lincoln Road. He said that lat in the afternoon he was on his motorcycle going southbound when he observed a truck coming toward him. He said the truck was on the wrong side of the road and consequently he waived it down and pulled over in front of it. He said that as he did so he observed some individuals described as young persons jumping off the truck as if to run. He said several of the persons in the truck had sticks with some types of flags on them. He described the truck as a rental truck 2½-ton flat bed stake type. He said after stopping the truck he went up to the driver and asked him to step out and show him his driver's license. Upon this, the driver did get out and told him he did not have a driver's license and consequently placed him under arrest. He said that immediately after this person got out of the truck he saw a white female who apparently had been sitting in the cab in the front and between her feet there was some type of a can. He said there were two other cans on the seat of the truck. He said these cans were taken from the truck and subsequently identified by him as the arresting officer. He said he recalled the three cans had some kind of "wicks" in them. He said that motorcycle officers [redacted] had also pulled up when he had stopped this truck. Officer [redacted] said he looked over the truck and found a gas can full of gas on the floor just behind the cab on the driver's side. He said further there were some speakers and other things of that nature in the back of the truck. He advised that it was hard to recall that possibly there may have been 12 to 14 kids in the back of the truck originally and he believed some of the kids had jumped off and he said definitely three people had been sitting in the cab. He said that he subsequently turned over the "gas can" and the three cans having some type of wicks over to [redacted] Crime Lab, Bomb Section, Dade County Public Safety Department. He stated that he cited the driver of the truck on three traffic charges which were improper change of lane, impeding traffic and no valid driver's license. He said the

Tom Forcade

Tom Forcade dealt hard drugs and strung out a local organizer for the VVAW. This Vietnam Veteran under heavy drug influence talked with the police five hours conjuring up false tales about the veterans.

This man uses his ample money and drugs to control people. His actions have been disruptive and suspiscious. It is wise to avoid him.

GOP meddled in our convention, Democrats charge

By RICK EYERDAM
Miami News Tallahassee Bureau

TALLAHASSEE — Richard Murphy, convention manager for the 1972 Democratic Convention, told The Miami News today that despite his objections political appointees of President Nixon were intimately involved in security and intelligence operations relating to the Democrats.

And he claimed that Republican Party officials were given information, not made available to the Democrats, that could have been used against his party.

Murphy said he became increasingly apprehensive about security arrangements in the wake of Watergate when he learned how many close Nixon associates were in key positions of power in planning for the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach.

"It shocked me that so many people from the Justice Department came from the Nixon campaign or went to the Nixon campaign," he said. "It was like the same operation was being transferred across the street."

Murphy ultimately banned all Nixon appointees from the Convention Center Complex, saying he did not want any man whose job depended on the reelection of the President involved in the Democratic Convention.

Nevertheless, the Nixon Administration kept a tight control on all aspects of convention security and intelligence with former Republican campaign officials and appointees in charge of intelligence gathering and in control of local preparations.

The Associated Press reported yesterday that FBI agents and informers infiltrated the leadership of many non-delegate groups that demonstrated at the convention and took part in the planning and policy decisions of the groups.

The report adds a new dimension to the increasing involvement of the Justice Department and the Nixon campaign in the affairs of the Democrats.

This team of agents was said to have reported to then-Attorney General Richard Kleindienst through former acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray in the presence of Robert Mardian, a member of the Republican campaign staff.

Justice Department officials admitted Mardian's presence but insisted that the Democrats were also given the information.

Murphy disagreed. "The whole record of the Justice Department was one of complete noncooperation," he said. "They never checked with us or gave us a briefing. They never told us of their operation or information.

"The Justice Department, unlike the Secret Service, was uncooperative and mysterious," he said.

Murphy said he was concerned for the internal security of the Democratic Party and concerned that the Republicans were in a position to order strong action against the decidedly pro-McGovern demonstrators, thereby embarrassing the party and injuring the image of the candidate.

"I do strongly suspect that they had plans to bug every one of our phones, but I think they were scared off by Watergate," he said.

Since the convention several persons involved in the Justice Department security planning and intelligence at the time have been linked to attempts at political espionage against the Democrats or a coverup or that espionage campaign.

This is the cast of characters involved in convention security:

- Richard Kleindienst, recently a victim of the rash of Watergate-related resignations, was attorney general in charge of the Justice Department.

His office gathered all the information on nondelegate activities and granted funds to local officials for security preparations through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the Justice Department.

- Robert Mardian who until March of 1972 served as an assistant attorney general in charge of the Internal Security Division of the Justice Department. This division has as it prime responsibility the prosecution of cases related to national security, such as the Pentagon Papers case.

And, according to Justice Department officials, the ISD also functions "as an information unit which monitors potential civil disturbances."

When asked how the division monitored the potential troublemakers, a Justice Department spokesman said, "It collects information about what people are saying and doing, sometimes after the fact, sometimes before the fact."

Mardian left the Justice Department to join former Attorney General John Mitchell on the staff of the Committee to Reelect the President.

Mardian was the man dispatched by Mitchell the night of the Watergate break-in to do an investigation of other staff members at the Nixon campaign on possible further involvement.

Mardian returned with an unqualified opinion that no other campaign staff members were involved in the Watergate incident.

Mardian also has been linked in the press with efforts to dispose of evidence linking the Nixon campaign organization to the Watergate incident. He has already testified before the Watergate grand jury.

Mardian was replaced at ISD by A. William Olsen, but continued to have access to intelligence reports gathered by the FBI, the Army and the Justice Department on the problems facing the Democratic Convention.

● G. Gordon Liddy, who — at the same time Mardian was on the staff of the Nixon campaign committee and receiving security information — was heading up an organization of unofficial spies for the Republican Party.

Liddy's attorney admitted in court that his client headed up an unofficial intelligence-gathering operation for the Republicans.

"We don't take issue with the fact that Liddy was the boss," defense attorney Peter Maroulis said. But he contended that Liddy was involved in legitimate information-gathering including a warning of potential violence, which led to the transfer of the Republican Convention from San Diego to Miami.

"It was a very important decision to move that convention," Maroulis said, "and that was done on information from my client."

Liddy has since been convicted in the Watergate spying operation and has been implicated in the break-in at the office of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

● Harlington Wood, who was the senior civilian representative of the U.S. government during the convention. He was in charge of the ISD and in charge of the "Community Relations Division" assigned to the conventions.

Wood, according to Edgar Dunn, legal counsel to Florida Gov. Reubin Askew and top state civilian convention security officer, had the ultimate decision-making responsibility for the Justice Department short of calling in federal troops.

"Everything the Justice Department did during the conventions it did through Wood," Dunn said.

It was Wood and Olsen who were banned from the convention facilities by Murphy after Watergate when Murphy charged that they had made reservations in the Di Lido Hotel under assumed names in a suite belonging to the Longshoremen's Association.

The Di Lido was the base for the Alabama delegation.

The Community Relations Division, according to the Justice Department, "was charged with monitoring socially tense situations and diffusing them."

Wood was an employe of the Republican National Committee from 1964 through 1969 in charge of "ballot security."

And he was security chief for the 1968 Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

He was appointed assistant attorney general shortly after Nixon's election in 1968.

Said Murphy, "They wanted to have a command post in the Convention Hall, but they never checked in with us and never told us about their operation.

"We wanted to have the information from the Justice Department through the FBI and the Secret Service, but their attitude, with the exception of the Secret Service, was one of absolute noncooperation."

Dunn admitted that there was little effort made to inform the Democrats on police intelligence information or on plans to react.

He also conceded that local police were kept at arm's length by the federal officials who worked through another Nixon associate, Theodore Zanders, assistant police chief in Washington, D.C.

Zanders was provided to local police on a Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant from the Justice Department.

In Washington, he served as head of the elite 2,000-man riot control squad called the Civil Distrubance Unit and frequently was called on by Mitchell to quell demonstrations in Washington.

The federal grant application stated that Zanders and two other officers would "assist in developing operational plans, establishing procedures and coordinating local and state law-enforcement units in effective convention security particularly related to crowd and-or disorder control."

Local police officials complained to The Miami News before the convention that Zanders had taken over local police planning and was using critical Justice Department grant money as a lever to make the local police agree to a tougher plan for handling nondelegates.

Dunn and other state police officials had nothing but praise for Wood, Olsen and Zanders.

● Murphy said that "after the Watergate when we heard of the former CIA and FBI people involved and we knew of Harlington Wood's Republican background, we became very concerned about the whole Secret Service operation.

We called in the Secret Service and told them that we had the highest regard for them but that we had to be careful about information," Murphy said.

Murphy also pointed out that a complete set of keys to the Convention Center Complex had turned up missing and that the Watergate Seven were known to have tried to secure plans of the Convention Hall and to have diagrams of George McGovern's hotel headquarters.

Murphy also claimed that a number of appointed Interior Department officials had checked into the Fountainebleau Hotel a week before the convention under assumed names.

He said that all he knew of the incident was that the officials had guards posted at their doors.

The Fountainebleau was the headquarters for the Democratic Party officers during the convention.

And Murphy related an incident that happened months before convention that he said had since given him cause for concern.

He said a Treasury Department official named Murray Pollner had represented himself as chief of law enforcement for the department and asked Murphy to detail convention plans.

Murphy said he gladly obliged.

"I was surprised to learn later that he was another former Nixon law partner," Murphy said.

Re Miami immediate teletype to Bureau, dated 5/24/73.

Enclosed for the Bureau are Xerox copies of minutes of the joint Convention Planning meetings held in Miami Beach beginning 5/12/72, and terminating 6/30/72 (seven.)

The above enclosures represent minutes of meetings held weekly beginning 5/12/72. These meetings continued until the Intelligence Center was set up at the Convention Complex on or about 6/16/72. (There were one or two overlapping meetings). It should be noted that the minutes for the meeting held 6/9 was not submitted as it is not available at this time. Efforts are continuing to obtain copies of these minutes from Captain [redacted] This may not be possible, however, as the Captain advised that a great deal of his material has been destroyed. The minutes of these meetings usually listed the individuals attending the planning sessions and it should be noted that at each session, [redacted] was present. At these meetings, summaries were furnished by many individuals, including the FBI, concerning the dissident groups planning to attend the conventions. b6 b7C of the FBLE, all intelligence information was disseminated on an "as received basis." The agencies which had desks in the Center were the Miami Beach Police Department, Miami Police Department, Dade County Sheriff's Office, Secret Service, FBI, FBLE, Florida Department of Beverage and U.S. Attorney General, Internal Security Division.

Operation of the Intelligence Center required that all participating agencies would send all intelligence information as quickly as it was developed through their representative to the Center's Information Control and Exchange Staff. The information was logged in, copies were made for and distributed to each representative.

Any information received bearing upon the safety of the Convention Complex was furnished to [redacted] Information received bearing upon the safety of political candidates was furnished to Secret Service who, of course, transmitted the information to the particular candidate. It should be noted again that at all pre-convention intelligence planning sessions during which a summary of intelligence information relating to dissident activities was furnished by all agencies, [redacted] who was in charge of security for the Democratic National Convention, was present. It should also be noted that in addition to these weekly meetings, other weekly meetings, usually on Tuesdays, were held by local and state agencies. [redacted] representing the Democratic National Committee, was present. During the Republican National Convention, [redacted] represented the Republican National Committee. All information received and coordinated at the Intelligence Center that was of importance to the above captioned representatives of both conventions was furnished to them by Supervisor [redacted] In summary, the objectives of the Intelligence Center were to (1) facilitate and encourage a full exchange of intelligence information among participating agencies, (2) to facilitate a coordinated tactical review of incoming intelligence information to insure all operations commanded were kept informed of important developments in a timely manner, (3) to facilitate and encourage the coordinated review of collection efforts by participating agencies and, where appropriate, the development of further intelligence targets together with suggestions as to which agency would be most effective against specific targets.

The Center was partially operative as of 6/12/72, accelerated to full operation (24 hours a day) on or about 6/26/72, returned to a limited operation between conventions and returned to full operation on or about 8/7/72. It was de-activated a short time after the end of the Republican Convention on or about 8/25/72. The Intelligence Center was set up by Executive Order 72-33 of Governor RUBIN ASKEW ✓ (Democrat) on 6/5/72. The Director of on-site convention security was designated as Chief of Police, Miami Beach PD ROCKY POMERANCE. In addition to the above, Governor ASKEW designated a community coordinating task force to encourage dialogue and exchange of information between county and state officials. This was an 18-member citizen group representing all facets of the Greater Miami community.

In conclusion, a summary of all pertinent information, classified and unclassified, relative to the conventions, was furnished to Secret Service on a weekly basis up until the convention and then, of course, all information was immediately disseminated to Secret Service through the Convention Intelligence Center. All unclassified information was furnished to the local authorities through the Miami Beach PD, Dade County Public Safety Dept. and Miami PD. This unclassified information was all returned to the Miami Office upon completion of both conventions.

Strange Political Bedfellows

VIEWPOINT PAGE

By JACK ANDERSON
United Feature Syndicate

TOPPING all the other tactics used against the Democrats in the 1972 campaign, call girls were recruited to romance Democratic leaders and, between kisses, to wheedle political secrets from them at their Miami convention.

Anderson

Senate investigators learned about this unique undercover operation from no less than ex-Attorney General John Mitchell. A summary of his confidential confession describes a meeting with Watergate ringleader G. Gordon Liddy at the Justice Department on Jan. 27, 1972.

"Liddy arrived," states the summary, "with massive charts of an intelligence gathering program which was a huge structural operation with people in different places with different code names and included, among other things, the use of electronic eavesdropping devices, a call girl ring for the Democratic National Convention and other intelligence gathering operations."

Mitchell claimed he was "horrified by the magnitude and the budget" of the Liddy proposal. He, therefore, "directed Liddy to take his charts and burn them." White House counsel John Dean, who also sat in on the session, agreed with Mitchell that the scheme "far exceeded anything of rationality."

LIDDY came back on Feb. 4, according to the summary, "with another intelligence gathering plan but this time without charts. Dean was present and informed Liddy that it was an insult to the Attorney General to bring up matters like this."

But Liddy apparently was undeterred and his scheme strangely survived. By Mitchell's account, he was relaxing in Florida from the rigors of the ITT hearings when campaign director Jeb Magruder showed up with a paper outlining an intelligence operation which he went through briefly and which included electronic surveillance.

"Mitchell told him," continues the summary, "he didn't want to hear anything of this type, and there was no question in Mitchell's mind that Magruder left Key Biscayne fully understanding Mitchell's position on electronic surveillance. Mitchell cannot understand how Magruder could have conceived that he had authority to commence such an operation."

The operation, presumably, included the kiss-and-tell project. Investigators have confirmed that call girls were recruited but have been unable to determine whether they were actually used.

DURING the confidential interrogation by Senate investigators, Mitchell also denied published reports that he received summaries of the Watergate wiretaps under the code name "Gemstone." "The first time he ever heard of Gemstone," says the summary, "was in Jack Anderson's column." (Our story said the Gemstone reports were submitted to Magruder.)

After the Watergate burglars were arrested, Mitchell said "there were continual meetings both at the White House and CRP (campaign committee) concerning Watergate."

When he "woke up on time," he attended regular White House strategy sessions, which were held at 8:15 each morning. Apparently, these were meetings of the President's braintrust which, according to Mitchell, included top aides H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman, Henry Kissinger, Charles Colson, William Timmons and Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen.

"Watergate was discussed regularly at these meetings but initially was an unknown quantity," said Mitchell.

The presence of Kissinger and Petersen at these early Watergate sessions is interesting. Kissinger claimed he played no part in the Watergate affair; Petersen eventually was put in charge of the Justice Department's Watergate investigation.

MITCHELL described Haldeman to the Senate investigators as "the man at the White House closest to the political scene." Mitchell also noted that the deposed presidential counsel, John Dean, "was working for him and was literally stolen from him by the White House."

Notes the Senate summary:

"Mitchell states that he was sorry to see Dean leave in that he was an extremely able, sophisticated and professional lawyer who operated in the true sense of confidentiality. He does however, feel that based on what he has heard and seen of Dean recently that he has broken and he could not rely on him as he has in the past. He also has heard from Dean that he is having serious domestic problems."

It was Dean who introduced Liddy to Mitchell. The former attorney general, after consulting his diaries and logs, set the date as Nov. 24, 1971. Liddy presented Mitchell with a memo outlining the work he was prepared to do for the campaign committee. "There was a brief paragraph," recalled Mitchell, "saying he could take care of intelligence gathering."

Liddy called on Mitchell again two weeks later to discuss the drug abuse program. Otherwise, Mitchell didn't see Liddy again until the Jan. 27 and Feb. 4 meetings to discuss the political espionage operation.

On June 15, Liddy paid his last call on Mitchell. But the ex-attorney general swore it had to do with a controversy over the Corrupt Practices Act. Two days later, Liddy's celebrated Watergate bugging were arrested at gunpoint in the middle of their own corrupt practices.

Demo Convention Plot By Segretti Aide Told

By DOUG CLIETON
Herald Staff Writer

Robert Benz, the Tampa Young Republican enlisted by White House agent provocatuer Donald Segretti for a campaign of political dirty work, tried to "create another Chicago" at the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach, a Tampa man said Tuesday.

George A. Hearing, the Tampa accountant who pleaded guilty to distributing a phony campaign letter attacking Democratic Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Henry Jackson, said Benz tried last April to get his help to disrupt the convention.

"Benz asked me if I would go with him to Miami for the convention to create another Chicago incident," Hearing told The Herald Tuesday.

"He said 'Go find some people — a motorcycle gang or something — and play games, create another Chicago,'" Hearing said Benz told him.

HEARING SAID HE told Benz that he did not want to get involved in that kind of activity. "After that he left me alone," Hearing recalled.

Hearing has appeared before grand juries in Orlando and Tampa three times and has told his story at least once to the FBI.

The accountant, who faces a sentencing hearing June 15, said Benz "made a couple of trips to Miami during the Florida primary and other trips to Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania."

At no time, however, did Benz talk to Hearing about his highly placed contact in Washington, Donald Segretti, Hearing said.

Hearing was recruited by Benz "in December or January of 1971" shortly after Segretti made a trip to Tampa, where he stayed at the Causeway Inn.

In the months preceding the two political conventions in Miami Beach, Benz received 16 phone calls from Segretti from Segretti's home phone in Los Angeles.

HEARING WAS INDICTED by an Orlando grand jury along with Segretti in his part in distributing the phony letter on Sen. Edmund Muskie's stationery. Benz was given immunity in exchange for his testimony and was named as an unidicted co-conspirator.

Benz, who has been unavailable for comment since last October when the news about his involvement with Segretti firs broke, could not be reached Tuesday.

Facing a prison sentence, Hearing earlier told reporters that Benz used him for other dirty tricks.

Among Hearings activities during the primary were:

- Posting about 125 signs in Hillsborough and Pinellas counties recommending a vote for Muskie by the "Mothers for Busing."
- Paying a friend to throw smoke bombs into Muskie headquarters in Tampa the night before the primary.
- Getting five long-haired youths to distribute about 1,000 cards at a George Wallace rally saying, "If you liked Hitler you'll love Wallace."

● Recruiting seven blacks to carry signs in front of a motel where Muskie was campaigning, asking, "Why not a black VP?" The incident occurred after Muskie announced that he didn't think a ticket with a black vice-president could win an election.

Hearing said he assumed Benz was heavily financed from outside the state, "probably Washington."

He recalls Benz saying, "I have a bunch of money from a guy in Washington."

"I knew there must have been a lot of money there because Bob didn't have a job at the time and he did travel a lot," Hearing said.

But Hearing said he never asked Benz what he did on out of state trips or who Benz talked with.

"All he told me was that he was trying to form an organization. And I did know from Bob that there were other people in Florida involved—in Jacksonville and Miami," Hearing said.

WHILE SEGRETTI WAS conferring with Benz via long distance telephone, he was also talking to Doug Kelly, a Miami Young Republican. During the same preconvention months Segretti called Kelly 51 times.

Kelly has repeatedly denied any wrongdoing and admits to talking to Segretti only about 10 or 12 times about "vague" organizational work.

Hearing said he had no knowledge of whom Benz talked with on his trips to South Florida.

While Hearing awaits sentencing, U.S Attorney John Briggs, who won the indictment against Hearing and Segretti, is preparing to go before the Tampa Federal Grand Jury in search of more indictments.

Security at Conventions Successful, Study Says

By ROB ELDER
Herald Staff Writer

So frustrated were some members of the Miami Police Department that they began throwing metal chairs and bashing their riot batons against trees.

So worried were convention officials about stink bombs that they stocked up on aerosol sprays to combat them — and thought about buying $60,000 worth of charcoal filters for the Convention Hall air-conditioning system.

And, although everybody was reluctant about it, it was decided that the personal bodyguards of various politicians would be allowed to tote their guns inside Convention Hall — since Gov. Reubin Askew might someday want an armed guard to accompany him in some other state.

'. . . civil authorities generally fulfilled their dual responsibilities of preserving the public peace while protecting the rights of political dissidents.'
—Report on 1972 political conventions on Miami Beach

THOSE ARE THREE of the sidelights revealed in a still incomplete study of the 1972 national political conventions in Miami Beach.

Entitled "To Make the World Safe for Picnics," the study is the result of Ford Foundation and Russell Sage Foundation grants to the Lemberg Center for the Study of Violence at Brandeis University.

The Lemberg Center closed Dec. 31. But the study's directors, Dr. Jerome Corsi of Franconia College, Franconia, N.H., and Dr. Ralph Lewis of Michigan State University, plan to finish the project this summer and publish it in book form.

If the present draft is any indication, the finished study will contain few surprises for Miami area residents who had a close-up view of the conventions as they occurred.

THE MAJOR conclusions are for the most part those that were apparent at the time.

The study finds, for example, that local law-enforcement agencies "could not or would not" develop a coordinated advance plan for convention security, and that this led state officials to call in such outside consultants as Deputy Chief Theodore Zanders of the Washington, D.C., police department.

And it concludes that the security effort, as a whole, was successful "in that civil authorities generally fulfilled their dual responsibilities of preserving the public peace while protecting the rights of political dissidents."

But to persons with an interest in the historical details of the 1972 conventions, the study is full of tidbits that fit into place like long-lost pieces of a jigsaw puzzle. For example, it contains a running account of the street violence which occurred during the GOP Convention as recorded in the minute-by-minute log of the Miami Beach Police Department.

THE LOG is accompanied by a running account of the observations by neutral observers, such as those who worked with the group called Religious and Community Leaders Concerned (RCLC).

All the accounts reflect the tension and drama that built up during the GOP Convention and culminated in scattered violence on the last two nights.

On the next to final night, for example, the study notes that "Lemberg Center observers noted several Miami Police Department officers throwing metal chairs and beating their riot batons against trees and posts in seeming frustration at being held within the Convention Complex while such intense protests and harassing of Republican Convention attendees were going on."

And on the final night of Nixon's nomination, the police log reads:

"AT 8:07 P.M., a report was received by the FBI that there was a white Ford parked in the rear of the Convention Complex with a bomb in it set to go off at 8:15 p.m. Another call was received at 8:20 p.m. . . . that there was a bomb in the north end of the convention site . . . Extensive searches were conducted, but both calls were apparently false alarms."

The study now comprises 680 pages, with three additional chapters to be written.

"Our goal is to have it out by mid-summer, exactly two years after the convention," Dr. Corsi said in a recent interview. "Hopefully this can be available to people thinking about the next conventions."

"We deliberately avoided a good guy-bad guy approach, and rather tried to describe what happened as it was seen from a variety of points of view," Dr. Lewis says. "For that reason, we've asked about 50 major participants to read the study as it stands now, and send us their comments or corrections so they can be incorported in the final product."
